MOOSE PRIZE WINNERS TESTIFY

Hindu Women Rally to Save Gandhi

Today

Wall Street So Cheerful.
A Long, Long Fast.
A La Follette Beaten.
She Abhors Marriage.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

EMOTIONAL WALL STREET felt SO MUCH better yesterday. Men that sold short, thinking prices were coming down and willing to help them go, covered their sales hastily. More than four million shares were sold. "Plus" signs were scattered throughout the price list, scarcely a "minus" sign visible.

Wheat and cotton were cheerful also. The sad note was the statement:

"There was nothing special to account for the rise."

POOR GANDHI, starting his "death fast," says he is "anxious as anybody to live," and will last as long as possible. He asks no sympathy.

"After the first few days, desire for food will vanish and I shall begin to brood."

He will take no nourishment except water, until he dies, or until the Hindu conscience awakens."

HINDU NATIONAL conscience or consciousness has been asleep for more than a thousand years. It will not awaken easily.

What the effect will be on Hindu public opinion if Gandhi decides at the last moment not to die of starvation, and what the effect on English rule in India if he does starve to death is uncertain. Perhaps the natives will see a miracle in it, if Gandhi lives on.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE, of Wisconsin, was beaten in the primaries yesterday by Walter J. Kohler, as conservative as Gov. La Follette is radical. It is the first time in exactly forty years that any member of the La Follette family has lost an election.

The reason is not obscure. When men lack jobs, they vote to change the government.

That's what makes universal suffrage so valuable. It accepts only RESULTS, not ARGUMENTS.

IN NEW JERSEY, Miss Ruth Ann, no need to mention her last name, rich young woman of Philadelphia, had her choice of going to jail or marrying on the spot the man with whom she had been living.

She told the judge she "abhorred marriage" because she had seen so many "rotten" marriages. But she preferred marriage to jail and she married the gentleman.

When she grows older Miss Ruth Ann will know that marriage is not as bad as she thinks it is now.

SCHOPENHAUER, in his "Studies in Pessimism," says marriage is a conspiracy in which all women have united "to compel every man to support some one woman for life."

That's a poor description. Marriage is a training school in which women for many centuries have been trying to educate men to live decently. They haven't succeeded, but they will succeed in time.

THE STANDARD Oil Company of New Jersey is offered a forty-year monopoly of petroleum sales in Cuba if the company will pay off now the Cuban republic's foreign and internal debts of two hundred million dollars.

The head of Standard of New Jersey, Mr. Teagle, is one who does not move hastily. Such a monopoly, if it would "stand up," might be worth two hundred millions several times over.

But how many things can happen in forty years. A revolution might smash the monopoly, and also make it a little difficult for anybody in Cuba to buy or use gasoline. And $200,000,000 cash in these times is a substantial sum, even for S. O. of N. J.

THREE METHODIST bodies have merged in one of the largest British Protestant churches. Ten thousand rejoiced in Albert Hall. King George sent congratulations through his son, the Duke of York, seeing in the "merger" a "token of divine guidance and blessing and ultimate unity of Christian people, always near my heart."

That unity will come, but not immediately, and Christianity may have changed its beliefs by the time it comes, its attitude toward hell, Jonah and his whale, and a God of vengeance.

HARVEY D. GIBSON, head of the Manufacturers Trust Company, able citizen, consents to become chairman of the Emergency Unemployment Relief Committee in New York once more. Last winter Mr. Gibson raised about twenty million dollars.

It will not be so easy a second time. Plenty of relief will be needed if conditions continue, and generous giving is a thing of which human beings tire quickly.

UNIDENTIFIED POLES fired on Gen. Michael Nicolaievitch Touchachevski, an important military observer for the Soviet government, as he passed through the Minsk railroad station on his way to watch German army maneuvers at Frankfort.

The bullet missed the general, fortunately perhaps for Poland. The Polish government, which had nothing to do with it, might put up some signs saying:

"Please don't tease the bear."

Too much teasing might be serious, for Russia has a big army on land and in the air.

Japan is worried because De Valera, president of the Irish Free State, will preside over the League of Nations Council, pres-

WOMEN TELL DAVIS JURY OF 'LUCKY' NUMBERS

More Than 26,000,000 Tickets Printed, Witness Says

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Some of the "lucky number" prize winners of the Moose charity balls, alleged by the government to have been lotteries, were presented from the witness stand today at the trial of Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, charged with violation of the national lottery laws.

Mrs. Mary Mychlin, of Astoria, N. Y., testified for the government that she had bought two 50-cent tickets for the 1931 ball for her 2-year-old twin daughters and one of them won $5,000.

Mrs. Mychlin, with the excitement of it all still in her voice, testified she had the money put in trust for her daughters.

DID NOT ATTEND BALL

She said when she bought the ticket it had printed on it that $150,000 in prizes would be distributed, with $50,000 for first prize.

Mrs. Mychlin testified she didn't go to the charity ball.

Mrs. Catherine Hafner, of New York, testified she won $200 on one of five tickets she bought for the 1931 charity ball. A slim, good-looking brunette, the witness said she got a check from the New York office of the Moose. She testified she had not attended the charity ball. Prosecutor Louis M. Treadwell asked:

"Were you told you had a chance to win a prize?"

Defense Counsel Charles H. Tuttle objected and Judge Frank J. Coleman sustained the objection.

Mrs. Hafner also testified to seeing the amount of the prizes printed on the tickets.

Wilfred Weis, of the Bronx Moose Lodge, testified he had sold Mrs. Hafner five tickets to the

INDICT WOMEN IN POISON PLOT

Three women were indicted for murder by a grand jury in Criminal Court today.

Mrs. Anna Allas and Mrs. Mary Chalfa, both of Munhall, were charged with poisoning Andrew Allas on April 11, 1932, and killing Steve Allas, 12, on November 18, 1931.

A coroner's jury had exonerated the women in connection with the death of the boy which occurred following a football game. When the older man died, suspicions were aroused, and the boy's body was exhumed and indications of poisoning found, according to the report.

Clara Thomas is charged with having shot George W. Lowery, 47, of Creighton, Pa., July 25 on the Allegheny River bank near the Penn Iron-Steel Company, East Deer Township.

Engaged?

CONSTANCE CUMMINGS

Miss Cummings, the screen actress, who today in Hollywood could only say "a lot of hooey" about the story of her betrothal to Actor George Raft. Said Mr. Raft: "I wish it were true." Said the studio: "You never can tell."

FRAUD CHARGED ON COUNTY ROAD

A grand jury investigation of the construction of the Moss-side road and bridge, which cost the county $27,392.52 more than the $693,111.55 specified in the contract, appeared probable today as a result of a 50-page report by M. C. Conick, auditor of Main & Co. Falsification of records is charged.

The report was transmitted to County Solicitor J. B. Fife by the County Commissioners for study.

Payments were concealed, the report says, through converting one item into another in numerous instances, and without authorization of the County Commissioners.

Norman F. Brown was the Public Works Director at the time the road and bridge were built, and the R. H. Cunningham & Sons Company, contractors.

Prima Donna Suffers Collapse on Stage

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Anny Ahlers, the sprightly German star of the operetta "The Du Barry" playing here, broke down on the stage last night, and it was announced the show would close while the prima donna rested at a seaside resort.

It has been reported that Miss Ahlers is destined for Hollywood.

Husband Left Home To Rest, Vivian Says

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept 22.—(INS.)—He needed rest and went to a hotel, Vivian Duncan, famous stage and screen actress, said today in explaining why her husband, Nils Asther, had left their Hollywood home.

PITTSBURGHERS INDICTED IN RUM QUIZ

45 Linked in Ring By Roxie Long in U. S. Court

The federal grand jury at Erie today returned indictments against 45 members of an alleged rum ring operating in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

Today's indictment resulted from revelations made by Rocco DiPippo, alias Roxie Long, and other members of a gang, already indicted.

Last March, a dozen men were indicted in an alleged rum conspiracy, and confessions by Long and others, federal officers say, resulted in broadening the scope of the inquiry.

A few days before Long was paroled on a state charge, last December, a federal liquor charge was lodged against him. He surrendered in January and made a confession, federal officers say.

The following were indicted:

Patsy Melarango, Mike Damus, Roxie Long, Harry Kelly, Carmen Basco, Arco Triano, Leo Huber, J. G. Cancilla, Sam Perilman, J. Deznoff, Alex Denillo, John Yario, Casimir Kelly, Patsy Cardone, Elmo Lee, Casimo Petty, Angelo Vernacchio, Harry Abbott, Gyp Constantine, William Hoffman, Felice Naccareli, Albert Jaxel, Anthony Marbell, James Carlucci, Abe George, A. Shehabe, A. S. Swad, Phillip Emille, Joe Aowaid, Louis Magrino, James Totino, Edward Albert, John Abraham, Mike Swad, Everett Morgan, Joe Totino, A. Kirshenbaum, Sam Malotowski, Phil Yuritch, Morris Lustig, Frank Lustig, James P. Martarella, Joseph Kaplan, Saul Mallinger and FFrank Mallinger.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today sent Samuel B. Bowman, of Pittsburgh, to jail for two months on a liquor charge and fined seven other Pittsburghers from $25 to $200. More than 50 others pleaded guilty to prohibition charges.

Wales on Flight To Danish Capital

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, again acting as a trade ambassador of the British nation, left today by air for Scandinavia to open the British trade exposition at Copenhagen and to visit Sweden later.

The prince flew in his own plane from his country home at Sunningdale at Croydon, where he embarked in an Imperial Airways liner for Copenhagen. He was to stop at Amsterdam and Hamburg.

Hoover Will Not See Series Games

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—The New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs will open the World Series Wednesday with one distinguished man absent.

President Hoover, who has attended one World Series game each year since his White House occupancy, will not be present at any of the games this year.

ROOSEVELT FOR U.S. CONTROL OF UTILITIES

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

EN ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO ON THE ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, Sept. 22.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt invaded the home state of President Hoover today with the most vigorous challenge that he has yet flung down to his Republican opponent.

Roosevelt's first stop in California was made this morning at Dunsmuir where a halt was made long enough to take aboard a group of Californians who will accompany his train through the state. William G. McAdoo got aboard, accompanied by Maurice E. Harrison, director of the Democratic state campaign, and H. S. McPike, party finance director in California.

The Roosevelt challenge was on the power issue. For the first time on his western tour, the Democratic nominee took off his oratorical gloves at Portland last night and hit hard at Mr. Hoover and his policies.

ATTACKS HOOVER

He portrayed Mr. Hoover as the servant of the private power interests. His policy with regard to the Federal Power Commission, is vetoes of several Muscle Shoals bills, and his "closing the White House doors to the public interest in the St. Lawrence project" all demonstrate, Gov. Roosevelt charged, "that the Republican policy is dominated by private rather than public interest."

For his own part, Gov. Roosevelt vigorously assailed "the Insull monstrosity" and its ilk, and advocated a policy of strict federal regulation of interestate power, of holding companies, and of "piti-

Rail Survey Post Offered Coolidge

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Calvin Coolidge, former President of the United States, will accept the leadership of a commission to investigate the railroad situation and recommend a program for their rehabilitation, it was reported in informed Wall street quarters today.

The post has been offered to the ex-President by a committee formed by the Savings Banks Association and headed by Henry Bruers, president of the Bowery Savings Bank.

The Coolidge acceptance report stimulated the rails in an otherwise reactionary stock market and brought early gains of one to two points. The decline in the rest of the market carried the rails along but they made the best showing on the list.

R.F.C. Reports Drop In Loan Requests

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The number of applications for bank, railroad and insurance company loans from the Reconstruction Corporation has dropped off in the last month.

Wilson McCarthy and Gardner Cowles, Sr., directors of the corporation, said today that the pressure on the corporation had greatly decreased. This indicated, McCarthy said, that the unfavorable condition which prevailed between February 1 and July 15 had passed.

McSparran Declares State Will Go 'Wet'

READING, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—John A McSparran, Secretary of the State Department of Agriculture, believes "Pennsylvania will vote wet this year."

He said so last night just before addressing the Berks County chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. He said he hadn't decided which presidential candidate to support.

STATE NAMES R. F. C. ENVOY

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Pennsylvania's Emergency Relief Bond today moved to end the controversy between Gov. Gifford Pinchot and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and to speed federal aid for Pennsylvania's needy by appointing an emissary to acquaint the R. F. C. with the situation in this state.

Philip C. Staples, chairman of the Philadelphia Emergency Relief Board, was authorized to visit Washington and confer with the R. F. C. Board which has blamed Gov. Pinchot for failure to furnish necessary information for a state loan and which, in turn, was blamed by the Governor for allegedly hamstringing federal aid funds with "fine spun red tape."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—While the second telegram from Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, denouncing President Hoover and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, for delay in the relief loan asked for his state, was being received at the White House, much of the information which the R. F. C has insisted upon as an essential preliminary was being received, it became known today.

ISLAND QUEEN DARES SEA HOP

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—The agent of Queen Salote Toubou, ruler of the Friendly Islands and strongest personality in the South Seas, was in London today mapping out a route over which her majesty will fly to England in her own seaplane.

The trip, to be undertaken soon, will be the most hazardous ever made by a native queen of the dark races.

Queen Toubou, six feet tall and every inch modern, rules her 30,000 subjects with a hand of iron. Her word is law in her little kingdom, situated off the Fiji Islands to the east of Java.

The Friendly Islands, a British possession, are perhaps the only spot in the world where unemployment is unknown. By royal command every subject has an allotment of land to cultivate.

'DEATH FAST' WEAKENING MAHATMA

Wife Allowed to Go And Attend Husband In Prison

By C. S. ANDRADE
International News Service.

BOMBAY, Sept. 22.—The great body of Hindu women in India rallied to save the life of Mahatma Gandhi today as the aged champion of the "Untouchables," famished and weakened, entered the third day of his "fast unto death" in their behalf. He took nothing but water, which he sipped at intervals.

A great demonstration in Bombay brought immediate results as the government granted one of their pleas. Ghandi's wife, who was imprisoned at Gujerat for civil disobedience several months ago, was removed to the Yeravda jail at Poona, where she could aid and comfort her weakening husband.

CONDITION ALARMS

Gandhi's condition was quickly becoming serious, although he tried to appear cheerful to visitors, and this fact spurred negotiators to hurry their efforts to reach an agreement on an electoral arrangement for the "Untouchables," the only apparent way to induce Gandhi to end his fast.

Representatives of both the high caste Hindus and the depressed "Untouchables" conferred with Gandhi, presenting their respective plans and trying to hit upon a compromise.

It appeared likely the political differences between the caste Hindus and the "Untouchables" would be settled, thus enabling the starving "saint" to abandon his fast within two or three days.

100,000 JOIN FAST

It was estimated that more than 100,000 sympathizers with Gandhi's cause fasted with him throughout the first day of his self-inflicted, gradual torture, but the number of fasters fell off considerably on the second day.

Determined efforts have been made to throw the Hindu temples open to the "Untouchables," and orthodox Hindu priests have combined to fight this move.

M'Cormick Estate Sued for Hat Bill

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Representing the balance due on a bill for gowns, coats and hats, a claim for $7,066 was on file in Probate Court today against the estate of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

The claim was filed by the McAvoy shop and declared that the rest of the original bill for $28,121 had been paid.

Another claim for $2,540 was filed by the Ravinia Opera Company, which Chicago's late society queen had supported.

Graf Reduces Time Of Atlantic Flight

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Cutting down her flying time to 67½ hours, the Graf Zeppelin arrived last night, completing another of her several trips to South America. She brought 10 passengers and mail.

Mrs. Borah Sinks, Rush Parrot Fever Serum

BOISE, Ida., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The condition of Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the senior Senator from Idaho, grew worse today under an attack of psittacosis, or parrot fever.

Her physician, Dr. Ralph Falk, said she had not held the improvement she exhibited yesterday.

Three physicians were called into consultation on the case, which yesterday was diagnosed by Dr. Falk as psittacosis after he was advised of the death of a "love bird" which Mrs. Borah purchased three weeks ago.

Discovery of the death of the bird, her physician said, led to an investigation which disclosed it had come from California, where cases of the disease have occurred.

When the nature of the illness was learned, it was recalled here that the owner of the store, William McGuffin, died several days ago. His ailment was not diagnosed as psittacosis.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—In response to a telegram from Dr. Ralph Falk, of Boise, Idaho, attending the wife of Senator Borah, the Public Health Service today prepared a psittacosis convalescent serum for her treatment, to be sent by air mail.

Father Cox Flying Home To Aid Stranded Party

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 22.—Father James R. Cox, of Pittsburgh, presidential nominee of the Jobless party, ate a 25-cent meal last night and slept in a 50-cent bed.

He and his caravan, which was stranded in Tucumcari Tuesday night, arrived here last night and made their headquarters in a little hotel, creaking with age, hidden away on a side street. However, newspapermen found him and he again asserted his intention of going through with his campaign.

It was a clergyman friend of the nominee who furnished funds for the caravan to reach Albuquerque and to find accommodations for the night.

Today Father Cox was to embark on an air journey to Pittsburgh in an effort to raise funds to carry on his campaign. The vice presidential nominee, Dr. Victor C. Tisdal, of Elk City, Okla., is financing the air journey.

From Albuquerque the airplane was to carry Father Cox to Kansas City, where he will remain overnight. Resuming his journey by air Friday morning, he is scheduled to reach Pittsburgh at 6:13 p. m. (Pittsburgh time) that evening.

BANDITS SHOOT YOUTH, PERIL 11 IN TWO HOLDUPS HERE

THREE WOMEN MENACED BY THUGS

Squirrel Hill Store Robbers Wave Weapons

A gang of four men who shot down the attendant of a barbecue with a shotgun and then fired a dozen shots at two unarmed youths who pursued them were being sought by county detectives today, while city detectives and police sought trace of three bandits who held up a Squirrel Hill drug store, menacing nine persons, including three women.

Investigating the actions of four men seen lurking near the Pleasant Hills barbecue on the Lebanon Church road, Louis Hogler, 18, of Willock, the attendant, was fired upon five times as he left the roadhouse. Part of one charge from the shotgun struck Hogler in the left leg. He was taken to South Side Hospital. His condition is not serious.

The Pleasant Hills barbecue is located near the County Airport and has been held up several times.

FIRE AT 2 IN CHASE

The gunmen escaped in their automobile pursued by Winzel Kozak, 22, and Frank Pasqualani, companions of the wounded youth. During the chase, which ended in Elizabeth, a dozen shots were fired from the fleeing machine, Pasqualani said. They all went wild.

He said:

"We were unarmed, but took up the pursuit, hoping we could obtain the license number of the machine used by the gunmen. We lost its trail in Elizabeth when we turned off a side street to hunt for the chief of police."

William Green is owner of the barbecue. He was not present at the time of the shooting.

Police were without trace of the three bandits who obtained $178 in the holdup last night of the Woodlawn Pharmacy, Forbes street and Woodlawn avenue.

3 WOMEN THREATENED

Among the nine persons held at bay by thugs were three women patrons—Mrs. A. G. Rieck, of 216 Gladstone road; Mrs. Frederick W. Willey, of 212 Gladstone road, and another woman whose name police did not learn. John Early, a brother of Mrs. Rieck, was robbed of $4.

One of the bandits remained at the door and threatened the customers with a gun, while the other two forced Louis Gordon, the proprietor, and his brother, I. H. Gordon, and Meyer Lebovitz, the manager, into the prescription room where two carpenters were engaged in repair work. The carpenters, too, were ordered to hold up their hands.

After forcing the proprietor's brother to surrender $74 the gunmen rifled the three cash registers of $100 and fled.

Auto Plate Forms To Be Mailed Nov. 7

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Application forms for 1933 motor vehicle license plates will not be mailed to car owners until November 7, a month later than in previous years, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles announced today. The 1933 plates cannot be used until the last two weeks of December.

The 1933 plates will have a blue background with gold letters.

Child Dead, Three Ill Of Mystery Malady

CANTON, O., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A strange malady today caused the death of 11-year-old William M. Johns. His two sisters and a brother are in a critical condition.

An autopsy failed to reveal the cause of death and Coroner T. C. McQuate said the child was not a victim of infantile paralysis.

Typhoid Cases Laid To Impure Wells

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Contaminated wells and springs are held responsible by County Medical Director Dr. M. B. Magoffin for the majority of 14 cases of typhoid fever quarantined since August 8. Since September 3 only three new cases were reported.

Hard Fight Ahead, Senator Tells Hoover

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Senator Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, after a conference today with President Hoover, said he had reported the campaign in his state would be "close and will require a hard fight."

ball. He said he kept five tickets himself, but he didn't win any prize.

CONVENTION RECORDS

The 1931 Moose convention in Atlantic City was informed of the charity ball, of the financial success of the affair, and told of plans for a similar one the next year, it was brought out.

The government introduced this evidence in an attempt to disprove the defendant's claim that he did not know anything of the 1930 and 1931 affairs which are alleged to have been lotteries.

The minutes of the 1931 convention of the Loyal Order of Moose showed that William F. Broening, Mayor of Baltimore and member of the Supreme Council in making his report, said:

"In addition to the profits made by the local lodge, which amounted to approximately half a million dollars, $150,000 was contributed as a result of the entertainments as a special donation to Mooseheart.

"The council concurs in the plan developed for conducting these charity balls and recommends that the idea be continued this year, and every effort be made to enlist the cooperation and enthusiastic support of all the lodges."

This information was brought out during the questioning of John Livine, of St. Paul, shorthand reporter at the convention, who was the first witness today.

PLAN TO LINK DAVIS

Through Livine the government sought only to show that the reports of the convention were accurate, planning later to quote remarks by Davis through which the prosecution has indicated it hopes to show that Davis knew and approved of alleged lotteries conducted by the Moose in the guise of "charity balls."

James W. Reed, of Scranton, Pa., solicitor of the Eureka Specialty Printing Company, testified his firm printed part of the tickets for the 1931 charity ball.

Reed testified he obtained the order from Bernard C. McGuire, promoter and real estate operator, of Aurora, Ill. McGuire was hired by the propagation department for work on the charity ball.

He said he also discussed printing of the tickets with Raymond Walsh, of Philadelphia, aide to McGuire.

26,208,460 TICKETS

The solicitor testified that his company printed 609,684 books for the 1931 charity ball.

Some books had 12 tickets and others had 40 tickets, each ticket was to be sold for 50 cents, he said.

There were 26,208,460 tickets printed, and if all were sold at 50 cents apiece, receipts would have been $13,104,230.

The witness said he had received other printing jobs from McGuire, including printing of coupons and tickets for the Shriners, Eagles, Knights of Columbus and other fraternal orders.

Reed testified the tickets were ordered delivered to the B. C. Merchandising Company at 136 West Fifty-second street, New York City.

The witness said that on this particular printing job some of the tickets were printed with the name of other fraternal orders on them, including the Eagles, Shriners and Knights of Columbus.

Alex Stecker, of the Eureka Company, testified that a consignment of tickets were sent by parcel post to B. C. McGuire, 136 West Fifty-second street, New York City, October 3, 1931.

One indictment against Davis, as well as McGuire, charges sending lottery tickets through the mail.

The government is attempting to show that $100,000 from the proceeds of the $3,000,000 Moose charity balls, alleged to have been lotteries, passed into the personal accounts of the former Secretary of Labor.

DEFENSE TO EXPLAIN

However, Charles J. Margiotti, of Pittsburgh, chief counsel for Davis, told International News Service that the financial transactions introduced by the prosecution will be "fully explained" when the defendant presents his side of the case.

Through Melvin Carnahan, auditor of the Fidelity Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, the government introduced the following purported transactions:

In 1927, Mrs. Jean R. Davis, wife of the Senator, obtained a note for $150,000 on collateral of numerous securities in her husband's name.

On October 1, 1930, there was a balance due on her note of $127,418.50, plus interest of $658.32.

On that date, her note was paid through a check drawn from the account of the "organization department" of the Moose.

The account in the organization department's name was previously credited with $150,000, through a loan for which Senator Davis indorsed the note.

NOTE REDUCED

Then, on January 9, 1931, shortly after the drawings were made for the prizes given in connection with the 1930 charity ball, according to the government, $100,000 was applied against the note indorsed by Davis, reducing it to $50,000.

The $100,000 payment was made through three checks, $50,000, $30,000 and $20,000, from Fred W. Jones, treasurer of the organization department. The government charges Jones was "financial agent" for Davis and that the money represented by the checks was from the profits incident to promoting the charity ball.

Star Gridder Ends Life by Shooting

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Lying on carefully spread newspapers at the end of a pier the body of Harry R. Jackson, of St. Joseph, Mo., former University of Missouri football star, was found here today with a bullet hole through his skull.

At the side of the body was a pistol. Police said it apparently was a case of suicide.

Woman Hurt in Fall Dies of Pneumonia

Mrs. Lucy Fallon, 62, 822 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, died at her home today of pneumonia. She was injured in a fall on the stairs at her home, August 25.

Holds Hoover Brings Misery to Masses

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—William G. Pickrel, Lieutenant Governor of Ohio, speaking today at Democratic campaign meetings here, declared:

"The Hoover administration brings exaggerated wealth to a few and misery and disaster to the masses."

He also charged the President with evasion on the prohibition question.

Doughboy's Love Letter Delayed 14 Years

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—From the battle-torn fields of France after an interlude of more than 14 years, a letter has made its way to the "only girl" of a former service man.

Albert Mellon, of Philadelphia, penned the letter hurriedly in an abandoned house near the front. He was serving with the One Hundred and Third Engineers of the Twenty-Eighth Division.

In the excitement of an attack the letter was forgotten, and left behind.

Mellon, in fact, beat the note home by many years and married "Anna"—the girl to whom it was addressed—and the present Mrs. Mellon.

The Rev. Stanley V. Wilcox, rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Chester, Pa., himself a former service man, was the one to finally deliver the letter. He was abroad with his family this summer. In going over the battlefields, he visited the house where the note had been written.

Residents of the house produced it among other war souvenirs and the pastor offered to accept the belated role of mailman.

CITY GARBAGE BID CHANGE PLEDGED

Long-Term Contract Promised by Herron After Protests

Protests against City Council's action in deciding on a one-year contract for garbage and rubbish disposal have resulted in a statement from John S. Herron, president of Council, in which he promises that a long-term contract will be provided early next year.

A contract of less than five years is said to give a virtual monopoly to the American Reduction Company and the Allegheny Garbage Company, firms already in the field.

HEARING ASKED

An immediate public hearing on the garbage and rubbish problem has been asked by J. W. Bamford, head of the taxation committee of the Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers Association. Bamford said:

"The present price of waste collection is entirely too high, according to our information. The only way to get it down is by competition and a one-year contract prevents that."

Herron declared Council has listened to several plans, most of which would eventually put the city in the garbage and rubbish business. He said:

"However, we feel that perhaps, in fairness to all, it would be well to provide early next year for a revised specification which will permit a five to 10-year contract with a sufficient guarantee that the city would not be obligated to assume any portion of this business."

SAVINGS CITED

Herron declared the city has saved approximately $100,000 in garbage and rubbish costs this year compared with last, and expressed the hope for further savings in the one-year contract for 1933. Other Councilmen were silent on the garbage contract.

Garbage and rubbish collection costs last year, according to city records, amounted to approximately $1,720,000. Council yesterday rejected the request of Health Director C. B. Maits for permission to ask bids for one, two and three years.

Industrial experts have disclosed that to handle a garbage and rubbish collection contract equal to that awarded by the city, an investment of at least $1,000,000 is necessary. Few organizations are willing to risk such an outlay for a one-year contract.

Companies in Cleveland, Columbus and Philadelphia have expressed inclination to bid on the contract, but it was believed unlikely they would compete for a single year.

Peace 'Hope Chest' Presented Stimson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Secretary Stimson's friends had a little fun at his expense last night at a dinner given by Mrs. Stimson in celebration of his sixty-fifth birthday.

The Secretary of State told newspapermen today that one of his presents was a "hope chest" from "signatories of the Kellogg peace pact," filled with battleship models.

Suicide Identified As Poor Farm Inmate

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Sept. 22.—The body of the man, found hanging to a tree Sunday, was identified as Marko Kares, 53, inmate of the Beaver County Poor Farm.

She's Sued for $100,000

MRS. MYRTLE TANNER BLACKLIDGE, SHE'S SUING AND SUED

SUED OVER LOVE OF POLICEMAN

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former internal revenue collector for northern Illinois, was made defendant in a $100,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, alleging alienation of affections.

Mrs. Nottingham said Mrs. Blacklidge stole the love of her husband, Norman E. Nottingham, a policeman.

Mrs. Blacklidge resigned from the revenue post in January, 1931, after publication of the faro swindle in which she lost $50,000 to card sharps at Springfield, Ill. The money had been borrowed from Edward R. Litsinger, a political leader.

She afterwards brought suit against Litsinger for $150,000, alleging defamation because of his public statements concerning the faro game.

War Moves Nearer To Colombia, Peru

TABATINGA, Colombia, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—War between Colombia and Peru moved a step nearer today when the Peruvian gunboat America refused to allow boats of other nations to approach Leticia, important channel port in the headwaters of the Amazon River, ceded to Colombia in 1922.

Peruvian citizens, who seized the city September 1, were fortifying it to resist attack.

Sewer Gas Blast In Penn Avenue

Two explosions of gas in a manhole near Penn avenue and Nineteenth street called out firemen shortly before noon today. No one was injured and traffic was not interrupted.

APPEAL M'KEE JOB RULING

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Universal.)—Defeated in the first round of the legal battle over a mayoralty election this fall, Tammany Hall today was prepared to appeal from Supreme Court Justice McGeehan's decision that Mayor McKee must remain in office until January 1, 1934.

Official notice of the appeal probably will be filed today after Harold R. Medina, counsel for Mayor McKee, prepares a court order based on Justice McGeehan's decision and the latter signs it.

The argument before the Appellate division probably will be held next Tuesday. All sides have expressed a desire to expedite the case so a final decision may be obtained before October 15, the final date for nominations by county committees.

Will Help Students Go Home to Vote

OBERLIN, O., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Declaring "politics begins in the home town," Dr. Ernest Hatch Wilkins, president of Oberlin College, has offered his students free transportation to Cleveland and excused absences from classes if they wish to vote in the presidential election. He urged them to vote "intelligently."

Snowden May Quit Over Ottawa Pact

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Viscount Snowden, lord privy seal, and several Liberal cabinet ministers and under-secretaries will resign next week unless the British government modifies certain Ottawa conference agreements and reverses its present tariff policy, the London Daily Mail said today.

REED FINDS U. S. ALONE IN STAND ON JAPAN

France, England Not Anxious to Raise Manchuria Issue

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—France and England were understood in authoritative American circles today to have given Senator David A. Reed an impression of "caution and reserve" on the subjects of Manchuria and Japan.

This became known as the Pennsylvania Senator left for the Riviera after conversations in London and Paris with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon, the home secretary, of Great Britain, and Premier Edouard Herriot, of France.

It was emphatically pointed out that while Senator Reed had no official mission or authority to conclude agreements, he did receive first-hand knowledge in his capacity as a Senator.

It was believed the Pennsylvanian found both France and England "attached to the sanctity of treaties" and displaying as well, "a certain caution and reserve as to what concrete attitudes will be adopted in the Manchurian affair."

The impression gleaned in an authoritative American quarter was that neither England nor France wishes to antagonize Japan and that they want to keep her, like Germany, as a great power in the League of Nations and within the framework of world peace organisms generally.

Both Senator Reed and Ambassador Edge are preparing to participate in the coming campaign in the United States. In fact, the Ambassador started for home today. Senator Reed, after a brief stay on the Riviera will sail for home on September 29.

Britain, France Balked In Arms Talk Curb

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Arthur Henderson, chairman of the World Disarmament Conference Bureau, spiked a move by England and France today to prevent the bureau from discussing outstanding political questions involved in disarmament.

The bureau, a sort of steering committee for the general conference, is making preparations for resumption of the general meeting. Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian representative, proposed that the bureau take up the Russian or American proposals for substantial reductions in arms.

This brought immediate objections from Sir John Simon, the British delegate, and Joseph Paul-Boncour of France, who declared that the bureau was not competent to deal with these matters and would better leave them to the general commission.

Mr. Henderson, who was foreign secretary on the last British Labor cabinet, denied their contention vigorously and expressed the hope, as he adjourned the meeting until Monday, that the proposals on these important questions would be ready for consideration on that day or the next.

Labor Non-Partisan, G.O.P. Quotes Green

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A statement from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, stating the federation is maintaining a non-partisan political policy in the present campaign, was made public today at Republican national campaign headquarters.

ently, when the Manchurian question is discussed.

Japan does not like that, believing that De Valera may carry as far as Manchuria his idea that each nation should control itself and not be controlled by an emperor, at a distance.

THERE ARE in the world about thirty million radio sets, more than half in this country. More than one-half the world's automobiles are in this country, more than half the vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines, improved farming implements, electric lights, etc.

The marvel is that we manage to have so much while spending on criminal rackets, as G. L. Hofstetter, of Chicago, proves more money than it cost to run the war, more than ten thousand million dollars every year. We can't keep that up, forever.

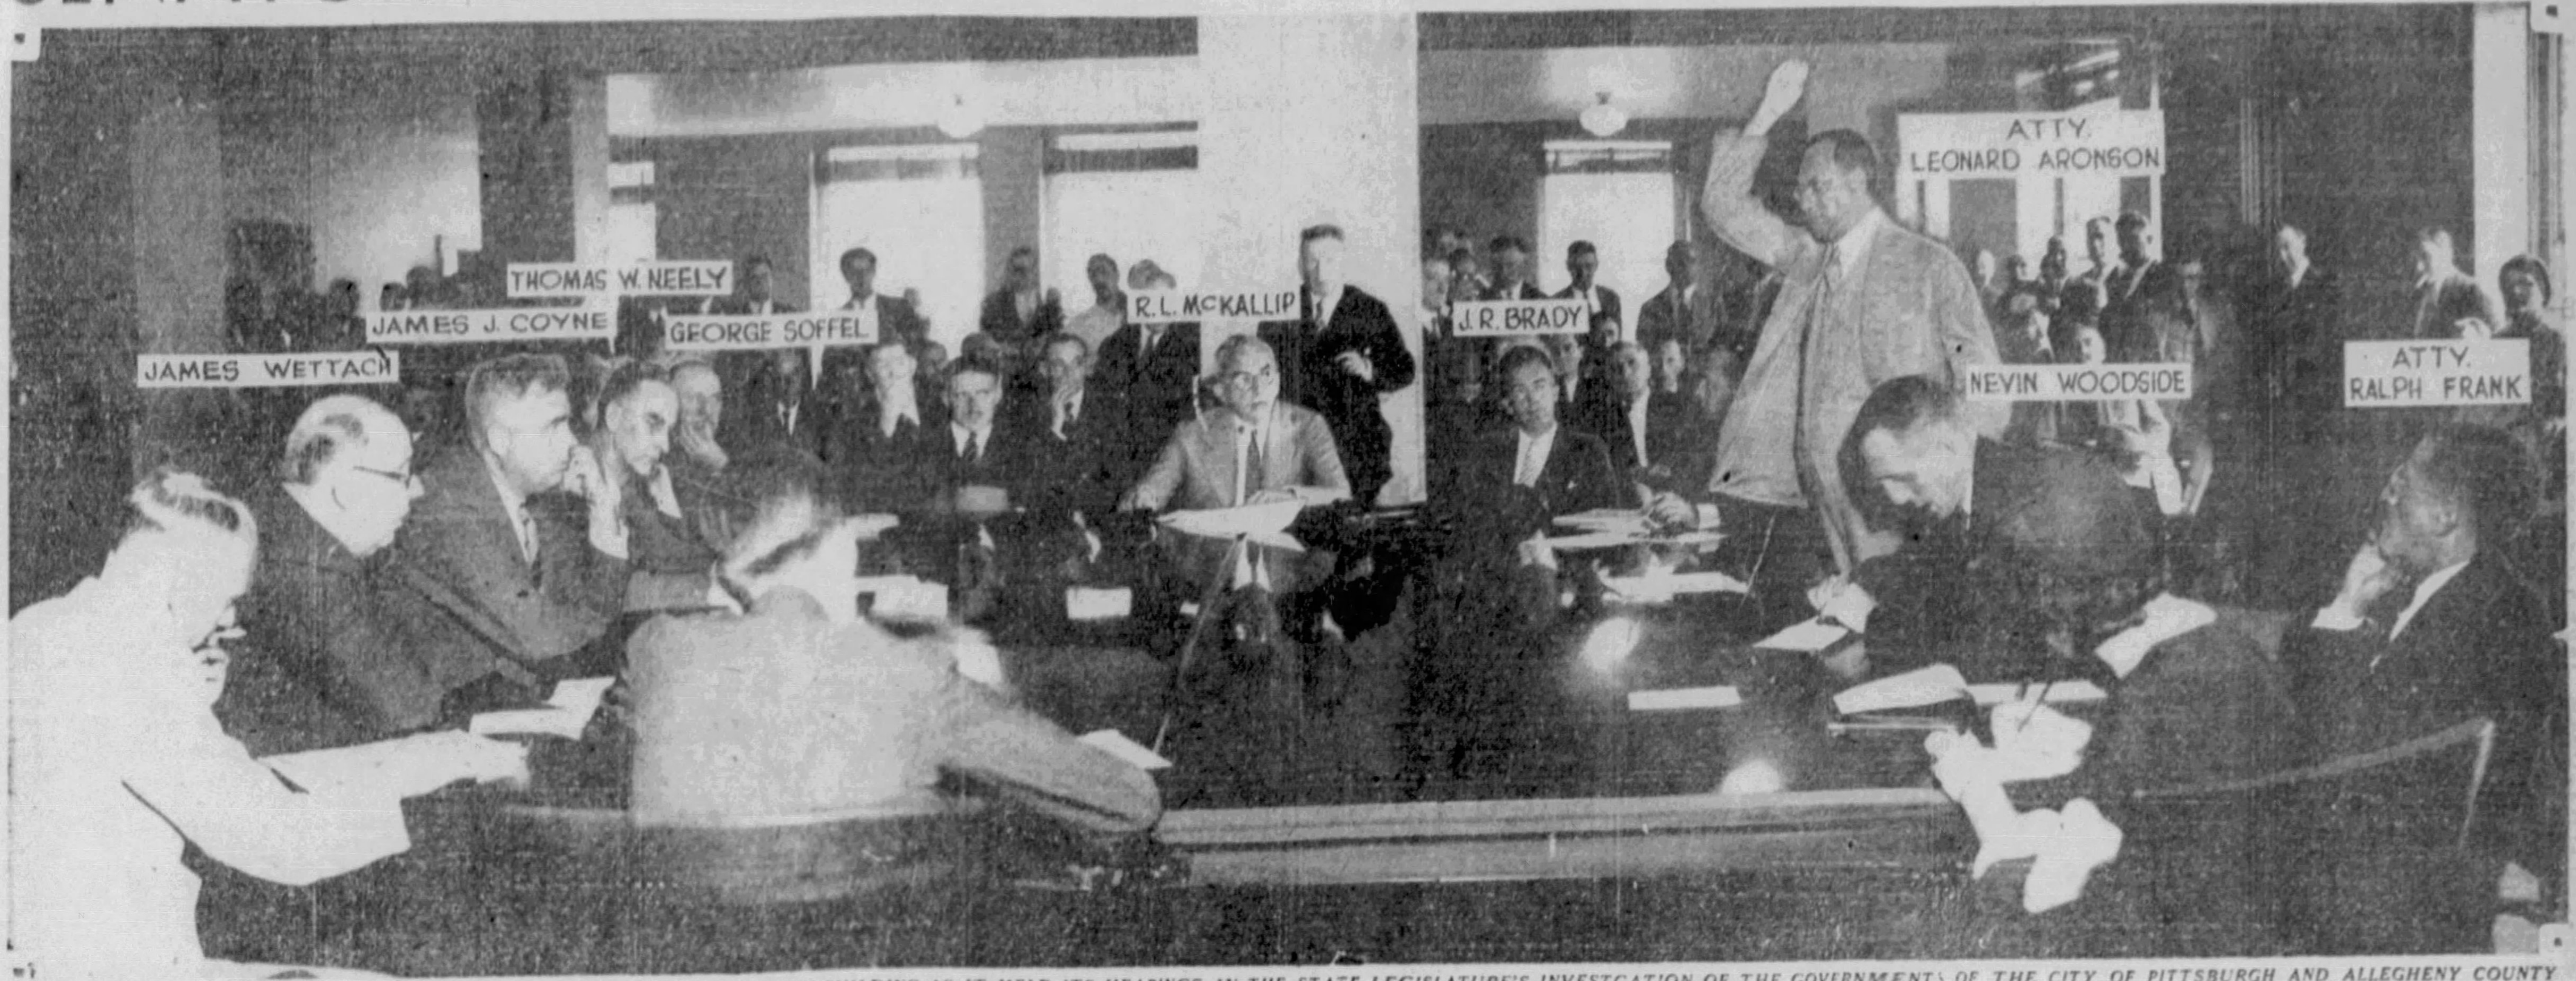
SENATOR COYNE SITTING IN HIS CITY-COUNTY PROBE



STATE SENATOR JAMES J. COYNE'S COMMITTEE IN SESSION AT THE COUNTY BUILDING AS IT HELD ITS HEARINGS IN THE STATE LEGISLATURE'S INVESTIGATION OF THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE CITY OF PITTSBURGH AND ALLEGHENY COUNTY

Senator Coyne with three members of his committee of five—the Messrs. Wettach, Soffel and Neely—as Attorney Aronson spoke for realtors pleading for lower taxes on real estate. Mr. McKallip and Mr. Brady are from the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, interested in lower taxes.

School Head Meets Coyne 'Waste' Charge

Probe Welcome, Says Aaron; Economy Ideas Aired

Senator James J. Coyne's charge that the Board of Public Education operated like a "closed corporation" and was extravagant was not only denied today, but the senator's investigating committee was welcomed with open arms to scrutinize the school expenditures.

Marcus Aaron, president of the board, declared:

"We are confident that we will be able to demonstrate that rigid economies have been made and are being made in the operation of the schools, and that the affairs of the school district have been conducted in the open and in the interests of the schoolchildren and the taxpayer, and not like a 'closed corporation.'"

Aaron denied also that members of the board had inspired rumors that Coyne favored a reduction in teachers' salaries.

BOARD FACES PROBE

As the Senator's committee which is investigating the city and county governments began its work yesterday, the Senator made plain that the committee would study the board's expenditures.

Other targets which the Senator revealed are the Board of Viewers, the city and county Boards of Assessors, City Treasurer's office and Fire Marshal's office. He feels that all these offices, Fire Marshal excepted, should be elective, not appointive, and that the two assessment boards should be merged.

The Senator did not mention the Bureau of Elections, at which he was expected to aim his guns. Neither did he comment on the findings of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, which reported an overwhelming public opinion in favor of abolishing the Delinquent Tax Collector's office, which last year brought the Collector more than $100,000 in fees. At the last session of the Legislature Coyne "killed" such a proposal.

COMPLAINTS HEARD

Complainants at yesterday's hearing included John Dimling, 70-year-old retired downtown businessman, who told of his taxes increasing while his property income decreased, and Joseph Vitchestain, editor of the National Labor Tribune, who complained of the cost of city libraries and schools.

Attorney I. Leonard Aronson, president of the United States Real Estate Company, argued that both city and county assessors were not qualified, and suggested abolishing publication of the delinquent tax lists.

Maj. Philip Matthews, director of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Governmental Research, advocated elimination of duplicated efforts.

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board's lengthy recommendations were presented by R. L. McKallip, vice president, and J. R. Brady, executive secretary.

Coyne himself declared that his only motive was to reduce taxes. With him on the committee, which is approved by the State Senate, are Senator Morris Einstein, Assemblymen James Wettach, George Soffel and Thomas W. Neely.

Edward G. Robinsons Wait 'Blessed Event'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—(Universal.)—Edward G. Robinson, one of the cinema's ablest delineators of sinister characters, will play his first father role in the near future. Mrs. Robinson, the beautiful and talented Gladys Lloyd, will have the role of the mother.

The forthcoming Robinson "blessed event" has been veiled in deepest secrecy. Even close friends of the pair have not been aware that they are expecting a child.

KIDNAP CHARGE MADE BY BOY

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A 13-year-old boy who told police he is from Pittsburgh early today walked into a police station and announced he had just escaped from a man who kidnaped him.

Giving his name as Benny Herman, as police questioned him, the boy said:

"Well, I was going to school out home and a guy asked me to show him the train station. I got in his car and then he drove all the way up here. He just got out a minute or so ago, and I ran away from him."

Members of Benny Herman's family today doubted the kidnaping report the boy made to Baltimore police, according to a brother, Isaac. Benny disappeared from the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs. Jacob Herman, 1920 Bedford avenue, after attending school Tuesday morning. The Missing Persons Bureau was notified of his absence the next day

The family knew of no threats or persons to substantiate the kidnaping, the brother said. A member of the family was to leave today to return the boy.

Pittsburghers Seek New Arson Trial

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 22.—Motions for new trials were filed by L. J. Kamons, Pittsburgh stogie manufacturer, and his son, Abbon Kamons, also of Pittsburgh, convicted of arson in the burning of the Daniel Lazor shoe store, Ambridge.

Wins His Freedom By Plea to Pay Walsh Tribute

His plea that he wanted to pay his last respects to his old friend, Police Lieut. William J. Walsh, who died Monday, won release for Hugh Dolan, 50, in Central Police Court today. Dolan, long missing from his haunts in Pittsburgh's "Bowery," told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg he had come all the way from Philadelphia to attend the funeral of his friend. He had been arrested on a drunkenness charge.

Two hundred policemen each dropped a carnation on Walsh's bier at his home, 528 Natchez street, Mt. Washington, yesterday. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in St. Justin's Catholic Church.

ENGLISH TO ASK COYNE'S AID

Councilman W. Y. English, if called before the Coyne committee investigating costs of local government, will recommend that Pittsburgh be given permission by the Legislature to settle all damage claims and viewers' proceedings on improvement projects before the jobs are started.

Pointing out that the city's bonding power is weakened by carrying damage claim charges over a period of years, English told his colleagues late yesterday no improvement costing more than $50,000 should be started until all claims are settled.

Issuance of refunding bonds to pay claims and contractors' charges weakens the city's financial structure, it was pointed out.

HARLOW 'RIVAL' HELD SUICIDE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury decided last night Dorothy Millette, prominently mentioned in connection with the death of Paul Bern, film executive, committed suicide by leaping into the Sacramento River from the steamer Delta King September 7.

The jury returned a suicide verdict after hearing testimony and depositions of Delta King crew members, H. L. Karrick, Walnut Grove lumberman, and Edward J. Sullivan, clerk of the San Francisco hotel where Miss Millette lived prior to her disappearance.

P. Cantor and Lorenz O'Hare, waiters aboard the Delta King, said they served Miss Millette after the boat left San Francisco and noticed she was nervous.

Miss Millette's body was found a week ago yesterday in Georgiana slough, near Walnut Grove, where she leaped three days after Bern, th husband of Jean Harlow, film star, shot himself to death in Hollywood.

Trades Red Cross Flour for 'Moon,' Gets 30 Days

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Sept. 22.—William Keogh today began a 30-day sentence in the county jail for trading a sack of flour, obtained on a relief order, for a pint of moonshine.

Informed of Keogh's trade, police arrested him on a disorderly conduct charge and then raided the home of John Phillips, 880 Second avenue, where they reported seizing 40 pints of home brew and a 10-gallon crock of beer mash. Phillips is under $1,000 bond for a hearing Friday night before Justice of the Peace Jenkin Howell, on a Snyder act charge.

CARNEGIE DAY FETE DROPPED

Shades of Andrew Carnegie!

That the Carnegie Institute, founded by the steel king who made his meteoric rise through a series of Republican administrations, should cancel its annual memorial to him because of lack of funds, under a Republican administration!

The rosy-cheeked old Scotsman, drawing up his will leaving millions for Carnegie Institute, certainly never foresaw the announcement of Samuel Harden Church, its president, in the presidential year of 1932 Church said:

"The Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Institute voted yesterday to cancel the celebration of Founder's Day for this year, which would otherwise have taken place on October 13."

Interviewed today, Church said:

"Well, we really skip Founder's Day this year for two reasons.

"One, of course, is money. Founder's Day doesn't cost much, but it costs something.

"The other is that all speakers we might have wanted to speak on non-partisan subjects are wrapped up in this political campaign. We expect to have our regular Founder's Day and International Exhibition of Paintings next year."

Millikan in Seattle For 'Ray' Flight

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Hoping to find an answer to one of the mysteries of the cosmic ray some 22,000 feet above Spokane, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, famed physicist, journeyed there today.

An Army observation plane was ready at Felts Field to make the first of four flights here contemplated by Dr. Millikan in the next four days.

Belle Bennett's Condition Grave

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The condition of Belle Bennett, film actress, who collapsed while on a vaudeville tour in the East recently, was described as critical today by physicians and she was removed to a hospital. Doctors said they did not believe she was in immediate danger.

Mrs. Hoover Aids Poor, Sews for Red Cross

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Even on a balky sewing machine, Mrs. Hoover can turn a fine seam for the Red Cross.

She visited the workrooms yesterday where 30 whirring machines, each operated by a volunteer woman worker, were turning cloth that came from federally-owned cotton into pretty print dresses for needy little girls, and substantial shirts for needy little boys.

The machines were all donated for such use, and some of them were rather ancient models. Upon one of these Mrs. Hoover chanced when she sat down to "try her hand" at the work. She first asked:

"Does anyone know how to drop the foot of this machine?"

All the workers tried to help, but none offered the key to the puzzle before she herself had found the gadget.

The machine smoothly stitched the side-seam of a little madras dress that will help some lucky little girl to stay in school this winter.

WOMEN BEATEN IN LEVEE CAMPS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Miss Helen Boardman, former Red Cross worker, today testified before Brig. Gen. G. B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of army engineers, on conditions she found in an investigation of 22 contractors' labor camps on Mississippi flood control projects.

The hearing was closed, but an advance statement on what her testimony would be, given out in behalf of Miss Boardman by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, described conditions "without exception unspeakable" with "brutality the rule." Miss Boardman was quoted as reporting:

"Women were beaten for not having meals ready on time. Some of the contractors and foremen were armed with rifles. I saw them myself. The heat was terrible. The men were driven in a temperature of 120 degrees in swamps filled with mosquitos."

Miss Boardman described the workers as "terrified and afraid to talk," the statement said. She blamed the contract system used by the War Department for the worst abuses.

Corliss Palmer Denies Stealing Love of Agent

4 FOUND GUILTY IN ARSON RING

All four defendants in the Rankin arson ring case, in whose trial stereopticon views were flashed on a screen as evidence, were found guilty in Criminal Court today.

Frank and Rose Getz, John Mihalchick and John Andrina were convicted of arson in the burning of the Getz home, 311 Braddock avenue, Rankin. All except Andrini were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud an insurance company.

Vincent Prato, who turned state's evidence, had pleaded guilty.

Visiting Judge S. L. Reed congratulated the jury. He said:

"I am glad to see we have jurors who will find people guilty who are guilty."

Mihalchick pleaded guilty when called for trial along with Frank Nanci and Mary Mannos, charged with arson in the burning of Nanci's home in Swissvale March 8.

The other defendants were remanded to jail on motion of Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Jackson. Sentence will be pronounced following a verdict in the second trial.

Taller Policemen Sought by Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Chicago is going in for taller policemen. Each of 400 men ordered by Mayor Anton J. Cermak to be added to the force by December 1, must be at least 5 feet 9 inches tall.

The former minimum height for policemen was 5 feet 8 inches.

Beauty Named as Co-Respondent in Divorce Suit

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—A vigorous denial of "wrongdoing" was the answer today of Corliss Palmer Brewster, the "Georgia Peach," to a $100,000 heart balm suit charging her with pilfering the love of a married man.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Estelle A. Cohen, wife of Albert J. Cohen, actors' agent. Mrs. Cohen, daughter of a Philadelphia manufacturer, also named the blonde beauty as co-respondent in a divorce suit filed simultaneously with the damage action.

Miss Palmer, estranged wife of Eugene V. Brewster, erstwhile millionaire magazine publisher, admitted that she was "real friendly" with Cohen. She added:

"But I'm not guilty of wrongdoing. Our conduct has been very circumspect."

Mrs. Cohen charged that Miss Palmer and Cohen met clandestinely, and took various trips out of town together.

The heart balm suit came as the climax to a turbulent life drama for the dashing beauty who first won prominence by her marriage to Brewster, noted as a lavish spender who was seen frequently at the fashionable playgrounds of the world.

They were married in 1926, a ceremony that was followed by legal tiffs with Brewster's second wife, Mrs. Eleanor Brewster.

For a time they lived together in resplendent Hollywood homes, entertaining the elite of the movie world as Miss Palmer pursued her film career and Brewster supervised his publications.

Ill luck dogged Brewster's business deals, and finally they were forced to sell their mansions. Brewster filed a petition in bankruptcy in 1931. They were separated in October of that year. A few months ago Brewster announced that after he and Miss Palmer were divorced he would wed Miss Dorothy McCormick, 25-year-old singer.

Injured Gen. Lejeune Fails to Improve

LEXINGTON, Va., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—There was little change today in the condition of Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, superintendent of Virginia Military Institute, who suffered a fractured skull and a broken arm, in a fall down an embankment on the school's campus.

His physician said he spent a quiet day yesterday, and, although no improvement had been noted, he seemed to be "holding his own."

NORMAN DEBT TALK IN U.S. ADMITTED

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—One of his own colleagues today virtually confirmed the report, generally believed here, despite official denials, that Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, discussed debt revision with representatives of the Hoover administration on his recent mysterious visit to the United States.

Thomas Fisher, one of the proprietors of the Bank of England, declared at the semi-annual meeting of the board today:

"We are glad that Mr. Norman has safely returned from America, where he has sown the seed that in the future will bear fruit not only for this country but for the whole world."

Fisher's statement was made in seconding the customary resolution thanking the board for its conduct of the bank's affairs in the past six months. In his reply Norman made no reference at all to his trip to the United States, which he made under an assumed name.

Hoover's Physician Visits Friend Here

After an overnight visit in Pittsburgh, Lieut. Commander Joel T. Boone, personal physician to President Hoover, was to return to Washington today. He was accompanied by Mrs. Boone.

Visiting at the home of Dr. J. P. McComb, 510 South Aiken avenue, his roommate while they were attending Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia, Dr. Boone said President Hoover was in perfect physical condition.

2 Dry Officers Shot In Distillery Raid

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A shower of buckshot fired from ambush seriously wounded E. A. Larkin, deputy prohibition administrator, and Paul Sullivan, a special officer from Detroit, Mich., as they raided a liquor distillery near here today. The officers wounded a Negro. Their assailants fled.

Wilkinsburg Driver's Auto Injures Boy

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 22.—Running into the path of an auto driven by C. W. Gill, 1312 Lakeston road, Wilkinsburg, George Sanford, Jr., 6, suffered possibly fatal injuries yesterday at the foot of Uniontown Hill. C. R. Jenks, of Cleveland, driving the car following Gill, said the accident was unavoidable.

TAX RECEIPTS OF U.S. SOAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Approaching their maximum yields, taxes in the billion-dollar revenue law are beginning to threaten slashes in a federal deficit that already has climbed to nearly $400,000,000 since July 1.

August brought $79,940,310 into the Treasury from the new levies on gasoline, electrical energy, bank checks, stock transfers and other miscellaneous sources. This was an increase of $18,253,843 over July receipts and of $11,546,170 over miscellaneous collections in August, 1931.

But Treasury officials believe this yield still is short of returns which may be expected under the 1932 act.

The gasoline tax paid $8,944,857 in August as compared with $538,461 in July; the check tax $3,364,251 as compared with $1,094,287; the automobile levy, $886,655, against $47,629; their parts and accessories, $224,241, against $42,452, and motor trucks, $101,342, against $3,331.

HOPKINS, NOTED AD MAN, DIES

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Claude C. Hopkins, 66, who contributed largely to the growth of modern advertising, is dead at his home at Spring Lake.

For more than 25 years he was with Lord and Thomas Advertising Agency in Chicago, serving for two of those years as president of the firm.

He was generally credited with introducing the slogan in advertising, to be driven home by constant repetition, and some of the catch phrases conceived are bywords wherever newspapers and magazines circulate. Another of his contributions was liberal use of space to set off an advertising message. He considered newspapers the best advertising medium at all.

About 10 years ago he retired from Lord and Thomas. Then he organized the Edna Wallace Hopper Cosmetics Company, of which he became president. For the past five years he had conducted his own advertising agency at his Spring Lake home.

'WAR' VIEWED BY HINDENBURG

FRANKFURT-ON-ODER, Germany, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—President von Hindenburg was up at dawn today for the final stages of the Reichswehr maneuvers.

He gave special attention to an invading force of the motorized cavalry, which made short work of defending troops armed in strict accordance with the Versailles treaty.

The defense lines, unable to stem the onslaught from the East, were broken in several places, opening a way to Berlin. This mock attack was intended to demonstrate what Germany regards as her inadequate defenses, especially against invasion from the Polish side.

The aged president, lustily cheered by the troops, motored here to give his professional verdict. The usual parade and review were abandoned for reasons of economy.

Chapin Refuses U. S. Auto; Will Buy Own

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Secretary of Commerce Chapin has turned down a $5,000 appropriation for a new official automobile to replace one five years old and will drive a privately-purchased machine for official government business, it was learned today.

Jobless Riots Flare In England Again

LIVERPOOL, England, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Rioting among the unemployed broke out again today in the Islington district. Several persons were injured when mounted police charged a crowd, dispersing them.

WRIGLEY REPORTERS HAVE INTERESTING EXPERIENCES

Stop Gum Users Everywhere with Dollar Bills.

By MISS MINT

If you don't think a dollar bill is an important sum of money—you should see the people dash into stores to get Wrigley's gum when Mr. Spear and I catch them without it.

One young fellow, after I had stopped him, went up to a gum counter, slapped down a quarter and demanded, "Five packages of Wrigley's, please. This is the second time Miss Mint has caught me without Wrigley's." Moral—Be sure you always have a package with you.

Tuesday night I had the thrill of my life. I broadcasted my day's experiences over the radio—right after our Myrt & Marge program. I got through it all right, although my breathing must have indicated my excitement. I hope you liked it.

STRONG P. K. BOOSTER

L. KLIMA, 184 Longvue Drive, Mt. Lebanon is strong for P K's: When I stopped him, he had a package in his pocket. A dollar bill was his when he said, "no other gum satifies me like P K's."

C. W. DAVIS, 214 Biddle Ave., Wilkinsburg, a conductor on the Pennsylvania, is another P. K. enthusiast. He was strolling up the street between runs when I stopped him and discovered he had a package of Wrigley's, which earned him a dollar bill.

A. J. FARBER, 271 Orchard Drive—head of the State Department of Revenue—received his dollar bill when he flashed a package of Double Mint and said, "Wrigley's is fine for ball players; ask Charley Grimm—he should know."

ESTELLE PHILLIPS, 3111 Garbett Ave., McKeesport, was about to board a street car when I stopped her. She dropped everything to show me a package of Spearmint. She received a dollar bill and got the next car.

DOROTHY BONDY, 629 Fifth Ave., McKeesport, was strolling down the main street of that town when I approached her. She said, "I'm never without Wrigley's—I find it very refreshing after meals."

WILLIAM J. STRAIN, 1729 Middle St., Sharpsburg, was talking with a couple of friends when I asked him if he had a package of Wrigley's. He pulled out Double Mint. I gave him a dollar when he said, "It keeps my mouth moist, clean and fresh—I always chew Wrigley's."

ON WAY HOME

J. H. MARTIN, 629 Evergreen Ave., Millvale, was on his way home to dinner when I approached him. He had just stopped at the store to purchase Spearmint, not knowing that I was in the neighborhood. A new dollar bill was his when he told me "Wrigley's is most refreshing after meals—my whole family enjoys it."

You know it is impossible to begin to list all of the Pittsburghers to whom we pay dollar bills for carrying Wrigley's. Here are the names of several who have been rewarded with dollar bills in the last few days: H. J. WOERNER, 1318 N. Canal St., Sharpsburg; J. H. SCHINDLER, 1510 Alton St.; RAY E. JENKINS, 811 Fifth Ave., McKeesport; L. H. JACKSON, 637 Monon Ave., Glassport; J. M. KEITH, 1418 Investment Bldg.; DOROTHY SALISBURY, 204 Westinghouse Ave., Wilmerding; L. G. LONG, 126 N. Negley Ave.; CARL SHUPIK, 337 Cavitt Ave., Trafford; RALPH L. JOHNSON, 624 Liberty Ave., Carnegie, and CHARLES H. GRUNAGLE, 146 W. 10th Ave., Homestead.

Don't forget, Mr. Spear and I, and our helpers, are going to be here indefinitely. We are all over town every day until as late as nine o'clock at night. BE PREPARED—always have a package of Wrigley's with you. Then when you are stopped, you will be given a dollar bill for your opinion.

POET STARVING, PENSION ASKED

MADRID, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A newspaper campaign was under way here today to prevail upon Minister of Public Instruction Fernando De Los Rios to provide a pension for Spain's noted poet and dramatist, Francesco Villaespesa, who, with his family was described as dying of starvation.

The poet, whose works are known not only in Spain, but throughout South America, was found in a shabby apartment, his clothes in rags, and without a cent to buy either food or medicine.

Villaespesa himself was suffering from partial paralysis of the right side. His wife and two small boys were poorly clad. The rent is long unpaid.

He talked in a forlorn way about a recent quarrel with his adult daughter Elisa, who, he said, took away several works he had completed and left him with only the manuscript of a one-act play which he still hopes to see produced this season.

One More Chance To Register for Election

Residents of cities in Allegheny County who have been assessed, still have one chance to qualify in order to vote at the November election.

October 8 will be the third and last registration day in the cities. This is also the last day to pay poll taxes. Only those regularly assessed can pay taxes.

September 7 was the last day to be assessed.

MURRAY 'ARMY' RULES OIL FIELD

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Gov. William H. Murray's "army of occupation" apparently had the situation well in hand in the Oklahoma City oil field today. National Guardsmen are in the field to prevent violation of the State Corporation Commission's production regulations.

The next move was awaited from the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas Company, whose attempt to reopen 10 wells resulted in a skirmish Tuesday between guardsmen and lease workers. Company officials indicated they may seek a Federal Court injunction against the troops.

Added authority was given the troops yesterday when Gov. Murray extended the military zone to embrace the entire field.

U. S. BUILDING TO START HERE

The Federal public building program, under the relief law, is expected soon to make itself felt in the Pittsburgh district.

From the Treasury Department in Washington today came the announcement of dates for opening of bids for postoffice sites in nearby towns.

Bids for the Aliquippa site will be opened October 7, and for Clairton and Scottdale on October 10.

FOREIGN LEGION BOYS ESCAPE

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Two British youths, William Crooks, 17, and Stanley Flanagan, 18, were safe today after an adventurous escape from the French Foreign Legion at Sidi Bel Abbes in Algeria.

Disguised as Arabs, they left the garrison on September 11, and found their way to the coast in a motor truck. There they stowed away aboard the steamer Almoor.

Discovering the Almoor was bound for French soil, they jumped overboard near Gibraltar, using life preservers bound together with rope.

They drifted for hours before the British steamer Glenshane sighted them and picked them up, bringing them here. The British consul at The Hague said he would send them home.

WRECKS HOTEL, FACES COURT

When Wrenn Hinshaw, 48, came to town from Kansas City a week ago, he found the 30-room hotel at 2228 Beaver avenue an excellent residence. The hostelry was quite deserted and the owner, the Manchester Savings and Trust Company, apparently didn't know Wrenn was a guest.

Wrenn got ideas. He tore out plumbing fixtures, pulled down chandeliers, caused possibly $2,000 damage, the police reported.

The stuff he sold to a junk dealer for $5. Hinshaw admitted in North Side Police Court today.

He was held for court on charges of breaking and entering, and larceny. The dealer, Harry Rubin, of 2063 Beaver avenue, was held for court on a charge of receiving stolen goods. He testified he thought Hinshaw was a plumber.

less publicity" for all details of public utility operation and ownership.

And in a dramatic conclusion to his speech, he took cognizance of the charge of "radicalism" which has been laid against him in some quarters.

Roosevelt said:

"To the people of this country I have but one answer on this subject:

"Judge me by the enemeies I have made."

After long applause, he added:

"Judge me by the selfish purpose of these utility leaders who have talked of radicalism while they were selling watered stock to the people and using the schools to deceive the coming generation.

AMERICAN LIBERTY

"My policy is as radical as American liberty. As radical as the Constitution of the United States."

And then after more applause he said:

"Never shall the federal government part with its sovereignty and control over its power while I am President of the United States."

Some 10,000 people in Portland's civic auditorium roared their approval of Gov. Roosevelt's vigorous attack on President Hoover and the Republican policy with respect to power. The power issue is a live one in the Pacific Northwest, and his audience was keenly appreciative.

Gov. Roosevelt charged that there had been a "systematic, subtle, deliberate and unprincipled campaign of misinformation about the question of utilities control." He used the words "lies and falsehoods" in describing the way "this information has been bought and paid for by certain private utility corporations."

They have over-capitalized themselves, he charged, to the extent of some $520,000,000 and the American people are the losers to the extent that they are now expected "to provide profits for this amount of watered stock."

SCORES PROPAGANDA

He said:

"I speak to you as the Governor of a state who for four years has been attacked by the propaganda of certain utilities as a dangerous man.

"My answer is to point out some plain principles that seek to protect the welfare of the people against selfish greed. If that be treason make the most of it."

As a broad general policy, the Democratic nominee said he believed that power development should remain for private initiative and private capital but only under strict regulation in the public interest. And also with "a birch rod" of a public ownership and public operation kept in the closet "to be taken out and used only when the child gets beyond the point where a mere scolding does not do any good."

DEMANDS REFORM

The Insull failure, Roosevelt said, "has opened our eyes," and he demanded these specific reforms:

"I seek to protect both the consumer and investor. To that end I propose and advocate the following remedies on the part of the government for the regulation and control of public utilities engaged in the power business and companies and corporations relating thereto:

"1—Full publicity as to all capital issues of stocks, bonds, and other securities; liabilities and indebtedness, capital investment; and frequent information as to gross and net earnings.

"2—Publicity on stock ownership of stocks and bonds and other securities, including the stock and other interest of all officers and directors.

"3—Publicity with respect to all inter-company contracts and services and interchange of power.

"4—Regulation and control of holding companies by Federal Power Commission and the same publicity with regard to such holding companies as provided for the operating companies.

SEEKS CO-OPERATION

"5—Co-operation of the Federal Power Commission with public utilities commissions of the several states, obtaining information and data pertaining to the regulation and control of such public utilities.

"6—Regulation and control of the issue of stocks and bonds and other securities on the principle of prudent investment only.

"7—Abolishing by law the reproduction cost theory for rate making and establishing in place of it the actual money, prudent-investment principle as the basis for rate making.

"8—Legislation making it a crime to publish or circulate false or deceptive matter relating to public utilities."

On the development through the government itself of power resources and power manufacture, Roosevelt said:

"I do not hold with those who advocate government ownership or government operation of all utilities. I state to you categorically that as a broad general rule the development of utilities should remain, with certain exceptions, a function for private initiative and private capital.

"But the exceptions are of vital importance—local, state and nation—and I believe the overwhelming majority of the people in this country agree with me."

SAYS FEW MUST YIELD

Few public men have assailed the power interests as vigorously as did Roosevelt in his speech here. He said:

"The interests of the few must yield. The legitimate interests of the few must be protected, but the welfare and rights of the many must be conserved."

The Governor reviewed the history of the power trust as it has been exposed by the Hearst newspapers. He stressed especially the exposure of Claudius Huston, former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Declaring he proposed to put an end of the "milking of the American public" through the public utility holding companies, Roosevelt added:

"When the great possessions that belong to all of us—that belong to the nation—are at stake, we are not partisans. We are Americans!"

Pretty Bigamist Unable to Pick Favorite Man

DETROIT, Sept. 22—(INS.)—Somewhere in Detroit today, pretty Mrs. Doris Miller Flynn, 25, was making a painful decision between two husbands—one of nine years' standing, the other of two weeks.

Both Joseph Miller, husband No. 1, and Hilliard Flynn, of Kitchener, Ont., No. 2, came gallantly to her rescue when she was arrested on a bigamy charge.

Although the arrest resulted from a "tip" by Flynn, neither husband would prosecute. After her release, she said teafully:

"I don't know which I shall take. They're both such dear sweet boys."

Then, taking an arm of each, she left with them.

JOHNSON FLAYS HOOVER POLICY

MODESTO, Cal., Sept. 22.—(Universal.)—With a stirring plea for restoration of government to the people, United States Senator Hiram Johnson in an address before the convention of the California Federation of Labor, launched a vitriolic attack on the federal government's policy of providing billions in relief for Wall street, but none for human beings, denounced the motives of advocates of war debt cancellation and urged a return to true Progressivism. He said:

"A government that thinks only in terms of banks and railroads, forgets farmers whose homes are being taken from them, toilers whose wages have been decreased to the perilous line near a fair living wage, and workers who through no fault on their part have no work to do, is unworthy of the name and unfit to govern. After all, this government is your government and mine. It doesn't belong wholly to J. P. Morgan and Company and international bankers.

"Unemployment has increased and wages have decreased. Banks have been given money with a generosity never before exercised. Has this money reached those who, upon fair, ordinary security, seek loans? Railroads have received the funds of the government which belongs to all. Have railroads maintained their wages? Banks haven't resumed normal lending and railroads have reduced the wages of their employes."

Huge Fund Juggle Charged to Insull

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Investigators for the State's Attorney said today they had discovered evidence of diversion by Samuel Insull of between $75,000 and $300,000 from one of his utility companies to another.

GUESTS TO GET FREE PARKING

Arrangements were being made today by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang and City Treasurer Richard W. Thompson to care for hundreds of parked automobiles during a visit of the Allegheny Tablelands Association early next month. The visit of members from all parts of the Tri-State district is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Council granted the visitors free parking at the wharves. Official stickers will be devised by Lang and Thompson and distributed by the Chamber of Commerce to the visitors upon their arrival. Members of the association expect to visit Pittsburgh three days, Council was told.

ELEVEN DIVORCE DECREES GIVEN

Divorces were granted in Common Pleas Court to May C. Spielberger from Edward J. Spielberger, Janet A. Collins from Daniel Collins, Olive Loper from Horace J. Loper, Mildred Mudrick from Albert Mudrick, Nora McD. Funk from N. W. Funk, Maurice H. Armstrong from Signa M. Armstrong, Delbert B. Jones from Frances M. Jones, Madolyn F. Lazier from Sidney Lazier, Alice W. Show from Walter T. Show, Virginia E. Hurlock from William P. Hurlock, Annabell Walther from John E. Walther.

WHAT A
he's going to be!

HE PLAYS outdoors in the fresh sunshine. He sleeps like a top. And how he eats! Watch him as he dips lustily into his Rice Krispies and milk and does his part towards building a strong body and rugged constitution.

Kellogg's Rice Krispies are a cereal that fascinates children—and one of the best they can eat! Crisp, nourishing rice bubbles that actually crackle in milk or cream.

Serve for breakfast, for lunch—for the evening meal. Kellogg's Rice Krispies are so easy to digest, they invite restful sleep. How much better for youngsters than so many hot, heavy dishes.

Always oven-fresh in the red-and-green package with the sealed inside WAXTITE bag. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

OBITUARY

Rott Funeral.

Funeral services for Christian Z. F. Rott, 90, one of the founders of the borough of Wilkinsburg, who died in his home, 340 North Craig street, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m. Mr Rott had been a resident of the Pittsburgh district for 80 years and 60 years ago was a member of the City Council. He was born in Germany. He attended the first Pittsburgh High School at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street and in 1878 became a member of the firm of George A. Macbeth and Company, which later became known as the Macbeth-Evans Glass Company. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Sarah Johnson Rott; two sons, William F. and Walter C. Rott; eight grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Quinn Funeral.

Solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated Friday at 9:30 a. m. in St. Paul's Cathedral for Frank W. Quinn, 33, of Glen Mitchell road, Glen Osborne, who died Tuesday. The funeral will be from 5464 Northumberland street. Mr. Quinn was a graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emitsburg, Md., and Catholic University, Washington. He was Pittsburgh representative of Stetson and Blackman, investment bankers of Philadelphia, and a member of the Pittsburgh Bond Club. During the war he served as an ensign in the United States Navy. He leaves his widow, four daughters, a sister and five brothers.

A. T. Gabert.

A. T. Gabert, 31, of 245 Dell avenue, died Tuesday in West Penn Hospital. He was born in Avalon and had been a lifelong resident of the Pittsburgh district. For many years he was associated with C. A. Verner Company, but recently had been with Gimbels. He was a member of St. Bernard's Church, Mt. Lebanon, where funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday. He leaves a son, Kenneth; a daughter, Carol, and a brother.

Katherine L. Jamieson.

Relatives here today received word of the death of Katherine L. Jamieson, at her home, Alhambra, Cal., Monday. Miss Jamieson formerly conducted a photographic studio in the East End. She leaves three brothers, John B., Arthur L. and Harry V. Jamieson. Burial will be here.

Laurence Henderson.

Laurence Henderson, 80, of 328 Roup street, died yesterday. He was born in Scotland. He was connected with the H. J. Heinz Company for many years, later engaging in the dry cleaning business, from which he retired a few years ago. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce and Christ Methodist Episcopal Church. Besides his widow he leaves two daughters, Mrs. U. E. Martin and Mrs. Sidney Prentice, and eight sons, Alexander, Laurence, Jr., David, Albert, John T., Fred and Sidney Henderson, all of Pittsburgh, and Robert Henderson, of London.

Reinhart Kress.

Reinhart Kress, 66, died in his home at 616 Griffin street, Mt. Washington, yesterday. Born in Germany, he had lived in Pittsburgh since a boy. He was a member of the Independent Order of Forresters and employed by the Pittsburgh Terminal Warehouse. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Wilhelmina Kraft Kress; two sons, Reinhart G. Kress and Walter W. Kress, and one brother, John Kress.

Cost Accountants Told of Swope Plan

Charles C. James, of New York, addressed the first fall meeting of the Pittsburgh Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, Tuesday night, explaining the Swope plan for standard accounting and cost systems.

William F. Marsh and C. G. Jensen led the discussion.

Escaping Gas Causes South Side Blast

GRILL SUSPECT IN BOMBING

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—With one suspect already under arrest, police today searched the city's underworld haunts for the terrorists who tossed a bomb in front of Judge John P. McGoorty's home, blinding and crippling a 16-year-old boy and maiming a 16-year-old mother.

Determined to find the perpetrators of the outrage, Judge McGoorty, veteran foe of gangsters, joined the hunt for the bombers. The suspect, Alexander St. John, 45, was undergoing questioning. Judge McGoorty informed authorities that some time ago he had forced St. John to pay $1,500 to a young unwed mother and that St. John had threatened to wreak revenge.

At Chicago Hospital, meanwhile, lay the two innocent victims of the bombing, Lee Wilbur Koeppen and Mrs. Ada Moyer. Doctors strove desperately to save the life of the boy, who was blinded by the blast. His chances of survival were considered slender. The girl-mother, however, will live, doctors said. But she may lose her sight. Her nerves shattered, she lay moaning for her daughter, Mitzie Jean, 4 months old.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

HOOVER STILL HOLDS LEAD IN EAST

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The East still appears leaning to President Hoover in this year's election.

New returns recorded today in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States showed majorities in every instance for the Republican nominee.

These returns came from the six New England states, New York and New Jersey. Added to previous returns they showed Hoover leading by the following margins:

Maine—545 out of 2,171 ballots.

New Hampshire—558 out of 1,738.

Vermont—249 out of 1,051.

Massachusetts—2,842 out of 7,754.

Rhode Island—220 out of 1,338.

Connecticut—1,513 out of 6,053.

New York—753 out of 28,605.

THREE STATES DOUBTFUL

The Hoover shares of the votes from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut, if maintained at relatively the same ratio, would give those five states safely to him. Rhode Island, New York and New Jersey still must be classed as doubtful.

Thus Democratic jubilation over the Maine victory last week may be a bit premature in so far as the November election is concerned.

There is still one-tenth of the Maine electorate to be heard from, and that tenth may turn the state back to the Republican fold.

Returns in the poll do not give substantial encouragement to Democratic prospects in November in this Down East state.

Statistics show that as a rule the Republican presidential candidate in November polls a substantially heavier vote than the Republican candidate for governor does in September, with the Democratic presidential vote not increasing in the same proportion over the Democratic gubernatorial vote.

PERCENTAGE SLIM

The Maine vote on September 12 was approximately 25,000 under the 261,000 cast for president in 1928. At the same time the Democratic vote for governor last week exceeded by more than 10,000 the peak Democratic vote ever polled in the state.

The margin by which the Democrats won the governorship was only one-half of 1 per cent, the Democrats polling 50.25 and the Republicans 49.75.

With the renewed activity evident on the part of the Republican management to reclaim the state and with 10 per cent of the votes available from which to draw a majority and with poll votes still showing a Hoover lead, the state cannot as yet be recorded on the Democratic side.

CLIFF SUICIDE'S BODY REMOVED

Efforts of a dozen men were required last night to remove the body of an unidentified Negro, aged about 50, dangling from a tree in a 35-foot cliff in Remaley's Woods, Patton Township. The man apparently had hanged himself.

Deputy Coroners Stanley Gusenski and John McQuaid enlisted the aid of the men as the only means of reaching the tree, in the middle of the sharp decline.

The men formed a chain and held the deputies while they cut down the noose.

Presidential Trend by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

Clarksburg to Fete Legion Commander

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Louis A. Johnson's home town is ready to turn out in force for his return here Sunday, to honor him on his election as national commander of the American Legion.

An escort of past commanders of his home legion post will meet him at the Pennsylvania state line, following his arrival from Pittsburgh.

Roosevelt Will Win Every State—Flynn

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—(Universal.)—That President Hoover will lose every state in the Union to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in November was the prediction made here by Edward J. Flynn, New York's Secretary of State. He said:

"Information which I gathered on my trip west from New York has convinced me that the Democratic candidate will carry every state."

Loses 14 Pounds of Fat in 11 Days

On a Full Stomach

With New, Safe, Easy, Pleasant Battle Creek Reducing Treatment

"I have taken 3 bottles of BonKora and I feel like a new person. It took me only 11 days to reduce 14 pounds. I have lost about 8 more pounds since (22 lbs. in all) and I haven't been taking it regularly. I wear dresses 4 sizes smaller. It also ended my stomach trouble, constipation, headaches and tired feeling."—Hilde G. Lantzer, 156 26th St., S.E., Massillon, Ohio.

Miss Hilde G. Lantzer

Lose Fat Quick, at Home—or Pay Nothing

Many say that other methods had failed. But BonKora, the new Battle Creek Reducing Treatment, is different. It took off their fat: a pound a day for some. Others lost 15 to 41 pounds in 8 weeks. Very stout ones lost even more.

It reduces fat new "3-stage" way. Triple action: triple speed. Take a little BonKora daily to help body function properly; to remove heavy wastes and moisture from fatty tissues. EAT BIG MEALS of foods you like, as explained in BonKora package. Don't get too thin. Reduce to normal, healthy weight. Then stop reducing and hold your new slender figure.

There are no dangerous drugs in BonKora. In fact, the treatment builds health while reducing fat the quickest way. You feel and look younger.

Don't be fat any longer. Get a bottle of BonKora from druggist today. If not delighted with quick loss of fat, manufacturer refunds money you paid for this bottle. You don't risk a penny.

PITTSBURGHERS HEAD DISCIPLES

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—H. E. Sheets, Pittsburgh, yesterday was elected president of the state convention of the Disciples of Christ. Sessions of the convention are being held at the First Christian Church here.

Other officers are: Vice presidents, Dr. Arthur Holmes, Philadelphia, and the Rev. S. S. Lappin, Pittsburgh; secretary, Dr. H. A. Denton, Pittsburgh (re-elected), and treasurer, S. R. Smith, Pittsburgh.

Five new directors of the Pennsylvania Christ and Missionary Society include S. A. Pruitt, Pittsburgh; M. E. Vaughn, New Castle; Raymond Roth, Ridgeway; the Rev. D. C. Sheets, Scranton, and James Wilmeth, Philadelphia, retiring president of the convention.

The convention tabled a motion to join the Federal Council of Churches. They took the action after Dr. Jesse M. Baker, secretary of evangelism for the Council of Churches in America, and Dr. William M. Mudge, Harrisburg, secretary of the Pennsylvana Council, had described the work of both groups.

The conferees raised $3,000 to pay deficits in the salaries of state mission workers in Greene and Fayette counties.

WOMAN PLEADS FOR RESCUE

NEWCHANG, Manchuria, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Another poignant appeal for the rescue of herself and Charles Corkran, another British subject who was captured by Chinese bandits more than a week ago, was received today from Mrs. Pawley, who said the bandits planned to shoot them in a week, after cutting off their ears.

The note was received by Mrs. Pawley's father, together with another exorbitant demand for ransom. The letters were brought by a servant of the family who carried the father's message to the brigand's camp. The note said:

"Get us out as soon as possible. They are going to cut off our ears and I rather want to keep mine. For God's sake be quick. We have a week to live before we are shot.

"These fellows are really serious. I am filthy and long for a bath. The food is awful."

Ex-Mayor, Chief Get Prison Terms

WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Parker Quince Moore, former mayor of Wilmington, and J. J. Furlong, former police chief, were convicted of attempted extortion yesterday and sentenced to prison, but obtained stays of execution of the sentences until the next term of court and were released on bond.

The two men were accused of sending threatening notes, which demanded $25,000, to Mrs. Jessie Kenan Wise, of Wilmington, wealthy widow.

47 Masons Given Thirty-Third Degree

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Conferring of the honorary thirty-third degree on 47 members last night climaxed the one hundred and twentieth annual meeting of the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite, Northern Jurisdiction.

The council also nominated a number of thirty-second degree members to receive the higher degree at next year's meeting, which has been awarded to Boston.

PINCHOT NAMES SECRETARY

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today announced the promotion of Duncan C. McCallum of Leechburg, from personnel secretary to secretary to the Governor, effective October 1.

McCallum succeeds P. Stephen Stahlnecker, who goes to the Public Service Commission. McCallum received $6,000 a year as personnel secretary and will receive $7,500 as secretary to the Governor. He has held his present position since the start of the present Pinchot administration. The Governor said today:

"In Mr. McCallum I shall have a worthy successor to Steve Stahlnecker. As personnel secretary since the beginning of my administration he has proved his ability in more ways than one."

McCallum is 40 years old and unmarried. He was in business in Leechburg since the close of the war, in which he served 22 months in France.

Receivership Asked For Macaroni Firm

The Commander Milling Company, of Minneapolis, filed an equity suit in Federal Court asking for appointment of a receiver for the La Premiata Macaroni Company, of Connellsville, declaring the macaroni company is solvent with property and assets in excess of its liabilities, but is short of funds to meet present obligations.

George H. Smith, president of the defendant company, joined in asking for a receivership.

McCREERY'S

28th Anniversary Sale

and better times right with it

- The sun is beginning to "shine" again—things are looking up—there's real cheer and renewed hope in the air at last! As optimism rushes UP—up swing the commodity markets ...silks, cottons, woolens, hides, metals... other necessities of life, and they're swinging upward fast every day.

- *W*hat does this mean to you Pittsburghers? Your homes and families? It means you'll pay more for things you really need sooner than you expect.

The unprecedented low sale prices are possible only because plans were laid months ago—and purchases made accordingly!

But the vital news to you is that McCreery's Anniversary Sale will bring to you the newest Fall Fashions—Newest things for your home—our kind of merchandise—at prices you'll likely never see again.

That's the story.

Please Note!...

Due to rising commodity prices we cannot guarantee to replace the Anniversary lots at the special Anniversary Sale prices after the present quantities have been exhausted!

Listening In—

Irene Steps Out: Busy Irma Glen: Radio Oddities

Miss Taylor

Irene Taylor, that winsome little miss from Missouri who made her professional debut with the Coon-Sanders Orchestra in Kansas City not so awfully long ago, made her bow to New York as soloist with Paul Whiteman's orchestra last night in the sophisticated atmosphere of the Biltmore Cascades. You've heard her sing with Charley Agnew and his orchestra from the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago. She interprets the latest tunes with a decided blues technique—and came to radio through Whiteman's encouragement after an audition at NBC's studios in Chicago. Mildred Bailey, whom she replaces, has gone into vaudeville.

We told you once that Irma Glen broadcasts 39 times each week . . . Recently, some one became ambitious and discovered that the young organist uses 38 numbers on Monday alone and plays more than 160 different selections in six days. She tries not to repeat a number oftener than once in two months.

Odd? Spanish-born Olga Albani has a mania for collecting signs—especially roadside markers . . . George Hicks is always so nervous before a broadcast that he invariably disappears for a minute or two to compose himself before going on the air . . . Ray Perkins, according to the Mrs., is funnier early in the morning than at any other time of the day . . . Schumann-Heink always crosses herself at the beginning of a broadcast and throws kisses to the control engineer at the conclusion.

The Pickens Sisters' theme song is an unpublished manuscript entitled "Just You and I" . . . Johnny Hart used to be heard on those Cuckoo programs under the name of Jack Arthur. . . . Harry Reser's guests always remember the marvelous steaks served at his home. The secret is that he has a charcoal grill and a cook who knows how to use it.

Nat Shilkret's orchestra', . . When Shilkret hires a musician, it usually means a long and steady engagement. The majority of those in the organization now have been with him since he began conducting his own unit 16 years ago, his brother Jack, violinists Peter Eisenberg and Lou Raderman and cornetist Del Staigers being among the original number. Among the "youngsters" are saxophonist Louis Martin and pianist Milton Rettenberg, who have played with Nat only seven or eight seasons.

It's Fresher!

A DOLLAR BILL
NEW
WRAPPED
WRIGLEY PACKAGE
when told to Mr. Spear
or Miss Mint
IF you're looking for flavor—brisk, lively flavor—then try WRIGLEY'S GUM in the new flavor-sealed Cellophane wrapping. Take your choice of four popular Wrigley flavors—and you are assured of absolute freshness—the easy-to-open Cellophane package enables you to enjoy Wrigley's Gum as fresh as the day it was wrapped. Just unwind the red tape which removes the end cap . . . the Cellophane wrapping remains to protect the gum.
Then Be Ready With Your Opinion
It will pay you to be prepared. You can never tell when or where you may be approached by the Wrigley inquiring reporters. Every day, in all parts of the city and suburbs, they are asking hundreds of people for their opinions about Wrigley's Gum in the new Cellophane wrapping.
When Mr. Spear, Miss Mint or one of their assistants approaches you, prove to them that you have tried this flavor-sealed, Cellophane-wrapped gum. (An opened package will be regarded as positive proof.) Give your opinion—and you will be paid ONE DOLLAR for it.

Dick Powell Sings Tonight From Hollywood; Pryor Band Back on Air

Tribute is paid to Michael Faraday, upon whose discovery of inductance the electrical industry is based, during a special program commemorating the anniversary of his birth in England in 1791 over an NBC network, including KDKA, tonight at 10:15 o'clock.

O. H. Caldwell, president of Science Forum of the New York Electrical Society, and Frank J. Sprague, known as the "father of the electric railway," discuss Faraday's contributions to science, which include discoveries which led to the development of the dynamo and the magneto, during the broadcast. As special features of the program, Caldwell repeats Faraday's famous experiment which produced through magnetism a faint glow of electricity, and illustrates the importance in daily life of some of the famous physicist's discoveries.

Mr. Caldwell

Arthur Pryor celebrates his sixty-second birthday with the inauguration of a new weekly program starring his popular military band, Jay C. Flippen, stage and radio comedian, and the American male quartet over an extensive Columbia chain, including WJAS, tonight from 8:30 to 9 o'clock.

Another new program makes its debut on WCAE today at 4:45 when Mary and Pat (Mary Dingfelder and Pat Haley) start a series of arguments as to whether the public prefers the songs of yesterday to the latest hits or vice versa. Their programs are entitled "Old and New Songs" and will be heard each week at the same hour.

A typical Hollywood dinner party, attended by nearly a score of film celebrities, is the "Hollywood on the Air" offering over an NBC network, including KDKA, at midnight. Holding the spotlight musically will be Dick Powell, who left Pittsburgh to find fame in the movie capital, and Phil Harris and the Ambassador Hotel Cocoanut Grove Orchestra. Among the attending personalities will be Joel McCrea, Mae Clark, Jimmy and Lucille Gleason, Adela Rogers St. John, Ruth Chatterton; Edward Everett Horton, Lew Ayres, Lola Lane, Gary Cooper, Lee Tracy, Lupe Velez, Robert Benchley, Corey Ford, Mary Pickford and Robert Armstrong.

Rufus C. Dawes, president of the 'Century of Progress World Fair" and brother of former Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, will discuss plans for the mammoth exposition when he appears as guest speaker on the "Our Daily Food" program on KDKA tomorrow at 10:30 a. m.

Ward Wilson impersonates Sherlock Holmes and Doctor Watson on KDKA at 7:15.

Joe Schaffler's orchestra shifts to a new time—6:30 p. m.—on WJAS tonight.

Toupee, or not toupee. That was the question, when the modern Baron Munchausen (Jack Pearl) was pursued by the murderous wild men during a recent tour of the West. He tells about his hair-raising experience on WCAE at 10 during the Dance Hour. Ferde Grofe makes a repeat appearance with his music.

WWSW broadcasts a detailed account of the final Pirates-Cubs game of the season at Chicago today, beginning at 4:15.

George Price offers his impression of Nora Bayes on WJAS at 7:45.

Radio's newest news commentator, Ray Perkins, plows through a fresh batch of current news, interpreting events as he sees fit, on WCAE at 7:30.

Uncle Bob, Betty Read Comics

Uncle Bob and Betty take WCAE listeners on another of their unique trips through the mythical land of comic page characters when they read the Sun-Telegraph "funnies" on WCAE tonight at 6 o'clock.

Speaking from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, relays the latest news flashes to WCAE listeners daily at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Program Pointers

The French version of D'hardelot's popular ballad, "Because," is presented by Mlle Diane Laval as a highlight of her "Songs in French Manner" program on KDKA at 11:20 tonight. "Isn't It Romantic?" and "Mimi," from "Love Me Tonight," also are included on the program . . . On the same station at 8:15, Sigmund Spaeth, the "Song Sleuth," traces the origins of game and sports songs . . . The Boswell Sisters borrow a phrase from Norman Brokenshire's famous "mike" greeting when they harmonize "How Do You Do?" during their musical quarter hour with Nat Shilkret's orchestra on WJAS at 9.

Mlle. Laval

"The Universe and the Atom" is the topic of the third of a series of discussions by Sir Arthur Eddington on WCAE at 9 p. m.

S. Leo Ruslander, Pittsburgh attorney and authority on taxes, discusses "The New Sales Tax" during the "Pittsburgh Today" presentation on KQV at 9.

Y.M.H.A. Drive Head To Arrive Saturday

Dr. Philip R. Goldstein of the Jewish Welfare Board, New York, will arrive here Saturday to direct the $60,000 campaign of the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association, it was announced today. Edgar J. Kaufmann, vice president and treasurer of the organization and general chairman of the campaign, said the institution will have to close its doors unless additional financial aid is obtained immediately.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With—

Patricia Pitt

At this time of year, when everyone fears that every golden day may be the last of lingering summer weather, it's difficult to think of sober things, such as benefits for fall.

But a group of the conservative fashionables took time out of sunny yesterday to have a business meeting to plan for coming events, the board of the Woman's Exchange, Penn avenue.

The group is delighted with Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe's generous offer of her spacious home, Morewood avenue, for the Exchange's annual Christmas sale, to be held November 22.

Last year the sale was held in the Schenley Hotel ballroom, and the year before in the Twentieth Century Club, I believe. Mrs. Rowe's offer will save rental, and therefore leave the Exchange more money to conduct the building, Penn avenue. The Exchange has many more women consignors than ever before.

Rental Saved

One year the sale was held in the marquee, which the Richard Beatty Mellons had erected on their place for the marriage of their daughter, Sarah, who is now Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife.

The Exchange hasn't found a suitable place yet for its rummage sale November 3, 4 and 5. And Mrs. William Zang told me that the sale of cakes and jams, a special event yesterday, was most successful.

There's to be an entertainment for one of the girls leaving soon for school and her house guest. The guests of honor will be Binny Bothwell, daughter of the E. C. Bothwells, and her guest, Peggy Reed, of South Bend, Ind. Edna Young will give the party Saturday night in her home.

Will Be Guests

Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins and her daughters, Elizabeth and Clara Dorothea, who've been summering at their Spring Lake (N. J.) place, won't be home until mid-October, I just heard.

Clara Dorothea's marriage to Dr. Richard H. Overholt, of Boston, will take place in November, I hear.

Conrad Maynadier Arensberg, son of the Charles Frederick Arensbergs, of Amberson avenue, is home from Europe, where he was studying on a Harvard fellowship. The Arensbergs are just home from their summer place in Trappe, Md.

Louise Morganstern Selects Saturday For Nuptials

Miss Louise Morganstern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morganstern, of Maynard street, has chosen Saturday as the day for her marriage to Robert Feldman, son of Mrs. Bella Feldman, of the Schenley Apartments. The ceremony will take place at 7:15 o'clock in the evening in the Hotel Schenley, with the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson officiating.

The bride will be unattended, but the bridegroom will have his cousin, Herbert Jacobs, of New York, as best man. After the ceremony, Mr. Feldman and his bride will leave for the East and later will reside in the Schenley Apartments.

Suburbanites Arrange For Concert Tickets

Many suburbanites are arranging for season tickets for the May Beegle concert series this winter as well as the smart set living in town.

Hoskinson, Miss Eleanor S. Longenecker, Mrs. Grace B. Martin, Mrs. E. J. Bingham, Mrs. James Myers, Miss Mary Parsons, Miss Laura Rex, Miss Louise Butler and a party, Miss Dorothy and Miss Mildred Markle.

Institute of Y. W. C. A. To Hold Open House

The International Institute of the Young Women's Christian Association will have open house for club members and those interested in institute activities this evening at the Institute House, South Dithridge street.

The annual welcome dance of the Margaret Morrison Carnegie College Alumnae Association will be held in Thistle Hall the evening of September 30. Miss Jane Croyle, president of the 1932 class, is chairman, and her aides are Miss Lois McGregor, Miss Nancy Slone Reading and Miss Marjorie Holden.

St. Brigid's Church Group To Give Benefit Sept. 29

A card party will be given by the St. Vincent de Paul Society of St. Brigid's Church on Thursday evening, September 29, in the church hall, Enoch street, for the benefit of the needy families of the Hill District. Euchre, bridge, "500," old maid and bingo will be played. The Rev. M. A. Ward is chairman.

Miss Myrtle Marcus Engaged to Dr. Fisher

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Marcus announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Myrtle Marcus, of Chislett street, to Dr. Morris H. Fisher, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher, of North St. Clair street.

Views of Major Parties to Be Given Club

The Women's Press Club will have two outstanding speakers, Mrs. Carroll Miller and Mrs. William Anderson, at its first meeting, Monday afternoon, October 3, at the Woman's City Club. Mrs. Miller is national Democratic committeewoman and was a delegate to the Democratic convention. Mrs. Anderson, who is a member of the board of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women and president of the Aspinwall Council, was an alternate to the Republican convention. Each will tell why she thinks her favorite candidate will be elected in November.

Mrs. Miller to Address Jewish Council Juniors

An address by Mrs. Carroll Miller on the political situation will feature the opening meeting of the Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Juniors, on Sunday in the Y. M. and W. H. A. Miss Rhoda Levy is the new president.

The section will have a paid up dues party at the Brown farm, Mt. Lebanon road, on October 6. A corn roast, hay ride and bonfire will be among the entertainment features.

Miss Lelia F. Earhart to Wed Uniontown Man

An interesting wedding of the coming week-end will be that of Miss Lelia Frances Earhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Earhart, of Atwood street, and James W. Craft, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Colvin Craft, of Uniontown, which will take place Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony will be performed in the Schenley Heights Methodist Episcopal Church with the Rev. T. F. Chilcoote officiating.

Miss Helen Cavitt, of Heberton avenue, will be maid of honor, and Dr. Donald Hustead, of Uniontown, will be best man. James Trotter will play the wedding music. Charles Earhart, Jr., brother of the bride, will be an usher, and the father of the bride will give her in marriage.

A reception and dinner for the two families will be held in Webster Hall. After a motor trip Mr. Craft and his bride will be at home in Creedmore avenue, Brookline.

Board to Give Benefit For Suburban Hospital

At the home of Mrs. J. M. Stewart, Allegheny avenue, Emsworth, the Women's Advisory Board of the Suburban General Hospital will entertain tomorrow evening as a benefit for the hospital donation week, which is September 26 to October 1. The annual tea will be held at the hospital next Thursday and the annual tag day is set for October 1.

Swissvale Girl Being Married This Evening

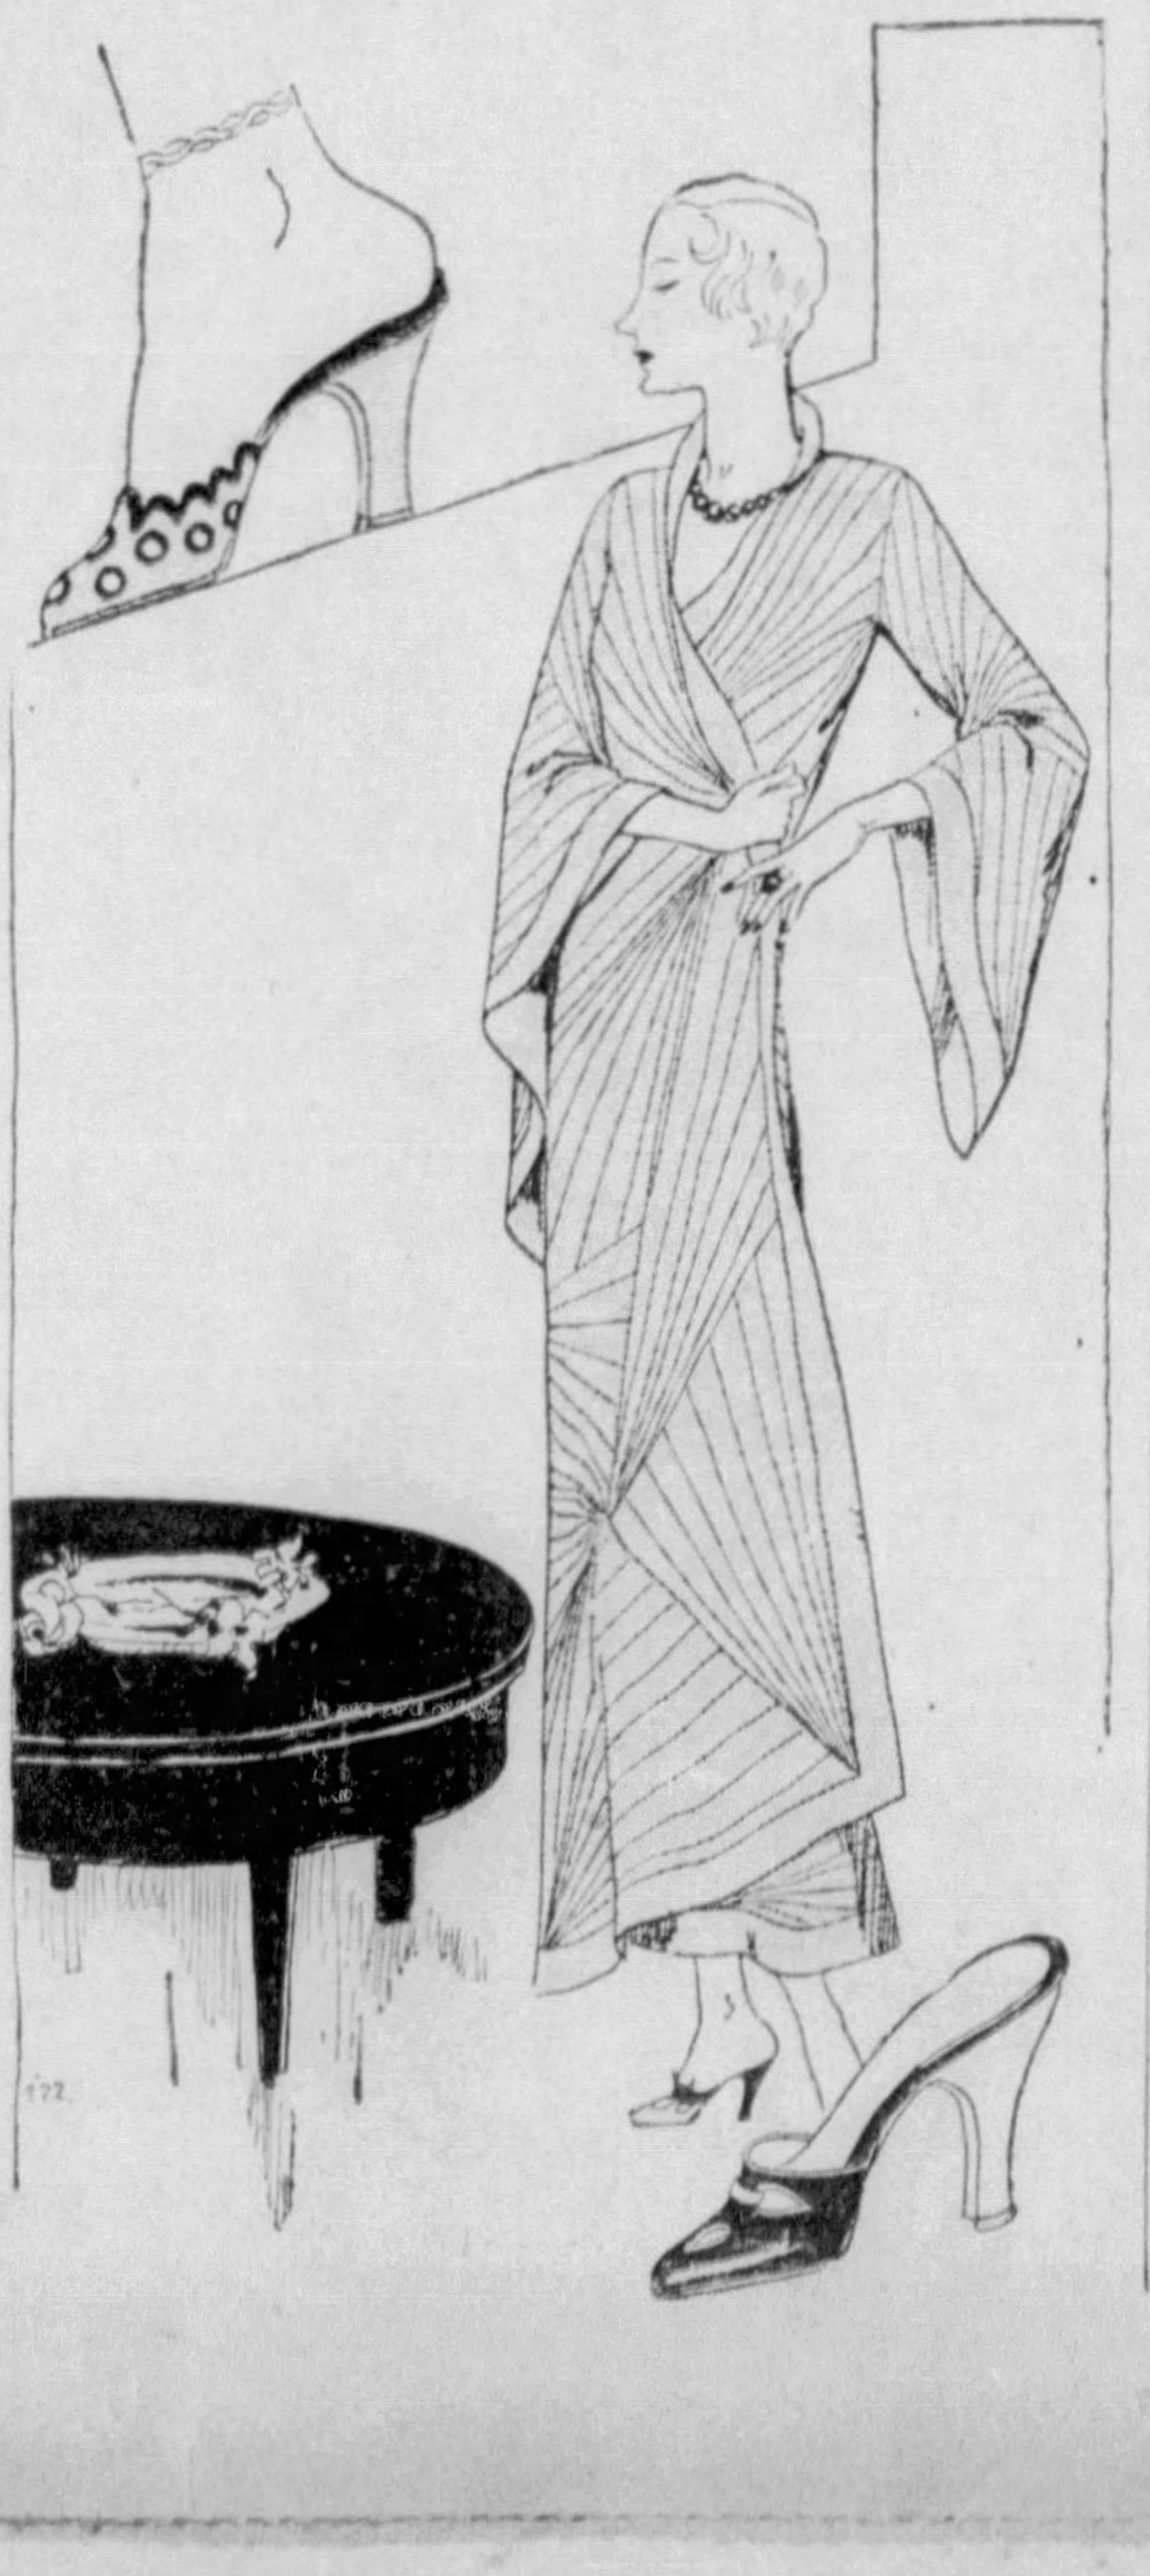
Miss Ellen Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bovee Connor, of Hampton avenue, Swissvale, is being married this evening at 5:30 o'clock in her home, to Lee Kilgour. After October 15 they will be at home in Summer avenue, Forest Hills, following a trip through Montreal, Quebec and the New England States.

Miss Connor is a graduate of Pennsylvania College for Women and Mr. Kilgour is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

Among recent entertainments for the bride of today, was a bridge party on Friday in the home of Miss Beatrice Tomlinson, of Delaware avenue, Swissvale, and joint hostesses with Miss Tomlinson were Miss Elizabeth Jacobs and Miss Helen Robbins.

THIS SEASON'S NEGLIGEES TO STRESS ELEGANCE OF DESIGN

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—Paris is talking—as usual—of more revivals of old-time fashions. Pre-war elegances, via rich velvets, plenty of furs and jewels, are important motifs in the collections of new clothes that Paris is introducing to the world right now. A revived interest in elaborate negligees, tea gowns and other costumes to be worn only at home is resulting in the development of a race of fashions that has been more or less abandoned in the last few years.

MADELEINE VIONNET and Jeanne Lanvin are two designers who take special interest in clothes of this type. In the most recent Vionnet collection, mannequins in the fashion parade showed new models of negligees, bed jackets and nightgowns. Lanvin's fashion house has an important department devoted to clothes of this type, where costumes for the home are designed especially for individual clients.

THE SUNBURST design in negligees and bathrobes is one of Madame Lanvin's fa. THE ENZEL mules shown on a house coat of heavy faille in apple-green—a house wrap which is touched with no other decoration besides the rows and rows of stitching which make the quilted design.

THE ENZEL mules shown with this robe are both of the type which make use of brilliant color—the one in bright yellow, with eyelets and scalloped edges outlined in red, the other in bright green with gold pipings.

Health Colony to Open Year At Tea on Oct. 4

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The Health Colony Club, the organization which Mary Roberts Rinehart founded, which she mentions in her "My Story," and of which she is the honorary president, has sent out its new year books. They announce a musical tea as the initial event of the season. Mrs. C. E. Coslowsky will receive acceptances for the affair, which is dated for October 4. The November meeting will be devoted to political education and December will bring the annual benefit. January's meeting is a as speaker, then in February the annual luncheon will be held.

Mrs. John Howard Phillips will give a travelogue at the March meeting, and April counts off a reciprocity day when the Homestead Women's Club will be entertained. The annual business meeting and election is the concluding event listed.

The list of philanthropic activities of the club for last season is a long one and is printed in the year books. It includes innumerable gifts ranging from an electric oven for the diet kitchen at Cresson Sanatorium and a sewing machine to Leech Farm to gifts of candy to the children at the latter place.

Removes stain
cleans TEETH 3 shades WHITER in 3 days

Yellow, stained teeth are not natural. For proof start using Kolynos—a half-inch of this scientific dental cream on a dry brush, twice daily. In 3 days your teeth will look fully 3 shades whiter!

This remarkable dental cream cleans teeth so much whiter than other preparations you've used because it contains two remarkable ingredients. One—the finest cleansing agent known—foams into and cleans out every fissure, removes decay-causing debris, erases ugly tartar and yellow. While the second ingredient kills millions of germs that swarm into the mouth and cause most tooth and gum troubles. Thus the mouth and teeth are quickly cleaned right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel without injury.

Now if you want gleaming white teeth, free from decay, and firm pink gums free from disease start using Kolynos, with its unique Dry-Brush Technique. You'll never regret it. Buy a tube today.

MARKET HOUSE FUSS PUT UP TO LANG, CLARK

Investigation of conditions at the North Side Market House was started today by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang following charges by farmers and stall tenants that the building is "filthy and insanitary" and that hucksters were operating in violation of the law.

Public Safety Director James M. Clark was to co-operate with Lang, following action ordered by Council at a hearing late yesterday.

Occupants of stall space were instructed to devise a plan to take over operation as has been done at the downtown Diamond Market.

The order grew out of complaints of farmers occupying space outside the market house, who asked permission to sell produce after 11 a. m. daily. Stall tenants objected.

Councilman William J. Soost moved that law violators be curbed and an effort made to clean up the building.

Council also ordered arrest of all vendors and hucksters here who have not paid their 1932 license fees.

MAN STABBED WITH SCISSORS

John Walkila, 35, of 1405 Hazel street, was being held by Penn avenue police today in connection with the stabbing of Waino Ranhala, 38, of Warren, O., near the foot of Thirteenth street last night.

Ranhala was reported in a critical condition in Mercy Hospital. He told Homicide Detectives Robert Carroll and James O'Kane that Walkila attacked him with a pair of scissors when he denied hiding a bottle of moonshine which Walkila wanted, the detectives said. Walkila, captured a short time later at Eighteenth and Pike streets, was charged with being a suspicious person.

DAYS WITHOUT FUNDS FACE COUNTY RELIEF GROUP

POLITICS

No Speculation About Gollmar's Plans

By MARK SHIELDS

From day to day there is speculation whether Mayor Kline will be a candidate for re-election, whether this or that patriot will seek to succeed him, and who may enter the lists for other offices to be filled at the municipal election next year.

Mr. Shields

But there is no speculation about Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar. Appointed by Gov. Pinchot to fill the vacancy left when County Treasurer Robert Cain took his present office, Gollmar serves under that appointment until January, 1934. He must face the voters if he wishes to remain in office beyond that date.

He will and he does.

There may be many cross-currents in the next municipal primary, with rifts possible within the organization, and with the independents almost certain to attempt to continue the success they scored in the last county primary. These counter-elements can play havooc with ambition, but Gollmar appears to be in a peculiarly advantageous position.

Objections Will Hardly Result in Opposition

He was for many years associated with County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern in the independent cause. Yet when he was appointed sheriff it was through the intercession of Senator James J. Coyne, then on a friendly footing with the administration at Harrisburg.

McGovern and County Commissioner C. M. Barr were both against Gollmar receiving the sheriff's appointment, though the chief objection was interposed by Barr. Each, however, recognized that Gollmar was entitled to some preferment from Pinchot, but wished him to again serve on the bench, as he did once before through appointment of the Governor.

Their objections were hardly sufficient to carry through to the extent of opposing Gollmar in next year's primary. If that does prove fact, he starts with these two Independent leaders and Coyne. To this trip should be added Senator Frank J. Harris, no friend to Coyne, but with kindly feelings toward Gollmar.

May Not Need Aid From City Administration

Where the city administration would stand no one can say, that depending almost entirely upon what course the Kline organization intends to pursue in the primary. But with the support of leaders already listed, and with others who should be added, Gollmar probably could afford to do without assistance from the city government.

In the sheriff's office he has handled two acute problems, one having to do with a bonus group and another with a miners' march, with common sense, which is a most necessary requisite of a sheriff, called upon as he is so often to intervene in labor troubles or to preserve order without lending himself to any faction to disputes. If he continues to observe that common sense he will be in a position to ask re-election.

But the sheriff has many opportunities to make mistakes, and never more so than in the next few months.

Some Registrars Need Schooling in Duties

Before the next and final registration day for voters in Pittsburgh who wish to become eligible for the November election, the Board of Registration Commissioners should call in some of the district boards and attempt to better school them in their duties. If that cannot be done, then new registrars should be employed.

Manifestly it is impossible to secure expert clerical help for these positions, but there should be some means of determining whether those seeking them are reasonably capable. There should be some further test than the recommendation of a politician of the district, admitting all the time that the board must in large degree rely on such recommendations.

But when one registrant complains that it required two hours of standing in line before he could be accommodated something is wrong.

Registration this year is far below the level of 1928 when occurred the notable campaign between President Hoover and Al Smith. There were those who registered then for the first time, and who probably will never do so again.

The apparent apathy this year is something to concern political leaders, who must wonder which candidate will be hardest hit.

Registration Shows Decline Both Days

The first registration day this year saw 39,770 put their names on the books, approximately 25,000 fewer than the same day four years ago. The second day, Tuesday, found about 49,000 registering, some 10,000 fewer than in 1928 for the comparative day. If that ratio is maintained through the final day—there were 61,483 who waited until the last minute in 1928—total registration for the city of Pittsburgh will be 133,000 in round numbers. That will be something like 50,000 fewer than four years ago, when the three-day total reached 183,672.

If the city registration is off that much, it is reasonable to assume that the vote will be off proportionately, and that the same proportion of stay-at-homes will be found in the county. In 1928 the county vote was a shade above 376,000, Hoover, carrying the county over Smith by 54,893.

His plurality over Roosevelt this year will not be that large, analyzing the registration figures from any angle.

Ha, Good Old 1898!

TWO WATCHMEN HELD IN LOOTING

Two special patrolmen, guarding Squirrel Hill homes, were arrested early today, accused of stealing electric light bulbs and fuses from a vacant house at 1324 Inverness street.

A neighbor reported to Squirrel Hill police that a light had been seen moving in the house, and when Patrolman M. J. O'Connor and a squad arrived they arrested two men, who said they were James Long, 2250 Almont street, Carrick, and Peter O'Toole, 78 Ellars street. They were charged with being suspicious persons.

The men wore special officer badges and carried guns. These were taken from them in the police station.

Police said the men admitted taking the bulbs and fuses. The men are employed to guard Squirrel Hill homes, and are not on the city payroll.

Arraigned before Magistrate J. Scott Morgan, they were held for further investigation. They said they found the fuses and bulbs on the porch.

Asks Dime at Police Station, Fined $10

Magistrate John J. Sweeney, in Mt. Washington Police Station, today opined that Harry Bradnick, 35, of 112 Secane street, had too much nerve, and fined Bradnick $10 or 30 days in the workhouse.

Testimony of Patrolman Clarence Linger was to the effect that Bradnick had "panhandled" him for a dime in front of the police station last night and when he refused the request Bradnick insisted Linger was a "wise cop." He was charged with violating a city ordinance.

WHARF DISPUTE CONTINUES

The settlement of the postoffice strike will make no difference in the battle which John Douglas, Jr., is waging to retain the disputed wharf site on the Allegheny River, near the foot of Stanwix street, from which equipment leased by Douglas was towed under orders of George C. Vang early yesterday.

Attorney W. F. Michael, counsel for Douglas, declared legal steps will be taken today to regain possession.

A suit alleging trespass will be filed against Vang, Michael declared. Also an injunction will be sought, which, if granted, would restore the Douglas flotilla to its old anchorage.

A derrick boat and barges of the Iron City Sand Company, of which Vang is president, now occupy the disputed wharf. Vang has a lease from the city for the site, but Douglas declares he was cheated out of lease through conspiracy.

POLICE PRESS RACKET WAR HERE

Place Near Courthouse Yields Large Bar In Raid

Raids on racket headquarters in the city continued today in the vice cleanup started by Judge Frank P. Patterson following the quarterly constables' reports, two weeks ago.

Several of today's raids proved "water hauls," but finally, in a small store at 5313 Butler street, the county detectives reported finding 33 cases of home brew, four quarts of whisky and James Hennigan. Hennigan was held for court on a charge of violating the state liquor laws by Alderman Thomas Geary.

A squad of detectives under Philip Goldberg arrested John Fant, of 2408 Berthoud street, late yesterday, following pursuit from his home to Kirkpatrick street. Claiming Fant is a numbers pick-up man, detectives charged him before Alderman Geary was maintaining a lottery. He furnished $2,500 bail. Detectives said he had briefcases filled with "numbers" slips which they held as evidence.

LARGE BAR RAIDED

A so-called favorite resort for employes of the court house fell when a raid on the second floor of 809 Fifth avenue revealed a 30-foot bar, large quantities of beer and whisky. Detectives, refused admittance at the front door, kicked in a rear window, arrested Fred Monroe and charged him, before Alderman Geary, with violating the Snyder act. He was held under $1,000 bail.

A brewery and fine whiskys were seized about the same time in a raid at 4868 Lorigan street. G. Porco was arrested, charged with violating the Snyder act. Four hundred and twenty bottles of beer and 120 gallons of beer mash were confiscated.

WOMAN ARRESTED

Police then confiscated a quantity of alleged liquor at 3043 Mulberry way and arrested Mrs. Etta Walker on a charge of violating the Snyder act. She furnished $1,000 bail.

Confiscation of 400 bottles of homebrew was reported in a raid on a house at 617 Buhl way. The occupant of the house was being sought by North Side police.

Ten men and two women were arrested when police raided Mike Milkerin's place, 601 East Lacock street, today and reported finding moonshine and 100 bottles of home brew. Milkerin was fined $100 in North Side Police Court on a charge of conducting a disorderly house. The others were discharged.

Mrs. Sutter complained to police her husband was neglecting his barber business, and had gone to live in the home of Harry Ehrhart, at 611 West Diamond street. Sutter was one of Ehrhart's best customers, the wife said.

The police raided Ehrhart's place. They reported finding 10 crocks of beer mash and 200 cases of home brew. Ehrhart was fined $100, his wife, Anna, was discharged, and Magistrate Ray Schneider succeeded in reuniting the Sutters.

Freak of Nature Is Found Near Sewickley

First it was thought they were meteors, but they're only freaks of nature, sandstone balls imbedded in hard rock, which Andrew Lester, professor of natural science at the Frick training school, and Herbert C. Spencer, principal of the school, found in the Glenwillard district, across from Sewickley.

The sandstone balls, now a part of science exhibits at the school, were dug up by workmen who were excavating along a Glenwillard road, Lester said.

Nature, he explained, in some way found a cavity in the stone, and fine sand washed in, was rounded by the rock forming about it, and hardened by pressure. The sandstone is much softer than the rock about it.

WALSH TO CURB CELL VISITORS

If you think it's easy to go to jail, try to get into one of the cells at Central Police Station.

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh made it more difficult than ever toady when he announced that policemen, detectives, attorneys or anybody else be barred from the cellroom unless accompanied by the desk sergeant or turnkey. Prisoners, of course, are still admitted.

This order closes the investigation which was supposed to determine how two prisoners outwitted the police. When James Foster and John Russo were arrested on suspicion by Detective Walter Monahan, neither had a driver's license. But during their night in jail somebody tossed them the needed credentials. Monahan blamed the police.

CAR PLUNGES 3 INTO POOL

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 22.—J. V. Tomlinson, Kansas City cattle man, went out to take a picture of the old swimmin' hole this morning and landed, with his wife and chauffeur, right in the middle of the hole. All were bruised when their car plunged over a 30-foot embankment. Tomlinson and his wife, Marie, 59, back to visit scenes of his boyhood, were driving along a narrow country road when a horse and buggy approached. The chauffeur, George Meads, 29, Negro, pulled to one side of the road to allow the woman driver and her rig to pass, when the car toppled over.

Maine Prefers Bird in Hand to Chickens in Pot

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

For the information of those Republican leaders who run and read and then run faster:

"The vote in Maine proves that the state is normal after the summer boarders go home.

That the Republicans want to forget the slogan about Maine being the political pathfinder for the nation.

That you can fool some of the people some of the time but you can't eat crackers without making crumbs.

That you don't have to change hosses in midstream if you're in Gar Wood's motorboat.

That a bird in the hand is worth two chickens in every pot.

That the handwriting is on the wall and every day the sign painters touch it up a little brighter.

That it is too late to lock the door after the farm board tried to get rid of the mice by setting fire to the barn.

CASH ADVANCED BY CITY TO BE INSUFFICIENT

Senator Harris Ready To Seek Money From Pinchot

Word that, despite frantic efforts to save the situation, there will be a two to three days' lapse in relief work in the county next week, unless new funds can be tapped, amazed relief leaders today.

S. E. Claney, director of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, said that the $37,000 turned over from the city's share of Talbot bill funds last week will be insufficient to tide the county over until October 1, when new funds will become available.

HARRIS TO ACT

Apprised of the situation, State Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the County Emergency Relief Board, administrator here of the Talbot money, said he would take immediate steps to save the situation, if possible.

He promised to ask the Governor to make available part of the October quota of Talbot money.

More delay before the County Poor Directors can finance relief outside the city limits seemed in store today, as attorneys puzzled over the Steedle bill, allowing the poor directors to issue relief bonds with the consent of the County Commissioners.

BONDS UNLIKELY

The bill, drawn up by Harry W. MacIntosh, attorney for the Poor Board, was looked to to provide funds for relief work in the county. County Commissioners Tuesday approved an $800,000 bond issue, if attorneys for the county approved.

It was learned today that following numerous conferences, rejection of the bond issue is to be expected from attorneys, on the grounds that bonds can only be used to refund loans made by the Poor Directors up to January 1, 1933.

Until money is obtained, about 17,500 families in the county must continue on near-starvation rations and thousands of children must go without shoes.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, we are off again at our old trait. We are not supposed to meddle in foreign affairs, so we don't tell Germany she "can't arm." We "advise her not to." Now there is nothing that makes a nation or an individual as mad as to have somebody say, "Now this is really none of my business, but I am just "advising you." They never will get anywhere with this disarmament, for no nation can tell another nation what they need to defend themselves. That's a personal affair. If I sleep with a gun under my pillow I don't want somebody from across the street to "advise" me that I don't need it.

TATE YOUTHS DESCRIBE KILLING OF MOUNTAINEER FATHER

INQUEST HOLDS 3 SONS FOR MURDER

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 22.—Although only one person fired a charge of birdshot into the body of Iley S. Tate, mountaineer, and crushed the victim's skull with a rock, charges of murder late yesterday were filed against his three sons, John, 21; George, 19, and Sam, 14.

A coroner's jury had listened for an hour and a half as the three youths told of the concoction and execution of the murder plot in which their "old man" was the victim. There was some question as to John's guilt, but the jury recommended that the three be held for murder.

Within an hour after the verdict was returned County Detective Jack Hann appeared before Justice W. J. Ruble, of Fairchance, and signed informations against the youths.

STATEMENTS READ

Stillness reigned in the office of Coroner S. A. Baltz as County Detective Hann and State Trooper George D. Naughton gave testimony regarding the events before and after the ambush slaying.

Excerpts from the signed statements of the three boys were read by District Attorney Wade K. Newell.

John was quoted as saying, at a bedroom conference of the trio near a room where their father slept:

"It'll be a pretty good chance to kill the old man tomorrow."

The deal with Charley Chipps involving $200 in cash and three head of cattle had previously been discussed. The sons had been asked to accompany Tate down the mountainside to get the cattle.

Early in the morning George, Sam and their father walked briskly along the mountain road to Perry Dillow's home, three miles away, George said in his statement. Then the sons walked ahead. Sam and George agreed they would hurry to the goat farm where the shotgun was kept. Sam stood guard as George got the weapon.

DESCRIBES KILLING

The actual killing was thus described by George in his sworn statement:

"We (Sam and George) walked along the road, watching back occasionally to see if the old man was coming. About a mile from the goat farm I saw a real place for the murder. I stopped after telling Sam that this was the very place and Sam went on down the road. I hid behind a wild cherry bush in the brush about 15 feet from the road. I could see out, but I didn't think anyone could see in.

"With gun in hand I waited about five minutes. I reached the gun to my face as I heard the old man and later saw him come within range. Then I blazed away. He was 40 feet away and I took aim at his breast. He stopped as the charge of shot struck him. He ran about 25 feet toward me and fell. I think I fired at about 30 feet.

"I waited about two seconds and walked out of the brush. I wanted to be sure he was dead. Sam came up in a little while.

TOOK VICTIM'S MONEY

"'I got him,' I told Sam and he replied, 'Have you?' 'Yes, sir,' I told him. Sam didn't think he was dead because he still had his eyes open and I laid down the gun, picked up a rock and struck him twice on the head.

"Sam refused to help me dispose of the body after we have taken money and other things from the old man's pockets. I carried the body a short distance and then grabbed him by the wrists and dragged him into the side of the bushes."

MACHRAY GIVEN 7 YEARS IN PEN

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—John A. Machray, 67, former bursar of the University of Manitoba, was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment on each charge today after he had pleaded guilty to the theft of $901,175 from the university and of $60,000 from Heber Archibald, his former law partner. The sentences will run concurrently.

Feeble and ill, Machray made his third court appearance this morning. He leaned heavily on his cane as he rose while the charge against him was read. He pleaded guilty and asked for a summary trial.

Machray was arrested several months ago on a charge of misappropriating university funds. A physician who accompanied him on several preliminary court appearances said the defendant was seriously ill.

OWNER RESCUES TRAPPED DOG

Its master's voice after one-half hour of coaxing today brought a dog named "Queenie" from a narrow crevice between two houses at 3903 Liberty avenue when police and Animal Rescue League workers' efforts had failed.

"Queenie" was in the crevice 26 hours. Police and workers used long poles for six hours yesterday endeavoring to rescue the dog. They believed it could liberate itself if so inclined. When its owner patiently coaxed today, "Queenie" became inclined to abandon its narrow prison.

Engineer Married To Gibsonia Girl

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Miss Ellen May Morris, daughter of Jacob Morris, wealthy oil and gas operator of Gibsonia, near Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Morris, was married yesterday to Orran C. Hoffman, mechanical engineer, of Allison Park.

The ceremony was performed at the Little Church Around the Corner by the Rev. Harrison Rockwell. The couple will make a honeymoon tour of eastern states by automobile and in two weeks will be at home in Waynesburg, where Mr. Hoffman will enter the oil business.

Autos at Amherst Rank as 'Privilege'

AMHERST, Mass., Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Declaring that use of automobiles by undergraduates is a distraction, President Stanley King, of Amherst College, today greeted students with the announcement that the use of cars will be considered a privilege and not a right.

He pointed out that Amherst College is designed for those who enjoy the intellectual life, and recommended to those who considered college a delightful place to "loaf" that they "go to Palm Beach in the winter."

Wills $100,000 Estate To Wife, Daughter

Leon M. Baskin, Mt. Lebanon, in his will probated today, directed his $100,000 estate be divided between his wife, Margaret, and his daughter, Ethel Joan Baskin.

Mrs. Baskin is to receive $10,000 every five years, and at her death, the remainder of her half of the estate is to go to the daughter.

Park, Staff Resume Weekly Round Table

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today resumed his weekly round table luncheons with his staff at Hotel Henry. Problems of the prosecutor's office were discussed by Park and his assistants.

POLICE HOLD 8 IN BOMBING

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Eight suspects were rounded up today for questioning in the bombing of the home of Judge John P. McGoorty as police and other agencies declared a "fight to the finish on terrorism."

Lee Koeppen, 16, whose eyes were blown away as he bent over the bomb, was too weak to undergo an intended operation.

Mrs. Vera Moyer, the 16-year-old mother, who will carry scars of the tragedy throughout life, was pronounced out of danger. Physicians said they believed they could save her sight.

The principal suspect in the atrocity was Alexander St. John, who threatened Judge McGoorty 18 months ago after the judge ordered him to pay $1,500 to a niece whom he had outraged.

U. S. TO FIGHT CAPONE PLEA

ATLANTA, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Al Capone, who shyly covered his handcuffs with his hat while going to Federal Court to seek his release, was back in prison today and the government prepared to fight the gangster's plans for freedom from the 10-year sentence for violation of income tax laws.

The former Chicago crime leader appeared in United States District Court yesterday after a petition for his release on a writ of habeas corpus had been filed unexpectedly by his attorneys. Judge Marvin Underwood designated October 19 for the habeas corpus hearing.

Capone's attorneys contended he was illegally detained because of the statute of limitations.

2 STAGE HOLDUP 'TO PAY TAXES'

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—"We hate to do this but we got to pay our taxes some way," explained one of two youthful thugs who invaded a bridge party at the palatial home of Thomas P. Archer, Detroit industrialist.

The youths took jewelry, $50 in cash and the expensive fur wraps of two debutante guests, Miss Martha Blodgett and Miss Frances Daley.

The bandits were so nervous that Archer had to light a cigaret for one of them, the victims told police.

MONKEYS AIDING PARALYSIS WAR

BRYN MAWR, Pa., Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Thirty monkeys clambered about a "home-made" cage in Bryn Mawr Hospital today, their loud squeaks echoing through the lower halls of the institution.

In an obscure laboratory nearby, surrounded by countless test tubes and mixtures, a group of physicians labored to discover the cause of infantile paralysis and to produce a means of bringing the present outbreak in Philadelphia to an end.

The doctors are using the monkeys for their tests because they are the only animals subject to the disease.

Negotiations Off In Cagney 'Strike'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—(AP.) James Cagney, red-headed screen star, has been so determined in his one-man strike that Warner Brothers' studios announced all negotiations for his return to the screen are at an end. The studio management today said he refused to make any concessions and was "arbitrary."

Cagney's manager commented negotiations were "at a standstill." The actor demands a salary increase.

Sentenced to Death For 'Torch Murder'

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Joseph Hudock, 24, of Stockton, yesterday was convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to death for slaying Stanley E. Yurish, Butler Township miner and farmer. Stephen Barron, co-defendant, awaits trial.

Earlier yesterday Hudock pleaded that he was intoxicated when he shot Yurish to death and then set fire to his body on May 15.

Indiana Mayor, Ill, Held Sane by Jury

ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Mayor Jesse H. Mellett is sane and no guardian will be appointed for him. That was the decision of a jury in Harrison County Circuit Court here on a suit filed by Walter Druley, a grocer. Mayor Mellett is confined in an Indianapolis Hospital.

Stone, Farm Board Chief, in Hospital

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Under observation to determine if an operation will be necessary, James C. Stone, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, today is at the Brady Clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Dr. Hugh H. Young, attending physician, said the operation, if necessary, would not be serious

Jay Cooke Sick, Gives Up Campaign

SHARPSBURG CHIEF ACCUSED IN STORMY COUNCIL SESSION

MAN CHARGES ATTEMPT AT 'SHAKEDOWN'

While a crowd of several hundred applauded, hooted and threw the room into confusion, Sharpsburg Council last night appointed three new policemen, cut the working hours of several departments in half, so additional men can be hired, and took under consideration the demand of an irate citizen that Chief of Police Sam Fair be discharged.

Ed Weichel, arrested several weeks ago when federal men raided his place on Main street, declared the chief had attempted to collect $10 from him "to send somebody on a vacation to Atlantic City." When he refused, he said, his place was raided. Affidavits from Weichel and a friend were received and turned over to the police committee.

Chief Fair today declared Weichel's accusation was in line with the latter's threat to "get him" for warning the raiding federal agents while in Weichel's place to be careful as a mob was outside waiting to attack the agents.

MORE JOBS VOTED

As a means of aiding the unemployed of the borough, working hours in the water and light, and garbage departments were cut in half and employment of additional men voted.

Three men were added to the police department, including one dropped from the rolls last week. They were Armo Lavia, reinstated, and Anthony Domian and Patrick Dolan, the latter at one time chief of police eight years.

At the same time it was ordered that each member of the police department be required to take a month's vacation without pay, as an economy measure.

SURCHARGE DROPPED

On motion of Councilman Joseph Taresi it was voted to abolish the surcharge of $104.40 imposed last week on Councilman William E. Harris and J. J. Malley. Action was taken over a vigorous protest of Councilman Lawrence A. Bragg, who was instrumental last week in having the charge carried out.

The surcharge represented 28 days' wages of William F. Harris, Councilman Harris' son, who was replaced in the water and light department by the committee, after council, as a whole, had voted his dismissal.

Throughout the meeting the crowd which had gathered long before the councilmen arrived, kept the room in an uproar. Alfred Pontelli, chairman of Council, threatened to eject the hecklers unless they ceased their noise.

Husband Beat Her, Dancer's Suit Says

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Fontaine La Rue, stage dancer, obtained a divorce yesterday from Albert Antonelli, whom she charged with cruelty. She testified Antonelli beat her and forced her out of his motor car near a police station with the advice that she inform authorities. She testified:

"But I didn't go. I was all bruised."

Kirke Davis Added To Staff at P. M. I.

Kirke Davis, violinist, has been added to the teaching staff of the Pittsburgh Musical Institute, it was announced today. The opening of a new branch at Glenshaw with Frank Kennedy, pianist, in charge, was also announced.

Edward Reynolds was 20 before he learned nature had given him two hearts.

He was getting a physical examination at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company plant, when excited physicians, in a huddle because they couldn't find his heart beat, finally located a heart on the right side of the body. X-rays showed the other heart on the left side. It was smaller.

Reynolds is a machinist at the Westinghouse plant, is 32 now, and married. Furloughed, he spends most of his time around his home at 820 Woodworth street, Wilkinsburg.

He sat on his porch today and told of nature's prank. He said:

"I was living in South Fork, near Johnstown, when I broke my arm while swimming.

"The doctor who set my arm discovered that my heart was on the right side.

"Then I moved to Pittsburgh, and started to work for the Westinghouse. I was examined by the company doctors, and there was fun when the physician, putting his instrument to check my heart beat, couldn't find any."

Youth in Flight Shot by Policeman

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Aurelle Richer, 14, was shot last night by a policeman after he broke away from officers who had captured him and a companion in a machine shop, after they had responded to a burglar alarm.

TRIAL OF BANK OFFICIAL SET

Date for trial of Ansley D. Smith, of 522 Teece avenue, Bellevue, secretary-treasurer of the closed Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue, charged with perjury, misdemeanor and embezzlement of the bank's funds, has been set for October 17.

Naming of the trial date follows a series of delays due to legal technicalities, according to Special Deputy Secretary of Banking George F. Taylor, Jr., in charge of the bank.

Smith was arrested shortly after the bank closed, October 25. Taylor sought to serve a warrant on Smith on November 12, but was blocked for several days by Smith's ill health.

Original charges, that Smith embezzled $12,229.74 of the bank's money, were changed in January to perjury, misdemeanor and embezzlement. Smith is free under $15,000 bail.

Retiring Volunteer Fire Chief Honored

Bellevue firemen last night paid tribute to James (Pop) Greenough, retiring chief of the volunteer fire department at a banquet given at the company's headquarters. Greenough, aged 76, and a member of the fire company since 1900, was presented with a diamond studded chief's emblem. J. E. Wills was named to succeed Greenough.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the artist, N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the heartless treachery of a band of vicious Miami Indians, who massacred the settlers with inhuman ferocity... August 15, 1812.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies
... the mildest cigarette
you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

Sultan on a Bus

I like to ride on a bright green bus,
  I love to sit on top.
I make believe it's an elephant
  And when the lights say "Stop"
I just pretend he hesitates to take a mighty breath.
An elephant's an elephant, you can't ride him to death.

I wear a bright kimono, and a turban with a stone,
And tho' the bus is crowded, I am riding it alone.
We jog along the jungle paths
  Through miles of monster trees,
(The buildings hide the burning sun
  And don't shut out the breeze.)

It's grand to ride atop a bus without a single care,
Why does the busman spoil it all by calling for his fare?
—Naomi Shaw.

Eight, Nine and Out!

Some of us were grouped in front of Lindy's pastrami emporium near the Hollywood Theater the other midnight, when Sid Silvers and Jack Benny, noted lampooners, saw a famous ham pass by.

"I never saw that guy," said Benny, "when he wasn't dressed in the hammiest outfits. He always looks like an actor!"

"Yeh," agreed Silvers, "except when he's on a stage!"

Addendum

And Lee Wahl says if Gandhi goes without food they'll soon be calling him a martyr. Over here, he adds, they call them actors!

Something to Advertise

Frisco the clown, who gets the operator at the office to ring you by announcing himself as the sporting editor for The War Cry (haw!), was motoring in Brooklyn and saw an open manhole, at which there was a "Man Working" sign.

"Huh," he soliloquized, "more Republican propaganda!"

How!

The other night one of those very hammy vaudevillians was driving his gay car down Broadway. It had all the colors of the rainbow, with stripes yet! And it featured seven horns.

Frisco was trying to cross the Forty-seventh street corner when the car came tearing along, and to avoid hitting Frisco it slowed down, much to the annoyance of the ham, who yelled and honked all seven trumpets.

"What!" gagged Frisco, "no drums?"

As If You Didn't Know

The difference between a gentleman and a columnist, says Hal Horn, the exploiter, is that a gentleman is a fellow who knocks before entering a boudoir, and a columnist does his knocking after leaving one.

Balm

Mr. Richard Watts, Jr., of the Herald Tribune's movie bureau, picks up this department's battered and bruised nose and administers the following anaesthetic to ease the ache:

"It is my suspicion that William Soskin, the book critic of the Post, came very close to truth and justice when he suggested recently that the outspoken keyhole-peeping columnist was but a natural and healthy reaction from the recent tendency to make news a series of carefully prepared handouts from industrious press agents.

In Deep

Tallulah Bankhead is opposite Gary Cooper in "Devil and the Deep," Sheridan Square picture starting Saturday.

"The interest in gossip undeniably has its unpleasant aspects, but it is, on the whole, a healthy and natural instinct that is much better off when it is not being ruthlessly suppressed . . . At the same time I am very doubtful that the suicides, the wrecking of homes and the other horrors that are supposed to go with the depredations of the columnists can be believed in with any completeness.

"As much as I would like to credit the colorful details of these works of fiction and the cinema, I'm afraid that the columnist is merely a minor irritant, and that his value lies in his ability to supply piquant, if unreliable, footnotes to the passing show rather than in his power as either a scourge or a moral force."

Always belittlin.'

It Happened!

Monroe Silver, the creator of "Cohen on the Telephone," a one-time rage, was caught in a traffic jam in the 50's the other day, when a panhandler ankled up and asked for some dimes.

"I'm only the chauffeur," lied Monroe. "I'm taking this for the boss down to a used-car place to sell it."

"Yeh?" bargained the bum, "what's he want for it?"

That's All There Was!

Ethel Barrymore, who never calls her shots (and don't we know!!!), was approached by a movie director recently, who said:

"Whom would you rather be—Duse or Bernhardt?"

"I'd prefer," she said, stiffly, "to be Ethel Barrymore!"

"Unfortunately," was the snapper, "you are."

A Form of Criticism

In the theaters nowanights the programs contain an essay on critics and actors by Max Beerbohm, who once took up the sentimental side of the player's problem. The reprint urges the reviewers to go easy on the poor devils. The last words are "Mock Them Not!"

To which John Mason Brown adds:

"The School of Hard Mocks."

Love Is Like That

Russ Columbo, who has a way with the ladies, gets the wildest mash mail from them. He got this yesterday from one of them:

"Darling: I'd climb the highest mountain if I thought you'd be on top. I'd swim the deepest river if I thought you'd be on the other side. I'd go through fire if I thought it would bring me to you. Love—Dolly."

"P. S.: If it doesn't rain tomorrow I'll be over."

Burlesque War in Gotham Shows Where Boot Is in Place

By GEORGE SEIBEL

A censor is a bad thing for literature or the stage. Yet one can't help approving what the new Mayor of New York City has just done in closing some of the burlesque theaters along Forty-second street. Mayor McKee says he is "not a reformer," and he did not close those theaters on moral grounds—it's merely a question of good taste.

Mr. Seibel

There are laws to prevent nuisances. Any man who built a soap refinery in a residence community would be promptly ejected. Now these burlesque shows in Forty-second street, New York, are very much like a soap refinery, except that they have nothing to do with the promotion of cleanliness. They offend the nostrils—they destroy the value of property—and they make money by debasing the public taste.

Nudity is not immoral. If you read your Bible, you know man was not created with clothes. Nudity in a bathroom is not out of place—and the sculptures of the Greeks are divinely beautiful—and an athlete showing the perfection of the human body may be an inspiring vision. But the nudity that's the staple stock-in-trade of such stage exhibitions has nothing to do with art, nothing to do with morals; it is simply the corruption of good taste for the profit of people who have no taste.

BURLESQUE THAT WAS

There was a time when burlesque was respectable—when Lydia Thompson, Pauline Markham and Eliza Weathersby were its queens. Lydia Thompson, who came from England to America in 1868, was a person of distinction—the younger Dumas wrote a play for her. Eliza Weathersby was in the famous Union Square Theater company, along with Clara Morris and Stuart Robson. But burlesque lost caste about the time Weber and Fields quit and Lillian Russell became a dowager duchess.

Now burlesque is usually very cheap and very nasty.

It isn't a question of varying standards. No one ever heard of objections being filed against a "Hamlet" or "Lohengrin," by people who did not find them to their taste. Even people who do not have the faculties of appreciation developed to the point where they can understand "Hamlet" or "Lohengrin" know these performances are not a nuisance nor an offense to people of poor taste.

You may be bored by "Hamlet," but you won't hold your nose. But the Parisian Grass Widows or the Venetian Venuses themselves know they're an affront to good taste. The question they ask themselves most frequently is, "How far can we go?" The correct answer to that question is, "The further you go, the better the community will like it." They can't go too far away.

AUTOCRAT IS NEEDED

That's what Mayor McKee has now told them in New York City. It may be an autocratic action. Mussolini cleaned the beggars out of Italy in the same way with an autocratic broom.

Of course there will be bitter opposition in the courts. Vested interests will clamor that their property rights are being confiscated. Perhaps they are. It would be well if a lot of property rights of various sorts were confiscated. Don't the police take away the revolvers of gunmen—when they catch them?

When we had two-a-day vaudeville in Pittsburgh — and there's money in it for any man that can bring it back — Eugene Connelly sat in a box every Monday afternoon with a pad and pencil, making a list of the jokes and songs that would have to be cut out before the evening performance.

He wasn't a censor, strictly speaking, he was only a man of sense.

People of good taste are not a vast majority, and it is well to have a watchman or two who will curb the people of poor taste. Most of the big revues that cater to the eye might improve their chances of success if they engaged somebody with a nose to remove the garbage from their shows.

NEED NO EXPERTS

For such censorship no special expert knowledge is required. When the well-fed and richly upholstered lady known as Mae West was before a New York court, for having produced some offensive play, the judge ruled that the state might introduce experts who have a "special knowledge" of words of double and hidden meanings spoken on the stage—words which may seemingly be innocuous to a jury. There's a better rule than that—When in doubt, kick out!

There is hardly one person in a hundred thousand who could be trusted with the boot. But the Mayor of New York seems to know just where he can use it without loss to art or business. The showmen may argue that they must live, but they ought to be made to prove that. The same argument could be put up by a flea, a mosquito or a skunk. Perhaps we ought to apologize to the skunk, who is a pretty beast, useful ad in this life, and ornamental after death. He can't help his antisocial aroma.

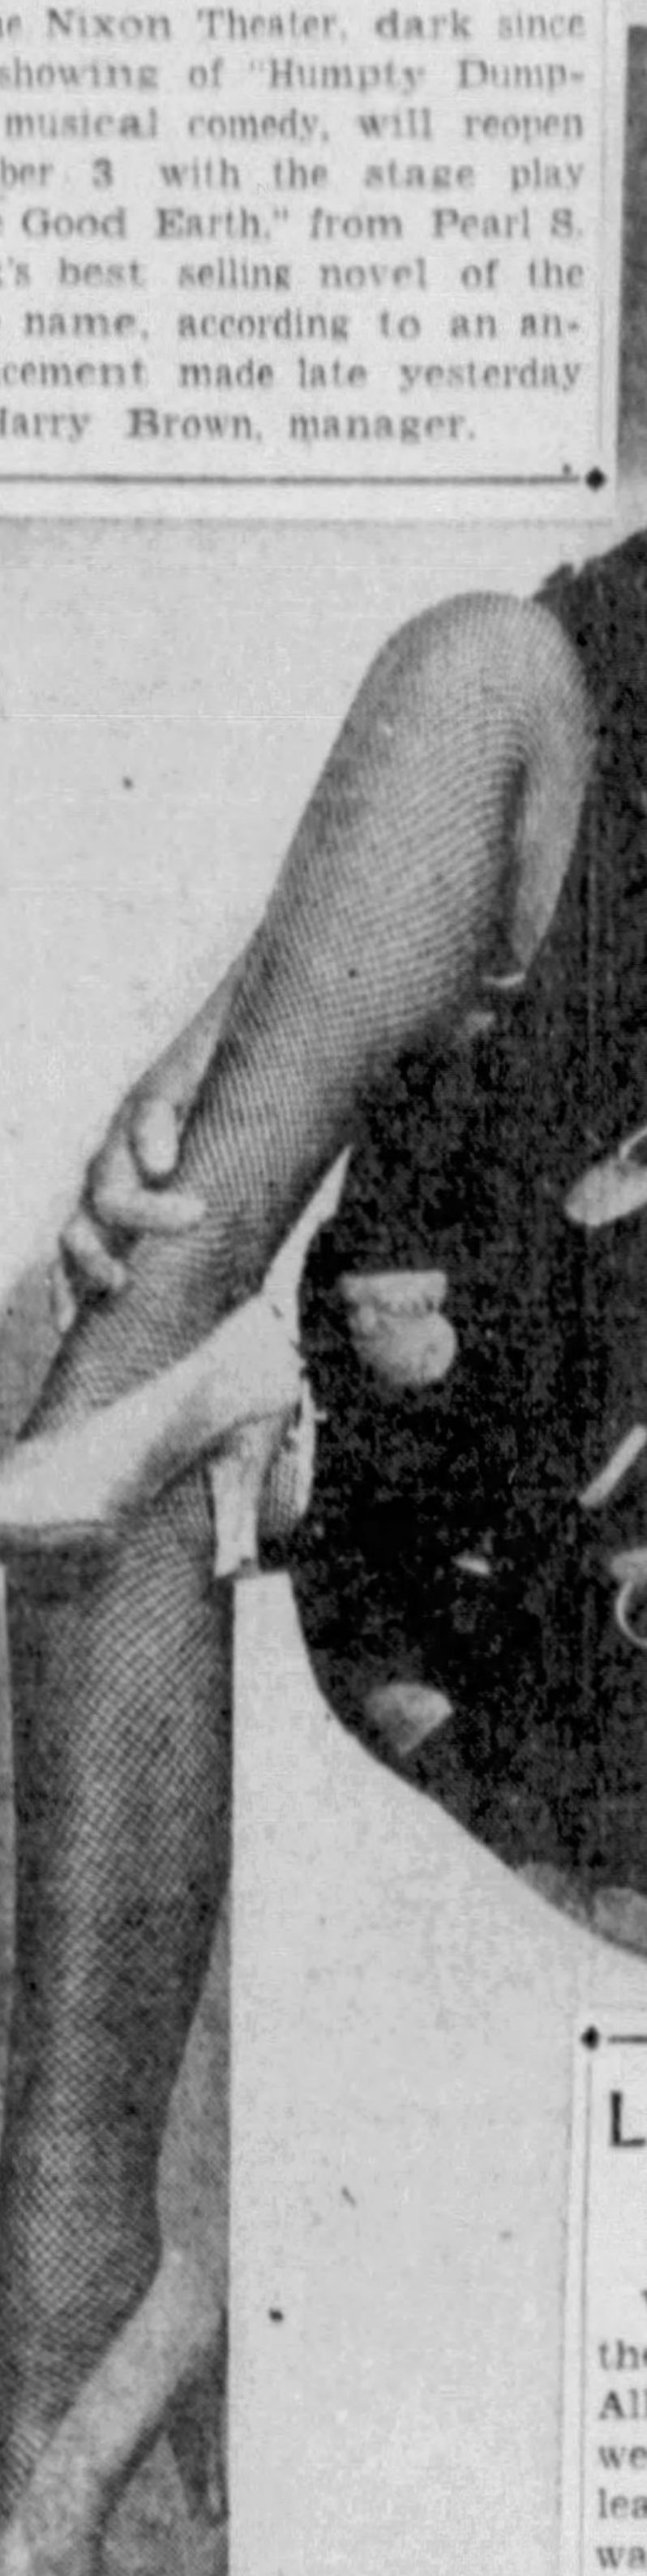
'The Good Earth' Will Reopen Nixon

The Nixon Theater, dark since the showing of "Humpty Dumpty," musical comedy, will reopen October 3 with the stage play "The Good Earth," from Pearl S. Buck's best selling novel of the same name, according to an announcement made late yesterday by Harry Brown, manager.

New Role



Joan Blondell Has Feature Role In 'Three On a Match.'

American Bullfighter In Picture Role

Sidney Franklin, the American bullfighter, will have an important role in the new Eddie Cantor screen musical comedy, "The Kid from Spain."

Leo Carrillo Gets Leading Role

When the picture which carries the working title of "Cauliflower Alley" goes into production next week, Leo Carrillo will have the leading masculine role. Carrillo was signed for this production after a number of outstanding players had been considered. The story, written by Nat Pendleton, former national amateur wrestling champion, who also has one of the principal roles, tells of the adventures of a "mat" artist who bucks the so-called wrestling trust and is framed to defeat, but regains his crown in an encounter which is filled with absorbing melodramatic moments.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

The Snatch.

IT HAPPENED about five years ago. The story didn't attract much attention in this part of the country, and I doubt if many of you will recall it offhand. Kidnaping was then a big business proposition. Since the Lindbergh tragedy, the racket has gone into a deep decline.

Little Billy was standing on the curb in front of his home when it happened. His mother was cleaning windows at the side of the house.

A car pulled up close to the curb. A pair of strong arms grabbed the kid. The car sped away.

Simple? Sure. But that's only the groundwork in this game. The important thing is not the actual kidnaping. The big point is to know how much ransom to ask for, and whom to get it from. Then you must be careful in getting the money, and twice as careful in returning your victim.

After that you spend the rest of your life wondering why you shudder every time someone stares at you . . .

Little Billy had been gone about three weeks before his frantic parents heard anything from his captors. The press of the city in question had been very busy denouncing everyone from the President to the Mayor for not doing something about it. Then came the phone call.

"Little Billy is okay," said the voice. The baby's father trembled as the words floated over the wire. "This is a test message. If you value that kid's life, don't tell a soul about it. I'll phone again in two days. G'bye."

Billy's father heeded that warning. He told no one, not even his wife, about that phone call. Two days later the phone bell rang again.

"Go down to West street at noon tomorrow. You'll find three cars parked on the left side near Smith street. Throw a package with $30,000 in it in the center car and walk on south. Don't tell anyone about this call or that baby will be dead within an hour."

"But," the frantic father pleaded, "I can't get $30,000 without arousing suspicion. I've got $15,000 right here, which I've told no one about since Billy was—since Billy went away. I can give you that. But no more. Will you take it?"

"If you're lying," the voice said, "we'll take care of you later. But we'll believe you for the time being. Put that $15,000 in a bundle and throw it in that car window. Don't forget. In the center car. At noon. G'bye."

The father wiped the perspiration from his brow. He kept his secret to himself, however, and again told no one. At noon the following day he walked down to West and Smith streets and found three cars parked on the left side of the street. He casually walked by the center car, saw no one in it, and dumped the $15,000 bundle inside.

The he continued to walk south . . .

Now the scene changes. We look into the office of a well-known fence. And a fence, as you doubtless know, is a person who disposes of ill-gotten goods for crooks.

John the Fence was always known as a right guy. That is, he played squarely with the crooks who did business with him. If one of the gang stuck up a truckload of cigarets, he'd buy 'em at 30 per cent of their value, and take a chance on being able to get rid of them for 20 per cent more. If another gangster brought in jewelry, he'd buy that, too, and dispose of it. And if one of the boys was broke, he'd lend him enough money to keep a flock of wolves from the door.

Such a man was John the Fence. Nothing was too good for his friends.

He was sitting in his office when the kidnaper who 'phoned Billy's father walked in.

"'Lo, Pete," John said. "What are you sweating about?"

Pete looked around carefully. "Anybody here?"

"No," said John the Fence. "What's on your mind?"

"I got some money here," said Pete. "Fifteen grand. It's hot as blazes. I want you to get rid of it for me. And give me some of your own change to play with in the meantime."

John the Fence looked at the money.

"What kind of a job did this come from?"

"Stickup. I did the job out of town a few days ago. It was bigger than what I expected and I think they got the numbers on these bills. If you're gonna pass this dough, I'd advise you to use it only among the boys. Get me?"

"Sure," said John. "Don't you worry about it. Here's two grand until I get more for you. Come back in a week and I'll give you all but fifteen hundred. That's mine. Okay?"

"Sure," said Pete. "You're a great guy."

"Boloney," said John the Fence. "Anything for a friend. You know me. Nobody ever got hurt helpin' a friend." . . .

The scene changes again. We're looking in on a bit of camp life in the woods. Three men sit in front of a cabin. A little boy sits playing with a kitten nearby. A tall man walks up the path toward the cabin.

"We been crossed," he says angrily. "Somebody beat us to it and hooked the old man for fifteen grand."

"You're kiddin'," says one of the other men.

"Kiddin' the devil," was the tall man's retort. "Some louse told the old man he had the baby, and the dope came across. I tried to nudge him for more, but there ain't no use kiddin' ourselves. He ain't got no more.

"The kid's gotta be sprung—an' he's gotta be sprung pronto. Ain't no use holdin' him when the well's dry. I got a few serial numbers of the bills the old man handed out. Whoever's got these bills with them numbers—that's the guy that double-crossed us.

"Come on, you mugs. We gotta get busy." . . .

The scene changes for the last time. Now we're in a newspaper office and we're standing beside the city desk. Forget the mice for the time being and watch the city editor as he maps out the headline for the next edition.

"Little Billy, Safe, Back Home," it reads.

At that precise moment, the man at the switchboard looks up.

"Gotta good tip, chief," he says.

"Yeah?" says the city editor. "What is it?"

The man at the switchboard reads from a bit of paper.

"Body found burned to a crisp on Norfolk and Crompton Sts. Gang killing, the police say."

"Zat so?" observes the city editor. "Any identification?"

"Yes. No doubt about it. It's John the Fence."

The city editor looked startled.

"It can't be," he cried. "The police must be wrong. John the Fence never did anything but help people. And nobody ever got hurt for helping a friend."....

Enright Has 'City Blues'

"Big City Blues" at the Enright lifts the lid from New York night life and shows you what happens to a country boy with a bank roll when he gets in the hands of gin-drinking chislers.

The chap is Bud Reeves, comes from Indiana and is eager for anything that may turn up. Plenty does. He is first taken in hand by a cousin, who proceeds to introduce him to life. Under the older man's guidance Bud and his bank roll take rapid leave from one another.

He plays wide-eyed host to his cousin's liquor lapping friends. A party turns into a brawl and a girl is hit by a bottle and killed.

Eric Linden, portrays the innocent boy and Joan Blondell the girl who befriends him. Two others who do justice to their parts are Guy Kibbe, as a hotel detective, and Walter Catlett, the small town station master.

Kay Francis Cast in New Picture

Kay Francis will play the wife, Clemency, in "I Have Been Faithful," screen version of the international stage success, "Cynara." Phyllis Barry is the Doris, sharing honors with Miss Francis in the joint feminine leads in the story. This is Miss Francis' second role opposite Mr. Coleman. Miss Francis had her first big part on the screen opposite Ronald in "Raffles" three years ago.

Roosevelt Is Filmed on Tour

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The tour through the west of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, is strikingly pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, showing in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters. First he is seen and heard speaking from the Capitol steps at Topeka, Kan., where a huge crowd of farmers and others cheer him repeatedly. Next he is seen in Denver and finally, addressing an audience of 8,000 in the Mormon Tabernacle, Salt Lake City.

President Hoover in Washington addresses the conference of welfare leaders to whom he declares it is the duty of the government in all municipalities to see to it that no ones goes without food or shelter during the coming winter.

HORSES RACE

Unusually interesting and exciting pictures show the victory of Kerry Patch, the 30-to-1 shot, in the Futurity at Belmont Park. Ladysman, the favorite, struggles gamely to keep the lead in the 6¾ furlong dash, but Kerry Patch pushes to the front at the half-way post and is never cut down. He crosses the line to capture one of the richest racing prizes of the year amounting to $108,450. Ladysman is second and Dynastic third.

Hanging head down from a glass platform, his weight supported by shoes with vacuum cups, A. J. Pate enters a lions' den at El Monte, Cal. He carries a handful of toy balloons which the lions take delight in knocking from his hands after prodigious leaps.

Ross Somerville, of London, Ontario, is shown capturing the U. S. national amateur golf championship from Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, at Baltimore. Goodman, the conqueror of Francis Ouimet the day before, strives gamely to catch up to his youthful Canadian opponent, but Somerville's amazing putts—one of them 40 feet long—win him the title and gold medal. A big gallery follows the play.

SLOOPS COMPETE

There are beautiful pictures of the international race on Long Island Sound between 28 tiny sloops. Boats from France, England, Germany, Sweden and Hawaii take part in the contest held in rough waters. The race is won by Wings, an American entrant. There are many exciting closeups of the little sloops, some of which almost keel over in the choppy waters.

Scenes from the American Legion convention in Portland, Ore., show retiring Commander Stevens announcing the passage of a resolution calling for the payment of the veterans' bonus. There are also pictures of Louis A. Johnson, Clarksburg, W. Va., the now national commander, who makes a brief address.

Big Money

George Arliss plays a rich man who pretends to have lost his fortune in "A Successful Calamity," beginning Saturday in the Enright.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Alexandra Carlisle, an English actress who was prominent on our stage some seasons back, and who retired when she was married to a resident of Chicago, will return to professional acting shortly as a member of the Guthrie McClintic company that will be seen in "The Case of the Frightened Lady," by the late Edgar Wallace. Some years ago she was a member of the company playing Booth Tarkington's comedy, "The Country Cousin," in which an unknown actor first attracted attention. His name was, and is, Alfred Lunt.

George Jessel and Norma Talmadge are said to be definitely set for a co-starring venture that will bring them to the legitimate stage, the same being a revue. They have been cashing in heavily on joint appearances in vaudeville, and it is said they will make another tour of the same kind in a short revue that will be expanded to length necessary to provide a full evening's bill.

Loretta Young, back in Hollywood after a personal appearance tour in the East, has begun work in the principal role in "Employes' Entrance," adapted from an original story by David Cohen.

What part does hemoglobin play in the blood picture?

You know we breathe oxygen into the lungs and exhale carbon dioxide BUT did you know it takes red-blood-cells, rich in hemoglobin, to convey the oxygen throughout the body and to throw off the poisonous waste product?

When nourishment enters the blood stream it is "burned." This process makes for body heat and energy, but in the conversion process carbon dioxide gas is given off. This is poisonous to the system. It should be rapidly removed.

The hemoglobin, in the red-cells of the blood, picks up this carbon dioxide—turning the blood blue—and conveys it to the lungs to be thrown off.

Then the hemoglobin takes up the oxygen from the air, breathed into the lungs,—turning the blood red again—and carries this very important agent—so necessary for life—to every part of the body—even to the skin. This is a continuous process. Complete circulation occurs about every eight minutes. You see how very, very important it is for the blood to have its full strength of red-blood-cells and hemoglobin.

Overwork, worry, colds, sickness and diet neglect frequently reduce the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content.

When the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content are lowered, the system is not expelling the carbon dioxide as fast as it is accumulated . . . neither is the system getting sufficient oxygen.

Some of the things which may result from such a lowered blood count are pallor of the skin, poor circulation, exhaustion, weakness, quick fatigue, faintness, numbness, pricking sensations, stiffness, heart palpitation, nervousness, flabby flesh, underweight, disturbed digestion, lack of appetite, nausea, constipation, diarrhea, pimples and boils. Dangerous consequences may follow a lowered blood count.

Extensive scientific research has proved the value of S.S.S. in increasing red-cells and hemoglobin to the blood.

© The S.S.S. Co.

a tired feeling has no place in the happy "home-work" hour

—then pause a moment and reason in a common-sense way what may be the cause and its relation to the blood

NO matter whether it is the mother who is weak . . . frail . . . run-down . . . or whether it is the children—the home is not as happy as it should be.

In all humanity, and particularly among women and children, a deficiency of hemoglobin in the blood—a lowered blood count it is often called—is a very frequent complaint. Among the common symptoms, one or more of which is usually found in this condition, are, lack of appetite, poor digestion, paleness, nervousness, skin disorders, weakness, and a run-down condition generally.

Hemoglobin plays an important role in body vitality and enduring strength—it is the carrying agent in the blood which takes oxygen from the lungs to all parts of the body—even to the skin—and carries off the waste product.

S.S.S. stimulates the production of hemoglobin, when deficient. Furthermore, it promotes a keen appetite and improves digestion—so necessary in food assimilation.

You can feel the rejuvenating effect S.S.S. brings the body by its tonic action. As it increases your red-cells . . . and restores your hemoglobin . . . you will begin to feel better . . . look better.

A distinctive thing about S.S.S. is that it is made from fresh roots, barks and herbs . . . and being in liquid form it is readily absorbed by the system. It will not interfere with any other treatment you may be taking. Its efficacy has been proved by scientific tests and by its use for more than 100 years.

Try S.S.S. yourself—give it to your children! Get it from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. It may be the means of bringing better health and more happiness to you and yours. Then why not begin the S.S.S. course of treatment today? Insist on S.S.S.—the proven blood tonic.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

'A Mother Should Not Rule Her Children's Lives

Does Mama insist on picking your friends?

If so—what are you doing about it?

Stella's Mama is built that way. Although Stella is plenty old enough to vote, and has a man-sized job downtown, she hasn't yet had a friend without Mama's inspection and okey. And Mama's okey is hard to get.

Just now Joe's On the Spot. There isn't anything really wrong with Joe—except that Mama doesn't like him, and insists that he isn't good enough for her Angel Child. All this in spite of the fact that he's sober and ambitious, and has a job that is top hole for any youngster.

So Stella's about to rebel.

"Dear Sally:—

"Please try to help me out, as you've helped so many of your other fans. I am about fed upon the way things are going, and I don't know what to do about it.

"It's all on account of my mother. She has always had her own way about picking friends for my sister, and my brother, too. And now it seems to be my turn. My sister married one of Mama's Pets, which didn't turn out so well, and my brother is grown up too and has left home, and gone where he can do as he pleases. It looks as if I'd have to do that too, if I'm going to have any peace. But I don't want to.

"For several months there has been a regular row going on between me and Mama, because I won't stop seeing Joe, and she insists that I must. She just ramps and rages every time I mention him or thinks maybe I've seen him. And I'm not a kid either. I'm 21, and he is 24.

WANTS TO DICTATE

"There isn't a thing wrong with Joe. I know him. I know the people he works with. And Mama doesn't know him at all, really, except for the few times he came up to the house before she began being disagreeable to him. He has a good job with a future. Of course he only gets $35 a week now, but I think that's pretty good, considering the times. He hasn't any bad habits, and manages to save some of his money. But she just seems to have taken a dislike to him. She has been like that with everyone I've ever liked.

"Do you think that a mother has any right to dictate to her children whom they're to be friends with? Has she a right to pick out the man her girl is to marry? My mother seems to think she has, and the fact that I like anyone seems to be a regular red flag, that sets her off disliking them, no matter how nice they are. I'd gamble all I own that if she'd 'discovered' Joe before I did, she'd think he was the cat's pajamas. I met him because he came into the office where I work, a lot of times. The man I work for thinks he's a fine fellow. What ails my mother, anyway? Is she being fair? And what shall I do? "STELLA."

CASE OF JEALOUSY

What ails Mama?

She's jealous, youngster. Yes. That's it. But don't go being mad at her for that. Instead, let's see if we can figure out why she got that way. For the chances are that she doesn't realize, herself, what's back of her unreasonableness—or what she is doing to you.

It's really very simple, when you come to think about it. You see for a good many years, you youngsters were her babies. She was responsible for you, and everything you had and did. And she got a big bang out of your closeness to her . . . Your dependence on her. It made her feel important to manage you.

Then all of you began to grow out of babyhood, and away from her. You didn't need her management any more. You were able to kill your own snakes. But she didn't want you to get able to kill your own snakes. She wanted to still be the Big Noise in your lives. So she kept right on trying to manage you, because it hurt to let you go.

But that doesn't mean, honey, that you should let he do it. It's up to you to stand up for yourself to develop your own judgment and your own womanhood. So understand her, sympathize with her, love her . . . But don't let her rule you. For if you do, you will be doing both her and yourself a bad injustice. Tell her that you love her, but you have a right to live your own life. If she won't let you, move out.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Words to Avoid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—The other day in your column, in answering another question, you happened to mention something about "certain words that are slovenly used." Will you be so kind as to mention a few that you would include in this list?

2—And please say something about the use of the word "pants" when we mean "trousers."

3—Is it ever correct to say "between you and I"?

4—When should one speak of one's husband as "Mr. Thompson," when as "Tom" and when as "my husband?" This has always puzzled me, and I would love to have you clear it up for me.

5—May one ever refer to the wife of a doctor as "Mrs. Dr. Robinson?" One often hears this.

READER.

1—I'd love to make a list, a long one, of words that find themselves, at least to me, in this category.

But here are a few: Phone, instead of telephone. Gent or gents, instead of gentleman or gentlemen. Photo, instead of photograph. Auto, instead of automobile. Kids or kiddies, instead of children. Hubby, for husband. The wife of the Mrs. instead of my wife. Tux, for tuxedo, or, better, dinner jacket.

2—This is inexcusable!

3—No. We should say, "between you and me." Between is a preposition, and is followed by the objective case. I is the nominative case.

4—When a married woman is speaking of her husband to servants or to tradesmen, she refers to him as "Mr. Thompson." When she is speaking of him to friends or to people whom she knows fairly well, she refers to him as "Tom." It is indeed not really incorrect for her to refer to him as "Tom," to people who have not met him. Although usually she says "my husband" to some one whom she does not know very well.

As a matter of fact, there isn't so much difference between the last two as there is between the last two and the first one.

5—No, this is incorrect. The wife of a doctor is never "Mrs. Dr. Robinson." The title belongs to her husband, not to her.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When gums pale, are inclined to bleed, dip a soft toothbrush in ordinary tablesalt, go over the gums gently.

Mrs. Fashion, cutting up beautiful fabrics and piecing them together again, takes it for granted that the universal sisterhood is composed of members who haven't any hips. As far as she is concerned there is but on anatomical pattern, the figure with the slender waist not spread amidship, normally developed bust, shapely legs. When she planted snug little belts around the feminine equator, the fat darlings broke down and blubbered. A tough break for them. Almost as bad as the short skirt that displayed fatted calves.

The wife of a man who is the idol of, and adored by, countless gushing women has a difficult position to maintain.

She must expect to be unpopular and realize that most of the attentions paid to her are only round-about tributes to her husband.

No matter how gracious and interesting she may be, all that counts is the reflected glory of her husband.

She may be beautiful. Her taste in dress may be perfect. But she will always be adversely criticized because other women can never reconcile themselves to the fact that he should prefer her.

She must have infinite tact.

But some such wives have found it such a hopeless task they have been willing to put their famous husbands back into circulation again.

Contract Bridge -:- -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Never Abandon Hope

Many a hand at Contract Bridge which appears hopeless from the defensive standpoint, when the bidding is over and the Dummy is exposed, may produce satisfactory results, if the defending players remember that it is wise to continue the defense, even though the chances of success are apparently infinitesimal.

An example of how a Slam was defeated through the application of this axiom to play is given on the hand below, in which Mr. Walter Malowan, of New York, held the West cards.

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

♠ K J 10 9
♢ A Q 3
♣ K Q 7

Mr. Malowan
♠ 8 3 2
♢ K 10 4
♣ A 10 6 4 2

North
West East
South

♠ Q 5 4
♡ K 6
♢ J 8 7 5 2
♣ J 8 5

♠ A 7 6
♡ A Q J 10 7 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	3 N T	Pass
5 ♡	Pass	6 ♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

South had considerably overbid his hand. Three hearts was the correct bid over two notrump, but five hearts over the three notrump bid was a distinct overbid. The proof of this is that, despite Dummy's strong honor holding, it would have required three successful finesses to make the contract. South, through West's deceptive defense, guessed the spade finesse wrong, and was set 1 trick. Due to the location of the club Ace in the West hand, it was necessary to take the diamond finesse, North's honors in that suit permitting a discard of the loser.

The Opening lead was the Ace of Clubs, and when the Dummy was exposed, Mr. Malowan led the Ten of diamonds. The Declarer could see a discard for his losing diamond on the club King, so refused the finesse. The King and Queen of clubs were then led, upon which the Declarer discarded a small diamond. The heart 9 was then led and finessed, followed by five more rounds of trumps. West discarded a small diamond and a small spade. East helped his partner's strategy by also discarding a small spade. South decided that West must hold the spade Queen, so laid down the Ace of spades and followed with a low spade, finessing in the Dummy, and as a result was defeated 1 trick. West's lead of the Ten of diamonds, followed by his later discard of a small card in the suit, caused the Declarer to miscount his hand and place him with four spades.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

Today's Question

South having bid one spade, should North make a Forcing Takeout with the following hand?

♠ J 3 ♡ Q 4 2 ♢ A 6 ♣ A Q 8 6 4 3

Answer: No. Although the hand contains the bare minimum of 3 honor-tricks, it does not have a favorable distribution. In making any Forcing bid, a player should carefully consider his ability to support any response that partner may make. This hand obviously cannot support spades, is not desirable for no trump, and has only minimum adequate support for hearts.

Household Hints

Barley requires long, slow cooking and makes excellent milk puddings. A couple of tablespoons added to a hot-pot or stew increases their food value.

Convert the empty hair tonic bottle, which has a device for permitting only a few drops to fall at a time, into a bottle for bluing. The amount of bluing then may be controlled easily and the fingers and clothes will not be stained after the operation as with the ordinary bottle of blue.

Now that school days are here again the fudge-making and mailing industry will be renewed. Every caution should be taken in packing fudge for mailing, for even the most creamy batch will harden and crack in transit if carelessly packed. It takes but a minute to wrap each piece in oil paper. This will not only keep the candy in good condition, but will improve the appearance of the box. Incidentally, a pinch of salt added to the fudge while it is cooking enhances the flavor.

Don't Let Health Neglect Give Children Low Marks

Before school begins, or soon after, the children should be inspected. This is the time to take your youngsters to the doctor for physical examination. All physical defects such as enlarged tonsils and adenoids, impaired eyesight or hearing, or dental decay should be given attention, and there should be vaccination against smallpox and inoculations against diphtheria and other infectious diseases.

Dr. Copeland

During the winter months a child may be stricken with a severe attack of tonsilitis. Immediate operation is never advised because of the infection, high fever and the lowered health of the child. The mother is cautioned about the child's health and advised to have the tonsils and adenoids removed at an appropriate time. Perhaps you attended to this during the summer. If you did, the operation did not necessitate any loss of time from school.

Unfortunately, many mothers follow advice during the acute illness, but forget about the operation. The child returns to school in the fall and is exposed to infections and colds. He repeats his sad experience of the previous winter and, in addition to losing time from school, injures his general health.

In a recent survey on the health of the school child, made by the United States Public Health Service, six conditions were most frequently found as the cause of sickness. They were decayed teeth, defective vision, diseased tonsils, enlarged glands, ear trouble and enlarged thyroid glands. There is no doubt that most of the time lost from school because of these ailments could have been prevented. These physical defects would have been discovered if the children had been examined by a doctor during the vacation.

But there is no use crying over spilled milk. If it wasn't done then, it can be done now.

A great deal has been written about the value and necessity of periodic health examinations for adults, but too little emphasis has been placed upon the importance of periodic health examinations for children. Unlike adults, children cannot interpret pain. Often they do not tell their parents when they have pain, and it requires a careful examination to determine their condition.

Many constitutional defects are overlooked and neglected because of thoughtlessness or carelessness. Consult with your physician and have him correct all physical defects. Your child will make better progress in school if he is in good health.

I know how busy the average mother is. She has a multitude of things to look after, particularly in this time of limited income and general distress. I am not saying this today to add to her misery. Far from it! My thought is to remind her that, with all her worries, she mustn't forget the vital necessity of having the children inspected now and then.

GIBSON PICKS WARNEKE TO SPARKLE

WITH THE PENNANT race settled and second place clinched for Pittsburgh, George Gibson is joining in the World Series speculation. He differs from most other baseball men in that he picks a kid pitcher, Lonnie Warneke, to outshine the rest of the Chicago slab aces. "Man for man, the Yanks are the better ball club," admitted the Pirate manager, "but that doesn't mean they will win the series. Pitching wins World Series, and the Cubs have the pitching. Yet, if the Cubs are to win on pitching, they will have to get it day after day, every day. Not many pitchers in a row can stop Joe McCarthy's club. The Yanks know how to put on the pressure.

George Gibson

"I'd say Lonnie Warneke is going to give New York the most trouble, more than Bush, Root or Malone. I haven't made up my mind yet what that kid has that other pitchers don't have, but it's something that makes him mighty hard to beat. It has been pointed out that he lacks experience. He doesn't need any. What experience did Pepper Martin have last fall? Yet, recall how he rose to the heights. What experience did George Rohe have in 1906, when he beat the great Cubs for the White Sox hitless wonders? And all the so-called green players who sparkled between Rohe and Martin? Warneke has all the experience he needs."

JUST AS IT assures a lot of color to the world series which otherwise would be lacking, the prospect that Babe Ruth will be at his old post in the big stakes lessens whatever chance the Cubs might have to upset the dope by defeating the Yankees and grabbing the title.

Ruth's presence in the lineup makes a great differenc. Aside from his mere playing value, which no one will deny is considerable, he is a tremendous influence for the good of his club in elevating the spirit of the Yankees and lowering that of the opposition.

IT ISN'T ONLY what Ruth does, but the constant threat of what he may do, that keeps opposing pitchers in a stew and other members of the enemy crew on the anxious seat and jittery in general. And no club in that state can play its best ball.

And while shaking the confidence of the foe, Babe keeps up that of his mates. They don't have the same morale when he is missing. In short, the Yanks without the Bambino are not the Yanks at all, but just another pretty good ball club.

CHARLES JOHN GRIMM has plenty to remember Philadelphia by as he takes his place on the roll of pennant winning managers. For one thing it was in Philadelphia that Grimm was appointed pilot of the Cubs when Rogers Hornsby was dismissed on August 2, but Charley already had occasion to remember the Quaker City because of some happenings of many years before. In the same town where he was elevated to his present proud position, Grimm was fired out of both big leagues. The A's tried him in 12 games in 1916, when he was only 17 years old, and the following season Connie Mack shipped him to Durham. In 1918, Lefty got a chance with the Cardinals, but again Philadelphia was the scene of his undoing.

Jack Hendricks

THE INCIDENT IS recalled by Jim McAfee, who was a traveling war correspondent with the Pirates in those years. The tail-end Cards, playing in Quakertown, had lost that day, as usual, and Manager Jack Hendricks, under whom Grimm was trying to earn a regular job, was in no pleasant frame of mind.

Grimm and other rookies who had been excused early were in the shower room. The old Phil shower room never was much to boast of, and on this occasion the drain was clogged. About a foot of water had collected, and Grimm, then only 19, was showing his mates some burlesque fancy diving.

JUST AS LEFTY was essaying a [illegible] dive, with some of his characteristic comedy cracks, Hendricks entered. Mirth left the showers that instant. "Get to hell out of here," shouted the manager, "and never let me see you again." Grimm went home in disgrace and disgust.

Often in later years, while first-basing for the Pirates and Cubs, Grimm gave Hendricks, managing Cincinnati, plenty of evidence that he had let a star player get away by his hasty action. But Lefty always will remember Philadelphia, where he rose to the managerial heights, as having been the scene also of his hardest bumps and keenest disappointments.

YOU'D IMAGINE THAT in becoming the first man to drive a motorboat at the rate of more than two miles a minute Gar Wood would forget all his lesser achievements in the same sport. Yet he declares that he got a greater thrill out of his first race at a speed of only 30 miles an hour than he got out of his record-smashing performance of 124.91 this week. "It was years ago in Dubuque, where the Mississippi River Power Boat Association was holding a regatta," Wood related. "W. P. Cleveland was having trouble with his boat, the Leading Lady. I offered my services. Leading Lady she was after we fixed her up. Over a 10-mile course we made 30 miles an hour for a new world record. It seemed we were going past those Mississippi bridges at 500 miles an hour. I got a bigger thrill out of that than I did out of making almost 125 miles an hour Tuesday."

WHEN RAPID ADVANCEMENT in college football is the topic of discussion, little St. Mary's, in Oakland, Cal., is not to be passed by lightly. In 1920, the Gaels presented such feeble opposition to the big fellows that California slaughtered them, 127 to 0.

The following year Slip Madigan arrived on the St. Mary campus, and he worked so fast in building up the game that in 1926 his team thumped California, 26 to 7, which was getting revenge in a hurry. There were just 62 students in St. Mary's in 1920. Now there are 800. In the last seven years St Mary's has won 62 games against 12 defeats and 3 ties. Coach Madigan was a guard and center at Notre Dame under Jess Harper, who at that time had Knute Rockne as his assistant.

RIVALING THE MILLERS and Crowes of Notre Dame, the fifth Gill brother is a candidate for the varsity football team at University of California. He is Carroll and he wants to play end. An older brother, Sammy, is one of the regular guards. Three others have closed their college careers.

But the athletic members of a family do not always go to the same college. For example, Ollie Arbelbide, younger brother of Garrett, Southern California's former star end, is playing quarterback for Washington State.

Red Grange

RED GRANGE lives again. The famous football terror of yesteryear, now in the uniform of the Chicago Bears, is running wild on pro fields in a way to recall the sensational feats of his college days at the University of Illinois. At the height of his college career, one of the most brilliant in history, Grange gave perhaps the greatest individual performance of modern football while playing against Michigan in 1924. He scored four touchdowns in the first 12 minutes of play. As an introductory number, all that Red did was to return the opening kickoff 95 yards for a score, and he followed it up by reeling off touchdown runs of 67, 56 and 44 yards. Then he was withdrawn from the game, possibly for fear the scoreboard operators might run out of figures.

SLATE TOUTED AS POWERFUL BALL TOTER

By JESS CARVER

The Dukes hope to put a few markings on the slate tomorrow night and they don't mean the sort of slate you used to do your number work on in the little red schoolhouse, either.

The slate the Dukes are worrying about, and with due cause, too, is West Virginia's Patsy Slate, crack sophomore fullbacker, who'll hurl his 190-pounds of beef and muscle at the Night Riders as they battle the Mountaineers here at Forbes Field. Patsy is a patsy in name only . . . for he is considered about as promising a footballer as ever skipped a class at Morgantown, and Morgantown has had its Gus Eckberg's, Nick Nardacci's, Carl Beck's, Hill's, Mahan's, Meredith's Tallman's and the one and only Ira Rodgers. . . . All plenty promising and all of whom paid off.

DRILL IN SECRET

So it might be said that Coach Elmer Layden's parting admonition to his Dukes before they take the field against the Mountaineers will sound something like this:

"Crack That Slate!"

Another secret drill in the gymnasium last evening, following a lengthy afternoon signal session just about put the Dukes in the pink for the ball game. They'll probably have a light workout this afternoon and a final warming-up practice at Forbes Field after supper.

Unless its the old hooey, it will be interesting to see just what sort of a new attack Coach Layden has devised for the benefit, or rather for the discomfiture, of the West Virginians. Maybe Elmer is just foolin' the people, particularly the Mountaineers . . . kidding them into thinking they are going to see a lot of new stuff and then feeding them the same old Notre Dame system dose . . . never a very tasty concoction.

Despite the galaxy of star backfield men that will be on exhibition, the contest looms as a battle between the lines, with the Dukes' forward wall rating on equal footing with West Virginians. West Virginia's line will be the heavier, but will not be as experienced a cog as the Duquesne wall.

SORTET TO PLAY

Reports from Morgantown have it that Coach Greasy Neale, no chump when it comes to turning out defensive elevens, has decided on a combination of four seniors, four sophomores and three juniors for use against the locals. The Mountaineers will flash outstand-

PITT TO BREAK CAMP TODAY

WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 22.—A lengthy signal drill this morning, luncheon and the 1932 University of Pittsburgh varsity football squad will break camp and return to Pittsburgh, as finely a trained menagerie of Panthers as ever left Camp Hamilton. The Panthers will inaugurate their 1932 campaign Saturday against Ohio Northern, setting out on a drive that will toss them into competition with the best elevens in the land.

Yesterday the Panthers were afforded a much needed rest when Sutherland announced that they would have but one practice session for the remaining two days in camp.

The morning practice was turned over to a brief signal drill and the men were assigned to their respective coaches for individual training.

Although Sutherland has pretty well in mind the men who will do the greater part of the playing throughout the fall, is is altogether likely that he will use the entire squad in their opening game with Ohio Northern.

It would be useless to pick out 11 men as starters for the game. The Pitt mentor himself it a bit undecided as to his starting lineup.

Ken Ormiston, who is temporarily incapacitated, likely will be replaced by Doc Hartwig, who was shifted to the other guard position after Ormiston's injury.

One of the most gratifying things that Sutherland has to fall back on is a strong second team that has developed remarkably during the pre-season training.

TARTANS EASE OFF

Carnegie Tech's gridders were eased off in their training yesterday and today, but face a tough scrimmage session tomorrow. They do not play their first game until Saturday of next week, when they battle Geneva College here.

POLO TILT TOMORROW

The Library Polo Club, recently organized, will meet at Deer Park Polo Club at the latter's Lazy Hour Ranch field, near Uniontown, in games tomorrow and Saturday. J. Phillips, W. Phillips and Kreger are to ride for Library.

BUCCOS CLINCH SECOND PLACE

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Now that they have clinched second place, the Pirates expect to coast to the finish line in a free and easy manner. Manager George Gibson doubtless will use a lot of substitutes in the remaining five games on the Pirate card.

The Buccos and Cubs are slated to stage their last contest of the season this afternoon. The new champions of the National League are likely to use a fair sprinkling of regulars, as Manager Charley Grimm wishes to have his athletes on edge for the series opener, which is slated for next Wednesday in New York.

BUCS CLINCH SECOND

Gibby used quite a few rookies yesterday as his team won over the Bruins, 9 to 6, in a rather loose ball game. The Pittsburgh victory made it impossible for the third-place Dodgers to catch up with them; so the strain of it all, including the flag strain, is off the Pittsburgh players.

Gibby may call upon Bill Swift or Recruit Hal Smith for slab duty today. Thirdbaseman Bill Brubaker and Outfielder Gus Dugas saw action yesterday in place of Capt. Pie Traynor and Lloyd Waner.

Brubaker is the rangy collegian from California who recently signed with the Pirates. He connected for a double and a single in his clash with the Cubs. Bill handled six chances without an error. The youngster has made such a fine impression he is sure to get a lot of attention at next year's spring training camp of the Buccos. Swift and Spencer worked on the mound for the Pirates, Spencer receiving credit for the victory.

Manager Grimm had a flock of athletes in action in the unimportant contest. Quite a few of the regulars started, but the boss took them out as the contest proceeded.

FACE CARDS NEXT

The Pirates will leave here tonight for St. Louis. Four games with the Cardinals will complete the season for the Buccos, the curtain to be rung down on Sunday with a double-header.

Many of the Pittsburgh players will go direct to their homes from St. Louis, while several will return to Pittsburgh.

Horseshoe Tourney Carded at Parks

Horseshoe pitching enthusiasts will gather at North and South County Parks this week to compete for the park championship. Tomorrow evening at the Willow Grove, the North Side tourney will get under way, with over 50 entrants. Post entries will be received.

Saturday, South Park entries will swing into action. The play will start promptly on the Silent Brook courts near the swimming pool at 1 p. m.

SOCCER RACES OPEN SOON

Faced with the strongest schedule of soccer games ever listed in this district, the Western Pennsylvania Soccer Referees' Association will meet Saturday evening to consider new applications from prospective whistle-tooters.

With the Panhandle League, of three divisions, getting under way on Sunday, and the Allegheny Valley loop set for its second week of competition, the roster of the officials is going to be seriously tested and the Keystone, Washington County and possibly the Monongahela Valley leagues have not yet announced their schedules.

This evening at South Park soccer fans of the South Park district are going to meet with Paul B. Riis, director of County Parks to discuss the possibilities of soccer at the park. The present field at Englebrook is not suitable in its present state, and a similar meeting was held a year ago to discuss another soccer field near Spreading Oak.

Englebrook, with its natural hill rising from beside the playing field, is ideally adapted to handle the large throngs that watch soccer at South Park, but the field itself is out of the question.

The Central League swings into action on Saturday, offering four games. Union Switch plays at Lawrenceville; Clan Douglas at Westinghouse; Mt. Lebanon at Ambridge, and the German Sports at McKeesport.

A junior soccer league has been formed by the communities surrounding South Park. The following teams will play in the loop: Bethel, Hill Crest, Library, Broughton, Clifton, Brentwood, Castle Shannon and Union.

ROGERS, DENIED SERIES 'CUT,' INDIGNANT

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs until August 2, expressed indignation today when informed he had not been "cut in" on the profits his former teammates will receive from the world series.

The Cubs' players and Manager Charley Grimm at a meeting in the Wrigley Field clubhouse yesterday agreed upon a split of the proceeds without making any allowance for Hornsby. Notified of this action by telephone at his home in Anglum, Mo., the Rajah declared:

"There's something funny about this. I should have been counted in on the world series money.

BUILT CLUB, ROG SAYS

"Who is more entitled to a share than I am? I had the team for the better part of the season. I built the club up. I played in right field and at third base in addition to being manager."

He was asked if he had any enemies on the club. He replied that someone must have talked against him, but he declared he suspected no one in particular. Hornsby voiced the opinion the Cubs would have won the pennant if he had remained as manager.

Members of the losing team in the series will receive about $5,000, while players on the champion club will be awarded more than $8,000, according to baseball experts.

DIVISION ARRANGED

As Manager Charley Grimm, who succeeded the Rajah as pilot August 2, called the players together every man connected with the team during the hot pennant winning campaign was mentioned except Hornsby. It was voted to divide the spoils among 23 players and four attaches of the team. Twenty players, including Coaches Charley O'Leary and Red Corriden, will receive full shares.

Mark Koenig, who came to the Cubs in August comeback bent was voted a half share, along with Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis and Trainer Andy Lotshaw. Other late arrivals will receive quarter-shares.

BUCS DECIDE ON CUTS

The Pirates have decided the manner with which they will cut their share of the World Series melon. The 23 players who went through the regular season, Manager Gibson, Coaches Otis Crandall and Grover Hartley and Trainer Charley Jorgensen, will receive a full share apiece. Another share will be cut three ways, with Assistant Trainer George Aston, Chief Scout Bill Hinchman and Groundkeeper Jack Fogarty benefiting. Sam Watters will receive the other half share.

It is believed each share will amount to slightly more than $1,000.

Chattanooga Evens Dixie Series Count

BEAUMONT, Tex., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The Chattanooga Lookouts squared the Dixie series at one-all yesterday by beating Beaumont, 5-0. Alex McColl, righthander with plenty of stuff, limited Beaumont to four hits.

Izzy Goldstein, of Beaumont, checked the Lookouts to five hits, but had a bad seventh inning, when the Southern Association champions batted in four runs.

The score by innings:

Chattanooga .. 0 0 0 0 0 0 4 1 0—5 5 0

580 RINGERS FOR KELLY

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Sept. 22.—George Kelly, state champion horseshoe pitcher, yesterday topped off five hours and five minutes of pitching with 2,000 shoes, during which he scored 1,201 ringers. In the first 1,000 shoes he tossed 580 ringers and in the second 1,000 621 ringers.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—If old Roger Babson had predicted a year ago that the World Champion Cards would be close to the bottom now, they'd have given him a horsier laugh than when he said the bull market was going to fall downstairs.

That sure is a tattered platoon old Sergt. Street is leading back to the St. Louis barracks this year. And if Gabby is going to get back to the front-line trenches in 1933 he'd better start recruiting agents shopping in the Cardinals' chain stores right now.

Pepper Martin won't have to use earstops to keep the roar of the crowd out of his ears this World Series.

MARCUS GETS WIN OVER DATTO IN CLOSE FIGHT

Young McCoy vs. Steve Salina, 8 rounds, Dearborn, Mich.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Joe Marcus, of Braddock, 132 pounds, won the referee's decision over Johnny Datto, Filipino showman, 128, in the 10-round feature bout of the Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin tri-boroughs benefit boxing show at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night before a good-sized turnout of the faithful, and, as a result, he probably will be matched to box Battling Gizzy soon.

But you haven't heard anything yet.

Not at all.

Ringsiders were saved from drowning only through the use of heroic measures as the other scheduled 10-rounder wound up in the first round in a fancy dive and a wave of splashing on the part of Art Rodenbach, of New York, before George Panka, Homestead heavyweight. Rodenbach was a poor actor. His dive was so palpable that it was laughable, and his purse was held up.

CLEMENTS GET REVENGE

And, in the feature five-rounder, Lloyd Clements, Jeannette light-heavyweight, avenged the family honor by knocking out Carl Gross, Braddock heavyweight, in the third round of a slugfest. Gross recently knocked Leo Clements, big brother of Lloyd, temporarily goofy in a bout at Hickey Park, and revenge was sweet for Lloyd, who registered the hit of the show.

Ray Jennings, Homestead Negro heavyweight, defeated Curly Klaas, of the North Side, in the first five-rounder, winning handily over the man who stopped him as an amateur, and Jerry Clements, featherweight brother of Lloyd, started off a clean sweep of wins for Bunny Buntach's stable when he defeated Johnny Montebano, of Braddock, in the four-round opener. Jennings knocked Klaas out of the ring for a count of six in the fourth round.

Waiting for shots cost Datto the main bout. It was close and just about a tossup at the final bell. It all depended on how you wanted to score it. On punches started and landed, Marcus was 10,000,000 miles ahead. On damage done, Datto was out in front. Marcus proved a cagy ring general, albeit an unorthodox boxer, and he kept on the move and beat Datto to the punch repeatedly to keep the Filipino off balance, but he lacked the wallop to hurt Johnny.

MARCUS TAKES REST

On the contrary, Datto had Marcus in trouble several times, dazing him with a right to the head as the bell ended the first round; knocking him down for a count of one with a right in the third; dropping him for six with a high left swing at the end of the fourth round, the bell ringing with Marcus taking the count, and knocking him to a sitting position on the ropes in the eighth for a story for the book. However, in between these damaging punches, Datto was on the receiving end of a pasting, waiting, waiting, always waiting for a "shot."

That eight-round episode was a pip. As in the other rounds until he was hurt, Marcus had been winging away with both fists. Suddenly Datto clipped him with a left to the jaw and Joe deliberately picked out a sitting position on the middle rope in his own corner. Datto was as amazed at this strange conduct as were the fans and for the moment he just stood and looked at his opponent. By the time he was ready to follow up the blow, the referee, Red Robinson, was alongside Marcus, talking to him and holding off Datto. There was no count. Eventually, Joe got his feet under him, stood up, with the aid of the referee, and then decided to slip to his knees on the floor for a regular rest. The referee helped him back up when there was no counting, and, by the time they resumed fighting, Marcus was able to amble about again and get back into the thick of battle. It was a strange mixup and a good break for Joey and a tough one for Johnny.

Judge Freddie Lux voted for Datto, Judge Jock Simco for a draw and the referee for Marcus.

HEAVIES IN 'ACT'

The Panka-Rodenbach thing was terrible. Rodenbach rushed from his corner with his head down at the clang of the gong and got to close quarters, where he flailed about aimlessly. Suddenly he went down without seemingly being hit cleanly and got up at the count of two. He rushed in wide open again and went down over the lower rope, where he took a count of nine with the referee leaning over him and yelling, "It looks like an act; it looks like an act!" and the fans ordering Rodenbach to get up and fight.

Rodenbach got up before the timekeeper could toll off the final second, but took the first opportunity to go down again, this time on the flat of his back. The hocus-pocus was completed in one minute two seconds, and, if it hadn't been a benefit show, the crowd might have become ugly about it.

KNOCKOUT ENDS GRUDGE

The Gross-Clements battle for blood was the best thing on the card. Gross, with an edge of 16 pounds in weight, at 138, battered Lloyd all around the ring in the first two rounds, and both were all in as the bell ended the second round, Clements from the punching and Gross from his own efforts. Early in the third, Clements knocked out Gross' mouth-

THE BABE

He's the Grand Slam of World Series—Here's His Life Story.

—By EDWARD J. NEIL—
Written for Associated Press

This is the last of 10 stories relating the prodigious world series feats of the one and only Babe Ruth. Nearing the end of has career, the Babe this year will make his tenth and perhaps final appearance in the classic.

The Yankee Stadium is packed with thrilled humanity, 80,000 of the faithful, absorbing the thrills of the opening ceremonies, yelling, cheering, restless for the start of the 1932 World Series, the Yankees versus the Cubs.

Babe Ruth

Perhaps it will be Lefty Gomez, brilliant youngster, for the Yanks, against the thin, sideburned Southern gentleman, Guy Bush, of the Cubs. The master minds are there, the field studded with baseball's greatest stars.

The thrill of thrills comes in the very first inning. Earl Combs may hit or go out. Joey Sewell do the same. Two ball players, taking their cuts. But third in that Yankee batting order comes Babe Ruth and the bowl that rocks that stadium, the tingle that runs from one end of that packed park to the other, is the kind baseball's greatest slugger alone produces for his fandom.

BASEBALL'S BIGGEST THRILL

The Babe will step up to the plate in the first inning, in the most glamorous spot of baseball's most glamorous career. It's his tenth world series, a record no other player can challenge.

He holds 29 other world series marks. Every time he does anything at the plate, whether it be striking out in the magnificent Ruth fashion, or poling a ball far from the premises for another home run, some sort of a record tumbles.

But, more interesting at this moment even than his historic feats, is the Babe himself, the great invalid, back at the age of 38, making perhaps his last appearance in world series play.

SHOWMAN ABOVE ALL

All through the last three weeks of the season, Ruth has been on the sidelines, threatened with an appendicitis operation. He raced home frantically from Detroit at the start of the Yankees' last road trip, pain tearing through his side. He went to bed and fought off the threat of an operation. He comes forth wan and weak, but the showman still making his curtain call. And how the Babe will love it!

It has been at just such times as this in the past that Ruth has risen to his greatest heights. Hobbling on an injured leg, swinging with one hand because of a damaged wrist, ill with fever—the Babe never has failed to wobble out in the crisis and strike his most telling blows.

BABE WILL BE THERE

So the series starts and the Great Man hears the call again. Nothing matters but his public. Physical handicaps fade before the great showmanship, the fierce competitive spirit of a great athlete.

The Babe will be in there, perhaps swinging for the fences with one hand, clutching his ailing side with the other. But he will be there, making history. The show must go on.

THE END.

FAVORITES GAIN HARVARD CUP SEMI-FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Seeded favorites clash on the Arnold School racquet lot at 3 p. m. today in semi-final contests of the tenth annual Harvard Cup interscholastic titular tennis tournament. Stars of the select quartet battled through brack-of-eight competition without exception on Shady Side Academy's Fox Chapel rectangles yesterday.

This afternoon Ralph Bald and Henry Ackerman, Mt. Lebanon mainstays, tangle in upper half affair, while Bob Madden, Schenley hope, encounters Bob Burnett, Wilkinsburg luminary, in classic of the lower sector.

BALD BEATS STOUT

Bald, first seeded ace and holder of the Western Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh Center junior championships, crashed the penultimate frame by virtue of overwhelming Tom Stout, Coraopolis entrant, in love sets.

Ackerman, flashing his best form to date, scrimmaged through the quarter-finals at expense of Jimmy Arensberg, another Shady Sider, in torridly fought 6-3, 6-4 engagement.

Madden, second in the rating and possessor of the West Penn and Pittsburgh Center boys' crowns, had exceedingly narrow escape from defeat at the hands of Bill Miller, versatile Taylor Allderdice High performer. Madden won, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

BURNETT ADVANCES

Burnett forged forward with 6-3, 6-4 win over Bernard Greenberg, second Allderdicer. Defeat of Bill Miller and Greenberg renders certain a shift in custody of the Cambridge trophy, now in the hands of Allderdice.

Third round—Thomas Stout, Coraopolis, defeated Allerton Miller, Shady Side Academy, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3; Bernard Greenberg, Taylor Allderdice, defeated Dan Robertson, Peabody, 6-2, 6-4; William Miller, Taylor Allderdice, defeated Robert Merchant, Wilkinsburg, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Fourth round—Ralph Bald, Mt. Lebanon, defeated Thomas Stout, Coraopolis, 6-0, 6-0; Henry Ackerman, Mt. Lebanon, defeated James Arensberg, Shady Side Academy, 6-3, 6-4; Robert Burnett, Wilkinsburg, defeated Bernard Greenberg, Taylor Allderdice, 6-3, 6-4; Robert Madden, Schenley, defeated William Miller, Taylor Allderdice, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

ELIMINATION PLAY TODAY

The Kay Community and Homewood-Brushton Cardinals will clash this evening in the first game of the minor B elimination championship baseball series. The game is scheduled to be called at 5:30 o'clock.

TULLY TO PLAY FOR BELLAIRE IN LEAGUE

By TOM BIRKS

Charles Tully, former University of Pittsburgh tackle, will be in the Bellaire Eagles' lineup when the Buckeyes clash with West View in the opening West Penn Conference game at Bellaire Sunday.

Charley Edwards, former Pitt quarterback, has been sending the boys through an extensive training program, and the list of players turned in by Manager Vusky contains the names of 20 former college stars.

The starting backfield will consist of Jake Sebulsky, West Virginia; Chat Hoover, Marshall; Tony Slate, Bucknell, Charley Foster, Ohio Wesleyan; Claire Holmes and Dale Kreuger, West Liberty.

Local fans have two games to view tomorrow evening. New Kensington followers will have their first opportunity to watch Burns in action when the Conference eleven clashes with the Evergreen Olympics under the lights at the High School field at 8:30.

At Olympia Park, Manager Jim Grey will send his Christy Park gridders into action against the Monessen Ravens. The Monessen club with the largest following in sandlot football, probably will give the Christy Park team plenty of battle.

SPORT VIGNETTES

There are three brothers on the Yale football squad, MacLean, Clem and Charles Williamson . . . Ross Somerville, the Canadian, who won the United States amateur golf championship the other day, is a natural athlete, having starred in rugby football, hockey and cricket as well as golf . . . Two former Pittsburgh baseball figures will clash as managers in the little world series beginning at Minneapolis next Tuesday . . . Al Mamaux, the former Prince of Dormont Pirate pitcher, is manager of the Newark Bears, of the International League, whom he piloted to their first pennant in 19 years, while Donie Bush, erstwhile manager of the Pirates, is the pilot of the Millers.

Eddie Zivic

Is the fighting glory of the Zivics to be revived by young Eddie Zivic, who has been showing such fine form in recent battles that he has, for the moment at least, outstripped his brother, Fritzie, from whom so much was expected when he quit the amateur ranks? . . . Fritzie boxes on the Al Brown-Mose Butch card at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, when he hopes to make up lost ground . . . There's quite a story behind the rise of Eddie. . . . He was the one youngster in the family who balked at entering the ring . . . Of a studious nature, he shunned the hard knocks of the sport to which his brothers, Jack, Pete, Joe and Fritzie, took so readily. . . . He was a skinny kid, and it was only when Jack suggested that he go to the gym to build up his physique that he consented . . . Induced to put on the gloves, he learned to like the game, and today he is one of the most relentless of the younger boxers hereabouts, on the road to the heights that Jack and Pete knew . . . He has the killer instinct so much sought in ringmen, is a free and easy puncher with both fists and is eternally moving forward making the fight.

Speaking of Eddie and his progress, Brother Jack was moved to remark that it is strange but true that boys who are loathe to enter the ring often become the most successful gladiators . . . Their seeming cowardice in the beginning gives way to a fighting spirit that flames high . . . And he's right . . . They say Harry Greb was rather timid in his early days, but they called him the Strong Heart of the ring before he passed out of the picture . . . Frank Moran, the heavyweight, did not like the art of giving and taking in the beginning, but he went on to fight two champions, Jack Johnson and Jess Willard . . . And there are many other cases in point . . . Right now Eddie Zivic goes about his work inside the ropes with all the confidence and cockiness of Jack Zivic at the latter's best, and Jack was a bearcat in action.—HARRY KECK.

CROOKSTON SCORES ACE

U. S. WOMEN FACE TESTS

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Three Americans, four Canadians and an English woman remained in the running for the Canadian women's open golf championship as quarter-final matches began today.

Miss Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, ranking star among the three surviving Americans, was paired against Mrs. Charles Eddis, of Toronto, who yesterday eliminated another United States hope, Bea Gottlieb, of Great Neck, L. I., 1 up.

Fritzi Stifel, the long-hitting star from Wheeling, W. Va., faced Margery Kirkham, of Montreal.

"STANDARD'S" new Hydrofined oil only oil to have all FIVE qualities of a perfect lubricant

Old-fashioned motor oils—the kind you are using unless you have already changed to Essolube—can no longer do the job of properly lubricating the modern high-speed, high-compression motor. ★ Because, in the last ten years, motors have been stepped up over 22% in speed—over 50% in power—without any increase in size. This means tremendously increased wear on bearings and cylinder walls, tremendously increased wear on motor oils. ★ It means, too—if you are still using old-fashioned motor oils—you are short-changing your motor. ★ Why short-change your motor with an old-fashioned 2-star or 3-star oil, when you can fill up with 5-star quality Essolube—at the price of ordinary motor oils—25¢ per quart (plus tax). ★ Essolube is easy to get everywhere, at stations and dealers of: Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, Standard Oil Company, Incorporated in Kentucky, Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Inc. ★ When Essolube is so easy to get, and has the full 5 qualities necessary, at no extra cost, why not try it today? YANKS' ATTACK CHALLENGE TO CUBS' DEFENSE—RUTH

SERIES RIVALS' DIFFERENCES POINTED OUT

By BABE RUTH,
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

What is the main difference between the Yankees and the Cubs, the two teams which are to meet in the world series opening next week?

As I see these clubs the Yankees are a team with the greater scoring power, one that relies more heavily on its attack for its victories. The Cubs lack the scoring power of the American League champions, but they have proved that this handicap was not sufficient to keep them out of the series. The National League champions, it strikes me, are more dependent on the strength of their defense than on their ability to pile up runs.

In other words, they win by keeping down the other fellows' scores, which enables them to win consistently while well below the Yankees in a scoring way.

Don't understand me as saying the Cubs have no attack, or that the Yankees have no defense. Neither team would have won a pennant if entirely deficient in these respects.

We have a much better team than the Cubs in a hitting way and have excelled them all season. They are a better defensive team, I would think, if only from the fact that they have won a pennant on a run total which was almost 250 behind our figures, and also below the marks of three teams in their own league in the latest averages which I have seen. These figures speak highly of an ability to win ball games on a few runs.

CUBS' DEFENSE STRONG

By defense I mean both the pitching and the fielding. The fielding, of course, means both ground covering ability and steadiness. It strikes me that the series resolves itself into a question as to whether the Yankee attack will prevail against the Cubs' defense, or whether the latter will be able to smother the greater scoring power of the American League champions.

In their own league the Cubs made their defense hold up against the Phillies and Dodgers, two teams which boasted a stronger punch than the Chicagoans. Thus we have two instances of the smothering of greater hitting and scoring power by a team with a stronger defense. In the American League the Washington Senators have been regarded as the strongest defensive team, and yet they were distanced through the superior hitting and scoring power of the Yankees. Chalk up that one as a victory for attack.

Hence the problem which this series offers has been answered in two different ways during the season which brought the Yankees and the Cubs to the front.

SCHEDULE NO FACTOR

I will not attmept to pick a winner in this article. I will make that choice and give my reasons in a later article. I expect to discuss the strong and weak points of the rival teams, compare the infields and outfields, the catching and pitching and consider the clubs on other lines which may have some effect on the outcome of the series.

Is there any advantage for the Yankees in opening at home and playing the first two games on the field where they have been so remarkably successful this season?

I don't think so. I know there is much stress laid each year on one team getting the jump on the other in those first two games, but I don't figure that means anything at all. The next three games must be played on the home field of the Cubs, and they, too, are bearcats at home. Certainly, by the end of five games any early advantage has been wiped out.

Midget Scholastic Elevens Formed

Eighty-four boys, each one wanting to play quarterback, faced Liggie Hunt, new physical director of the North Boroughs Y. M. C. A., when he prepared to form a midget football team in Avalon recently. So enthusiastic was the turnout of Avalon boys that similar teams from Bellevue, Ben Avon and Emsworth schools are being formed under the direction of Y. M. C. A. leadership.

The contests will take place in connection with the high school home games, during the period between the halves and 10 minutes after the battles are ended. The first contest is slated for tomorrow on the Avalon field, when the Avalon team will tackle the Jackson Midgets, of Bellevue.

Old Alex to Hurl Against Cardinals

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Grover Cleveland Alexander is coming back to Sportsman's Park.

Tonight, under the glare of the House of David ball club's portable lighting system, he will try to toss a few past his old teammates, the St. Louis Cardinals.

It's the same club he helped to its first world title in 1926, yet not the same. And old Pete is the same cunning pitcher, but different.

Young Fans to See Pitt Game for Dime

Grid fans under 15 years of age will be admitted to the Pitt-Ohio Northern grid game at the Stadium Saturday for 10 cents, Pitt sports officials announced today. The young fans will be admitted only at gates 17 and 18, at the north end of the Stadium.

For all other Pitt games the price will be 25 cents, with the number admitted being limited to the amount of seating space available.

Schenley High Mainstay

FULLBACK JOHN PATRICH . . READY FOR OPENER TOMORROW

Patrich will be at the fullback position for Coach Walter Gross' Schenley High School eleven when it lines up against Langley High for its first game of the season tomorrow afternoon. Patrich made the team in his freshman year last season and is regarded by many scholastic followers as the pick of the City League fullbacks. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

RUTH, GEORGE HERMAN (BABE), CENTER FIELD

Born Baltimore, Md., February 7, 1894.
Years of service 19. Age 38. Height 6:2. Bats left. Throws left.

Note—In 1914 Ruth was sold to Boston American League team by Baltimore as a pitcher. During the succeeding four years he was one of the leading pitchers, but, during the 1918 season, he was used in the outfield when not pitching. In 1919, he became a regular outfielder and before the 1920 season was sold by Boston to New York.

CITY LEAGUERS OPEN SEASON TOMORROW

By JULIUS LEVIN

Ten of the 12 members of the two City League sections will open their football campaigns tomorrow afternoon when five intersectional contests will be staged.

While these games do not have any bearing on the championship races, they offer the coaches a fine opportunity to see how their revamped grid machines perform in actual combat.

South Hills, a winner of the City title last season, starts its season with South as its attraction at Langley Field. Last season South Hills pried off the lid by dropping a 13-0 decision to Peabody, a team that finished runner-up to Schenley in the Section I fight.

LANGLEY AT SCHENLEY

South Hills, winner of the City for this setback by defeating Schenley, Section I titleholder, in a post-season game for the championship, 7-0. Schenley will have as its opening opponent Langley High.

Carrick will play at Peabody, Fifth Avenue at Oliver and Taylor Allderdice at Perry in other City League encounters.

Tomorrow afternoon the remaining two City League members will engage Class AA opponents, Westinghouse clashing with Wilkinsburg at Wilkinsburg, while Allegheny invades Greensburg to oppose Earl Loucks' Brown and White gridders.

SCOTT AT CHARLEROI

Charleroi baseball park is expected to be packed to capacity tomorrow night when Johnny Reed brings his undefeated Scott High eleven, of North Braddock, to the Magic City to engage Steve Stepanian's Class AA Cougars under the floodlights. Charleroi defeated Scott, 32-0, last season and revenge is the aim of the Blue and White machine.

Another important night game is carded at New Kensington, where Carl Glock's Class AA contenders will entertain Indiana High in its opener.

While New Castle is the favorite to defeat Miles Bryan High, of McKees Rocks, in its night battle at New Castle, the Bridenbaugh eleven does not expect an easy engagement. The Rocks eleven gave the Lawrence countians a real tussle last season, losing a 6-0 verdict.

School Notes

Blair (Tuffy) McMillan, of Monongahela High, is looking for a successful season in the Class A race this year. The former Wilkinsburg High and Pitt end has a promising squad available despite the loss of 14 veterans by graduation. Monongahela meets Sewickley at home tomorrow.

Two Class AA teams are on the Tarentum High schedule this fall. McKeesport will be met at Tarentum on October 8 and New Kensington at New Kensington on October 29. Wilkinsburg has been replaced by Ford City.

Jimmy Russell's Donora High eleven, rated one of the strongest contenders for the Monongahela Valley championship this season, swings into action at Donora Saturday afternoon with Trinity, of Washington, as its opponent.

Fairchance High School is the latest to seek admittance to the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League. No action has been taken as yet on its application.

Nate Lippe takes his Aliquippa High eleven to Washington Saturday to engage Bill Cox's Little Presidents. The Beaver Valley eleven will find Washington in an ugly mood following the 7-7 tie played with Waynesburg. Last season Washington defeated Aliquippa, 54-6, but this is another year. The Lippemen lost to Rochester in their opener, 13-0.

Bill Sullivan, coach at McKeesport, is looking for a real battle from Glassport Saturday. Glassport displayed a fine passing attack in its 12-0 victory over Centerville. It is the opening game of the season for the Sullivan AA gridders.

DUKES ON EDGE FOR W. VA.

ing individual performers in Sortet, veteran end; Fred Schweitzer, 212-pound tackle, and Harry Marker, halfback, in addition to the highly touted Slate.

Coach Neale and his Mountaineer entourage will arrive here early tomorrow afternoon. The 80-piece Mountaineer R. O. T. C. band will trail along with the Mountaineer rooters.

The Tipoff

The Pitt-Notre Dame game, here in the Stadium October 29, is to be broadcast over a nation-wide hookup. The Pitt Athletic Council, at a meeting yesterday, decided to lift the ban on radio broadcasting, for the game with the Irish at least, although Charles Wettach, chairman of the council, said no move had been made toward broadcasting any of the other six games on the Pitt card.

Davis-Elkins' varsity football squad, which engages Geneva tomorrow night at Beaver Falls, will arrive here about 10:30 o'clock tonight and will establish headquarters at the Fort Pitt Hotel. The Scarlet Hurricane will not leave for Beaver Falls until shortly before game time tomorrow. Jennings Randolph, D. & E. graduate manager, and Coach Cam Henderson will be in charge of the party.

Frank Wolf, the athletic major domo at Waynesburg, is none too joyous as he surveys the chances of his Yellow Jackets in their opening game of the season tomorrow night at New Concord, O., against Muskingum. The Jackets will go into the inaugural tussle with a green eleven and with only 11 days of pre-season drill under their belts.

CUE TOURNEY OPENS

Cueists playing at the William Penn parlors, Smithfield street, are to open a Class B three-cushion billiard tournament there late today. A city-wide three-cushion tournament for the title now held by Dale Campbell is planned.

GRID SYSTEMS OUTLINED BY EDDIE CASEY

Member All-America Board of Football
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

The football fan hears a great deal about football formations and the style of play used by this and that team. And while he may go to games regularly, he may not understand the basic principles of the offense of the teams he is interested in.

Eddie Casey

If you want to be an intelligent football enthusiast you should know a little about the outstanding systems used in the game today. As a matter of fact, there are not a great many different ones, but each has its own distinguishing mark.

Perhaps outstanding is the system originated by Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame fame. This type of play is used there and by a great many college and school teams coached by former Notre Dame players. For example, Villanova, coached by Struldreher; Michigan State, by Jimmy Crowley; Chuck Collins at North Carolina, and dozens of others.

BACKFIELD SHIFTS

In this formation, there are three men on either side of center and the backs are in a row some yards back. On a given number, the four backs shift right or left, giving the team great strength in that direction. The shifting of the backfield is the noteworthy characteristic of this formation. It has been highly successful throughout the country. Even the biggest colleges have adopted it. Yale introduced it last fall, discarding its own original formations in favor of it.

Another outstanding typo of play and one that has had equal success with the Notre Dame system is that made famous by Pop Warner, of Stanford. The Warner system is perhaps used more by coaches throughout the country than any we know. Teams have had phenomenal success with it. This system usually has what is called an unbalanced line, four men to the right of center and two to the left, or vice-versa. Also, and very important, there is a flanking back on each end of the line and the other two backs are back of center, one slightly deeper than the other. It is an exceptionally good formation for the use of forward passes, spinner plays, and all kinds of tricks.

KICK FORMATION

Then there is the kick formation, and the variation of it, the so-called semi-kick formation. Practically every team uses the kick formation in addition to its other formation. Occasionally a team bases its whole offense on this formation. Last year it was the type of play that was used to a great extent by the Harvard team. In this there are three men on either side of center, but the two men at the ends of the line are spaced about a yard and a half away from the man next to them on the line. Two backs are balanced three yards back of center and one takes his position between the end and tackle on the right. The fourth back, and the man who makes it a kick formation, stands about 10 yards back of the line. In the semi-kick he is only seven yards back.

There are many other formations, but if you know the characteristics of the three described above you will find one of these at least used in practically every game played.

Good Hunting Season Forecast by Marsh

A highly successful hunting season is ahead for the nimrods of Pennsylvania this fall, according to Gib Marsh, writer on outdoor topics for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, who delivered an interesting talk to this effect during the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals over WCAE last night.

Charles J. Doyle told why the New York Yankees should—but may not—defeat the Chicago Cubs in the world series beginning next week, and Harry Keck, sports editor, declared Max Schmeling figures to be a sure winner over Mickey Walker in their heavyweight elimination battle next Monday night, pointing out the many advantages of the former champion.

Duquesne Garden Alterations Approved

Plans for the remodeling of Duquesne Garden, recently prepared by a New York architect and submitted to the Bureau of Building Inspection, have been approved by city authorities.

This is a formality which will be meaningless unless Bill Dwyer and Attorney James F. Callahan, who have been considering a National Hockey League revival here, reach an agreement with the Philadelphia Company regarding terms for a lease on the Garden. Callahan today is in New York to discuss the situation with Dwyer.

World Series Rivals No. 4—The Outfields

—By CHARLES J. DOYLE—

After due consideration of the high estimate which National League fans have placed upon Hazen Cuyler and Riggs Stephenson, it must be admitted that the Cubs' outfield—including Johnny Moore, Marvin Gudat or Frank Demaree as the third player—is quite a few notches below the class owned by Joe McCarthy's pasture trio, Babe Ruth, Earle Combs and Ben Chapman.

Kiki Cuyler

Earl Combs

The Ruth - Combs - Chapman cluster combines almost all of the requirements that go toward making a perfect collection of ball hawks. Aside from that incomparable punch, the Bambino bubbles over with ability, and throughout his career he has been a fighter; indeed, it seems that the hustling traits of the unmatched slugger of the sport has been lost sight of in his home-run ramifications.

BABE'S THE CLASS

Those who follow the Babe closely say he has slowed down in his base-running and fielding. Doubtless this assertion is true, but his 40 homers indicate he still is the same slugger at the plate. In the field he ever has been a fine judge of fly balls, and his throwing arm is the envy of many a kid. So, without fear or favor, it can be written that Babe dominates the outfield, even in a cast that shows such luminaries as Cuyler and Combs.

Cuyler will play right field more efficiently than Ruth, he will run the bases much faster and he will throw better than the strong-armed Bambino, for Kiki is just about the top in flinging the ball and in a larger sense, he might be termed the best outfielder in the sport. Yet with all of his rare accomplishments, Cuyler must be rated second to Babe on account of Ruth's punch. Like the homerun king, Cuyler is a hustler and he packs a real wallop at the plate when he is in his stride, but his drive cannot be classed with the Ruthian wallop.

A victim of a broken foot bone early in the season, Cuyler was thrown off his stride after he returned to the lineup, but in the past month he delivered many a long hit to keep his club in front. It is typical of Kiki to make strong finishes after undergoing times of stress, so that it would not be surprising to see the speedboy at his best in the coming clashes.

KIKI MAY SPARKLE

Ruth has a rather competent understudy in Sam Byrd, a right-hand batter who has subbed for Babe since the King of Swat was seized by his recent illness. Byrd also packs a good wallop, but he is not likely to get into action if Ruth is well—and apparently the veteran is o. k. again.

Although Cuyler has played under a tremendous strain since the Bruins went into the lead in the National League, he will need no understudy assistance in the series if he keeps his customary good health. Kiki has been the well-conditioned athlete throughout his long career. He can stand the grind. In the event of his absence from the lineup, either Gudat or Demaree would supplant him.

GUDAT REMEMBERED HERE

Gudat is a lefthand hitter, who seems to sock the ball well. It was this utility player who, batting for Lonnie Warneke at the start of the eighth inning, nicked Steve Swetonic for a very important double in the memorable single clash of the Pirates and Cubs at Forbes Field a few weeks back. That double was the signal for a drive that sent the tying run across; the Cubs won in the tenth and took possession of first place over their Pittsburgh rivals.

The center field situation gives the Yankees such a decided advantage few will dispute American League supremacy at this position. It has been my opinion for years that Earl Combs is one of the most valuable of the valuable diamond athletes. His light has been under the basket owing to the presence of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig on the same team. Here we have a ball hawk who hits well over .300 each season and who scores runs like the fine baserunner he is.

Johnny Moore is playing his first full season for the Cubs. He is a lefthand batter and seems to be an efficient flychaser. He is of the stripe that might sparkle in a titular set, but Combs puts him far in the background in a general comparison.

CHANCE FOR ROOKIE

Frank Demaree, a right-hand hitting kid from the Pacific Coast League, is likely to suplant Moore in center when southpaws face the Cubs. Reported as a good fielder and a hard hitter, the obscure Demaree has played only a few games with the Bruins, yet his light may shine next week if either Vernon Gomez or Herb Pennock swings into slab action.

Left field looks like a standoff, in a manner of speaking, although the reliable and dangerous Riggs Stephenson has many more credit marks than Ben Chapman, who has yet to take part in a world series game. Steve is admitted to be the most feared hitter in the Chicago lineup and he's a fighter from away back. Chapman is the American's League's best base runner and he is a slugger. He started out as a bad outfielder, but has made much progress. Stevie is outhitting his left field rival to date, yet Chapman crowds the .300 mark.

A general summing up of the outfield from any angle gives the Yanks the advantage on account of Ruth and Combs.

LOCAL SANDLOT FRAY SHIFTED

When Joe Semler takes the mound for the Minor League All-Stars against the Pittsburgh Crawfords at Greenlee Field tomorrow afternoon it will mark his first appearance in the box against the local Negro club.

The contest, originally scheduled for tomorrow night, was shifted to the afternoon, due to the conflict with the Duquesne-West Virginia football game at Forbes Field.

Semler, who invariably beat the Homestead Grays when pitching for local clubs, will try to maintain his stride when he opposes the hard-hitting Charleston outfit.

Race Track Gives $25,716 to Charity

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The two charity days, Monday and Tuesday, at the Havre De Grace racing track added $25,716.76 to the funds for the relief of the unemployment in Maryland.

Fight Results

At Meyers Bowl, North Braddock—Joe Marcus won referee's decision over Johnny Datto, 10 rounds; George Panka knocked out Art Rodenbach, 1 round; Lloyd Clements knocked out Carl Gross, 3 rounds; Ray eJnnings defeated Curly Klaas, 5 rounds; Jerry Clements defeated Johnny Montebano, 4 rounds.

At Dallas—Johnny Wallace knocked out Eddie Slovin, 5 rounds.

At Seattle, Wash.—Fred Lenhart defeated Sammy James, 6 rounds; Rodolfo Taglia defeated Chris McArdle, 6 rounds; Hilo Hernandez defeated Ros Dumaguilas, 6 rounds.

MRS. ROBINOFF WINS GOLF TOURNEY

A Youghiogheny Country Club entrant, Mrs. Boris Robinoff, former Schenley star, annexed top honors in the annual Woschengo invitation tournament, played over the Schenley links yesterday. Mrs. Robinoff carded a fine 41-40—81 to lead a large and strong field of feminine golfers.

Mrs. F. E. Campbell, of Stanton Heights, former West Penn champion, and Mrs. Eva Blair, former city titlist, tied for second with 83s.

Mrs. Robinoff's 16 handicap enabled her to carry away the low net award for visiting players. Mrs. Fred Frisz won the honor among home club players with an 87—24-63.

Dr. S. B. Ralston, of Oakmont, and Charley Wolff, Sr., tied for the lead in the annual "Nine-Hole Club" tournament at Highland yesterday. Each scored a 77. H. C. Oliver, C. L. Snodgrass, E. J. Vetter, R. D. Dorrance and E. P. McQuarre tied in the kicker's handicap event.

piece with a punch and the big fellow stopped to pick it up, made a stab to replace it in his mouth, missed and dropped the contraption, took a few more punches and went down for nine. He got up, but was helpless, his arms down, a mark for the hard-hitting smaller man.

A series of potshots to the head finally brought down Gross again, this time to his hands and knees. He couldn't raise himself off the floor and was counted out and then picked up, groggy, wild-eyed and exhausted.

Between Rounds

The card is complete for the Buck McTiernan-Jimmy Belmont benefit show for the North Braddock Firemen's Christmas Basket Fund, to be held in the Meyers Bowl next Wednesday night, with the exception of the signing of the eight-round semi-final. Carl Montebano, Braddock middleweight, boxes Jimmy Hogan, of Erie, in the six-round second bout, and Bobby Rowe opposes Elmer Kozak and Petey Jahn meets Paul Monar in the two four-round battles.

Jack King, of Chicago, who recently defeated Billy Holt at Hickey Park, will meet Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth, in the eight-round semi-final to the Al Brown-Mose Butch bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Sid Silas and Eddie Hebner clash again in the second bout and Fritzie Zivic takes on Young Dorsey in the opener.

A card of eight three-round amateur bouts has been arranged for a benefit show for the St. Vincent De Paul Society at Sullivan Field, Oakland, next Tuesday night. Ed Flaherty, Ray Leahy, James Blain Smith, Johnny Ridge and Police Inspector John Barry are in charge of arrangements, while Gus Miller is handling the sale of tickets.

Willie Davies boxes Johnny Devlin in the main bout of a benefit show under the auspices of the World War Veterans in the Castle Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night. The show will go on at 8:15 eastern standard time.

POLICE NINES CLASH

Local policemen will discard their maces in favor of mushball bats at 4:30 this afternoon when Lieut. Dave Walsh's No. 8 Police Station team opposes Lieut. Frank McNichols' No. 14 station nine in a mushball game at the Wabash Playground.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—(AP.)—The stock market experienced alternating chills and fevers in animated trading today, early nervous fluctuations giving way first to a rally and then to a decline which carried prices down 1 to about 3 points.

The rails, after their leadership in yesterday's spectacular advance, swung forward briskly, but this rise was later canceled. Selling dried up, however, and by early afternoon the market had again hardened.

Public utility stocks appeared somewhat impervious, at the opening, to the rapidly shifting direction of price movements elsewhere, but later yielded.

United States Steel, after early strength, lost 2 points before it reached a stronger resistance level.

The first railroads to issue car-loading reports for the week ended September 17 show gains of around 17 to 18 per cent over the preceding week. New York Central reported 40,743 cars, against 32,778, up 24 per cent. On the basis of early returns, it was calculated that the next weekly statement, out Saturday, would show an increase of around 85,000 to 90,000 cars, substantially exceeding the figures for the week before Labor Day, when loadings totaled 559,727 cars.

With the approach of tomorrow's meeting of eastern trunk line railroad heads, there was much conjecture as to the probable outcome of efforts to secure a settlement on eastern consolidation. Greater hope for an agreement was expressed than in advance of previous meetings.

The statement of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that pressure for loans had slackened appreciably in the past two months was favorably received. Current requests for loans are being received, it was said, in an amount that is about one-half of the huge volume of funds requested from February 1 to July 15.

JERSEY CUTS GASOLINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(INS.)—The nation's gasoline price structure, which has been showing scattered signs of weakness recently, was severely shaken today by drastic cuts by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The Rockefeller-controlled company, the biggest in the industry, reduced tank-wagon and service station prices 3.2 cents a gallon throughout its territory with the exception of New Jersey, where the cut was 2.2 cents. Price of tank car standard gasoline, spot, was reduced to 6 cents a gallon, F.O.B. seaboard.

The reductions go into effect tomorrow morning.

At the same time, the premium of 10 cents a gallon on Pennsylvania crude oil, paid since July 3, has been suspended by Crew-Levick Company, Cities Service subsidiary. Hereafter it will pay only the market price of $1.82 a barrel.

The reductions were not unexpected in petroleum circles. Crude oil production has been rising in recent weeks and is now far above the goal of 2,000,000 barrels a day set by the industry this summer.

In addition, the oil industry is entering its poorest consumption season with the use of gasoline and petroleum products having shown a big falling off this summer.

COTTON REACTS AFTER RALLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Cotton futures opened very steady, 17@23 higher on firmer Liverpool cables and rains in the western belt. October, 7.55; December, 7.68; January, 7.75; March, 7.88; May, 7.99; July, 8.06.

The active initial demand sent the price of December contracts up to 7.75, or 97 points above the low level touched on the reaction at the beginning of the week, but the market encountered increased offerings at this level. Realizing was heavy, while there was some selling from spot houses or the South which caused reactions of some 10 to 17 points from the best by the end of the first half hour.

At midday the tone was barely steady, with prices about 4 to 6 points net higher.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 22.—Cotton—No receipts. Spot — Moderate business done; prices 46 points higher; quotations in pence. American strict good middling, 6.73; good middling, 6.48; strict middling, 6.28 middling, 6.13; strict low middling, 6.03; low middling, 5.93; strict good ordinary, 5.73; good ordinary, 5.43. Futures closed barely steady. October, 5.80; December, 5.78; January, 5.79; March, 5.82; May, 5.85; July, 5.87.

August Cigaret Consumption Expands

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Consumption of cigarets in August as reported by the Internal Revenue Bureau, totaled 9,558,921,908, an increase of 38,743,310 cigarets or 0.4 per cent over August, 1931, and the first gain since May, 1931.

Consumption of cigars amounted to 401,143,060 against 463,255,644 in August, 1931. Manufactured tobacco 28,501,618 pounds compared to 28,750,965 and snuff 2,801,650 pounds against 2,806,910.

International Cuts Price of Newsprint

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—International Paper Company today announced to contract customers a reduction of $7 a ton in the price of newsprint, bringing the price to $46 in the territory where it had been $53. That territory includes New York and Chicago.

The announcement said the new prices were effective as of September 1 for the rest of 1932 and for all of 1933.

A $5.50 reduction was made September 14 by Price Brothers & Co., Ltd.

I. R. T. Receivership Change Is Sought

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Benjamin F. Johnson, of Winchester, Ky., obtained Federal Court authorization yesterday to institute suit looking toward the appointment of new receivers for the Interboro Rapid Transit Company and the Manhattan Railway Company.

Johnson, a Manhattan Railway stockholder, seeks to have the present receiverships set aside on the ground he believed the appointments were irregular and void.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Judge Martin T. Manton in Federal Circuit Court today extended the temporary receiverships of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Manhattan Railway Company for an indeterminate period.

Bellas Hess Sales Showing Increase

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Carl D. Berry, preident of National Bellas Hess Company, says the company's reports covering the mail-order field showed a sharp upturn in business in the last two or three weeks, reflecting improved buying power in rural communities in the West and Middle West.

Pleas for R. F. C. Assistance Shrink

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The pressure on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for loans is only about half what it was between February 1 and July 15, Judge McCarthy, director of the R. F. C., stated today.

Fundamentally this can be attributed to an improvement in the banking situation, he said.

Canada Aluminum Exports Increase

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—Canadian aluminum exports during August increased to $1,025,000 from $158,000 in August, 1931. United Kingdom last month took $509,000 worth of aluminum against $6,000 last year, and United States $42,000 against $24,000.

Cumulative total of aluminum exports for the first seven months of 1932 amounted to $889,775. Adding this to the preliminary figure of $1,025,000 for August makes approximate total exports for the first eight months of 1932 $1,915,000. For the full calendar year 1931, Canadian aluminum exports totaled $7,368,757.

Exports of aluminum for first eight months of 1931 approximated $3,352,000.

CANADA STEAMSHIPS

Canada Steamship Lines has put back into service six grain carriers, laid up during the past two weeks. Reasonably heavy movement of Canada's big grain crop during the remaining weeks of navigation season would have an important effect on 1932 earnings of the company. Since formation of Associated Lake Freighters, Ltd., by Canadian owners of lake and river steamers, the grain rate has stiffened to 6 cents a bushel from 4 cents earlier in the season.

JUNE SUGAR DELIVERIES

Deliveries of cane and beet sugar during June are estimated at 12,351,153 bags, consisting of 8,284,184 bags by United States refiners, 1,361,351 bags by importers and 2,705,618 bags of beet sugar, according to Sugar Institute. These figures do not include Louisiana district consumption of corn sugars.

SCRANTON RAILWAY

A bondholders' protective committee has been formed to represent the holders of the first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds due February 1, 1947, of the Scranton Railway Company. E. Clarence Miller, of Bioren & Co., of Philadelphia, is chairman.

MEAT SALES TURN UP

Sales of United States meat packers during July showed the first increase over the previous month since last October and also made a more favorable comparison with 1931 than during earlier months this year. The value of sales billed to domestic and foreign customers during the month was 4½ per cent greater than in June, Dow-Jones & Co. states.

BRITISH STEEL OUTPUT

British output of steel ingots in August totaled 361,500 tons, against 430,300 tons in July. Pig iron output in August totaled 259,400 tons, against 292,600 tons in July. There were 57 furnaces in blast at the end of the month against 56 at the end of July.

SMALLER EUROPEAN BEET CROP

According to cable advices to Lamborn & Co., Dr. Nikusch's first estimate of the European beet sugar crop, exclusive of Russia, is set at 5,397,000 metric tons, comparing with 5,983,000 tons in the 1931-32 crop year. Russia's crop is estimated at 2,000,000 tons against 1,600,000 tons in the past crop year.

LOCAL STOCKS RECEDE WITH N. Y. LIST

The fuel stocks fell back a little on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today while the industrial division remained fairly steady on a moderate turnover. Western Public Service, which advanced almost 33 per cent in yesterday's market, to 8¼, started at that figure today, but sold off later when the New York list turned downward. Lone Star ranged between 9 and 8½ most of the session. Plymouth was the strong member of the oil producing group, showing a large fractional overnight gain.

In the industrial section the fluctuations were generally confined to fractions.

WHEAT TURNS IRREGULAR

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Helped by upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations and by falling off in Canadian rural marketings, grain prices here averaged higher early today. Reports that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was co-operating in plans to dispose of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat to China were also a bullish influence. Opening unchanged to 1 cent higher, wheat afterward held near to initial limits. Corn started ⅜-⅝ up and subsequently reacted somewhat.

Selling pressure which increased on price advances in wheat was partly attributed to a downturn in British exchange rates, and with profit taking was instrumental in sending the wheat market back at times to well below yesterday's finish. Rallies, however, quickly ensued owing more or less to strength shown by stocks and cotton.

Corn and oats were relatively firmer than wheat, influenced by prospects of much reduced corn exports out of Argentina from now until the end of the season. Provisions were responsive to steadiness of hog values.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

NATIONAL JOB DRIVE BEGINS OCTOBER 3

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—With Walter C. Teagle, president, Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) as generalissimo, the national campaign to spread jobs, modeled after the encouraging experiment on the West Coast, is scheduled to begin on October 3.

Mr. Rukeyser

The movement to achieve unemployment relief through dividing the available work among a larger number through spreading the work-day and the work-week has had its best test in San Francisco. K. R. Kingsbury, president, Standard Oil of California, and chairman of the banking and business committee in the Twelfth Federal Reserve district, has headed the campaign, which was conducted through personal contact with employers. It got under way there early in August. The campaign there was sufficiently successful to induce business executives at the last White House conference to make it national.

ADJUSTMENT SEEN

It is envisaged purely as an emergency measure. The sponsors regard as eligible only those concerns which have not already cut the weekly wage of employes to a bare subsistence level. The argument runs that it is better to assure a living wage to a larger number of persons than to give a living wage plus a bankable surplus to a smaller group. In net effect, the gainfully employed are asked to contribute all or part of what they would ordinarily save out of their pay envelope to give employment to others.

The sponsors do not believe that this entails pure optimism, for they contend that it releases additional purchasing, which means securer jobs for those who are gainfully employed. The movement, defensive in character, is at least a belated attempt to apply managemet to the problem of adjusting the supply of labor to the demand.

MAY PROVE STEP UP

Mr. Kingsbury feels that his campaign on the coast has already arrested the attention of employers and won the sympathetic acquiescence of numerous employers. To avoid controversy, the backers are emphasizing the emergency character of the adjustment of hours of labor, yet not a few think that permanent changes will result. It would represent long term progress, if, when business recovers, the shorter hours are retained while upward revisions of wages are made.

The campaign in San Francisco was synchronized with an increase of 10.4 per cent in employment in August over July. "How much of the increase was due to the campaign of sharing jobs it is impossible to say," one of the leaders there told me.

Ask Bankruptcy For Insull Unit

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Attorneys for certain creditors of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., are today petitioning Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, in Danville, Ill., to adjudge the corporation a bankrupt and permit the petitioning creditors to investigate its affairs in a search for assets as provided in the bankruptcy act.

Plate Glass Output Declines in August

Production of polished plate glass for the month of August totaled 1,773,470 square feet, comparing with 2,733,549 square feet in July and 6,088,326 square feet in August, 1931, according to the Plate Glass Manufacturers' of America.

Pennsylvania Oil Premium Dropped

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 22.—The premium of 10 cents per barrel on Pennsylvania crude oil, in operation since July 3, has been suspended by Crew Levick Company, which, hereafter, will pay only the market price of $1.82 a barrel.

New York Central Loadings Increase

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—During the week ended September 17, the New York Central handled 40,743 revenue cars, compared with 32,778 cars in the preceding seven days, and 51,850 in the like week a year ago.

N. Y. Hide Exchange Re-elects McKendrew

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—E. L. McKendrew has been re-elected president of the New York Hide Exchange for a third term. Other officers and members of the board of governors have been re-elected.

Europe Reported Buying The Farm Stocks in Wall Street

Demand from abroad, chiefly from London, is reported to be reassuring itself in stocks. Buying on this occasion, it is declared, is centering in stocks of companies which would be benefited by improvement in the position of wheat. Attention of foreign investors and speculators has been focussed on stocks of the aforementioned group, it is contended, by evidence which they gathered indicating Europe will be forced to buy more substantially of American wheat later on. In short, it is understood that considerable revision of the European wheat crop outlook is likely to be found necessary due to the invasion of "black rust" in many areas which until now had looked remarkably good.

Preliminary reports that the weekly power figures would prove relatively favorable looked a bit far-fetched when the actual statistics came to hand, showing a decrease of 11.2 per cent by comparison with the same week last year, in the period ended September 17. The fact remained, however, that despite the indicated decrease actually revealed, the figures when plotted on the chart, showed the upward trend established in the second week of August, remaining intact. The trend line since the middle of August is approximately along the same order as that which ruled in 1928 and in 1929 prior to the abrupt reversal in September of that year. Compared with 1931 and 1930, the current trend is interpreted as indicating sustained improvement.

An increase of more than $200,000,000 in this country's money gold stock since July 1 and the return of about $85,000,000 of money from hoarding has caused important changes in the nature of collateral placed by the Reserve banks behind their notes issues. The volume of United States securities so pledged has declined by $149,000,000 from its maximum of $682,000,000 on July 6. The amount of gold used as collateral has increased about $204,000,000 while the eligible paper has decreased $138,000,000. That is to say, the gold returning from abroad is replacing both United States securities and eligible paper as collateral for Reserve notes. Meanwhile the Reserve notes outstanding have decreased by $79,000,000. If this continues all the United States security collateral for Reserve notes may be supplaned by gold.

Net profit of Columbia Pictures Corporation for the year ended June 25 amounted to $574,292, after amortization of films, interest and federal taxes, equal, after dividends of $3 on preference stock, to $3.09 a share on 167,933 shares of common. This compares with net profit for year ended June 27, 1931, of $560,869 after amortization, interest, federal taxes and loss on sale of Australian bonds and foreign exchange, equal to $3.09 a share on 164,098 common shares then outstanding.

Skinner Motors, Inc., of Detroit, manufacturers specializing in parts for Ford automobiles, has just been granted a non-exclusive license to sell floating power engine mountings as replacement parts for Ford cars. Sales by the licensee are limited to parts for replacement purposes only and for Ford four-cylinder cars for which the Skinner company expects a considerable demand. The Chrysler Corporation has granted the license on a royalty arrangement.

This is the second license issued by the Chrysler company covering use of its patent. The first license was granted earlier this year to Societe Anonyme Citroen, largest automobile manufacturer in Europe.

Dun's Review says that "while the building industry has not improved, to any extent, during the last few months, general conditions are somewhat better and a more cheerful feeling is in evidence than could be noted at this period a year ago." Most of the work now under way is limited to state or federal projects, repairs and alterations.

BUSINESS

Construction May Lag Behind General Recovery

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

BUILDING MAY LAG behind general business activity during the period of recovery.

In studying the probable extent to which individual industries will participate in the revival which is believed to be starting, attention is naturally attracted to construction because it was a leader in the recovery from the depression of 1920 and 1921 and because it was a major contributing factor to business activity up to 1929. Unfortunately, however, it seems probable that building will not share in the early period of recovery although it may join the march back to prosperity in its later stages.

Conditions facing the building industry differ materially at present from those of 1921. It will be remembered that the war put a stop to construction work which was not essential. Rising wage scales made it possible for families in all parts of the country to build homes. As a result of these factors a serious shortage of buildings was created. This shortage resulted in a boom in real estate prices and an unprecedented volume of construction activity.

Building Decline Started in 1929

THE SLUMP IN residential building activity started even before the collapse of security prices heralded the general depression in October, 1929. Construction of homes dropped sharply in the early months of that year and apparently reflected the fact that building had overrun demand even under boom business conditions. Construction of office and industrial buildings continued at a high rate during 1929 and subsequently followed the trend of general business.

During the past three years of business decline, a further surplus of all classes of buildings has been created. Jobless families have been giving up their homes. In office buildings, retrenchment has materially reduced the demand for space. Hotels also have suffered from insufficient patronage. All this has created a large surplus of all types of structures.

Finance Also Will Be Serious Problem

THE SURPLUS OF buildings is not the only problem facing the construction industry. Finance is an important consideration. The default of a major share of the real estate mortgage bonds and the low prices at which even the securities of solvent buildings are selling offers a bar to the financing of larger structures. Eventually real estate securities will recover, but until that time it is difficult to see how any great volume of real estate financing can be done.

Defaults on real estate mortgages on homes and small buildings have been embarrassing to banks and insurance companies, and declining real estate prices may make the financing of even small projects difficult for some time.

Summarizing the situation facing the construction industry, we are led to the conclusion that new building is not likely to reach great proportions until the existing surplus is absorbed and until obstacles facing new financing are removed. We may assume that this will follow a revival in general business, but the country as a whole may have to be on the road to recovery for some time before the adverse conditions facing the building industry are eliminated.

DETROIT, Sept. 22.

Big news for Michigan and interesting news for the country.

I learn authoritatively that the Continental Motors Corporation, which has built the motors for 90 per cent of all the 600 automobile companies born in America during the last 30 years, is ready to enter the car manufacturing field on a big scale and with an entirely novel machine.

Mr. Forbes

The price, I hear unofficially, will be lower than any full-sized car now on the market.

This is certain to bring highly interesting developments in the lowest-priced field.

Continental has been famous almost since the start of the automobile industry for its Red Seal motor, of which it has supplied upwards of three and a half million to American and European motor car manufacturers. Its vast intimate contacts with the engineers and other executives of so many producers have yielded a unique accumulation of experience.

President W. R. Angel began planning a long time ago to launch a complete car in a price class by itself whenever conditions became ideal, whenever the American people became properly endowed with a sense of thrift economy, frugality. Early this year he acquired the De Vaux-Hall Company. He also took over the Divco, which is being developed promisingly.

Fred L. Rockelman will be in charge of sales.

Headquarters for production of Continental's novel car will be Muskegon, but the enterprise means important additional activities at the Detroit plant. Within a few months it is expected that thousands of workers will be busy turning out the new car.

The entire industry will now await with intense interest official confirmation of this news by Mr. Angel.

I HAVE JUST talked with Wilson W. Mills, whom President Hoover wanted to head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in succession to Mr. Dawes. He is an outstandingly level-headed man of affairs, an eminent lawyer, who turned banker only recently. He is chairman of the First National Bank, a half-billion dollar institution.

Here is the best news he gave me — he is head of the local division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Applications to it for loans have dwindled to almost the vanishing point.

That conveys more briefly and emphatically than anything else could how greatly conditions have recovered financially in this part of the country.

It must not be assumed, however, that everything in the garden is now lovely. It isn't. What it does mean is that there has been appreciably betterment in what were very unsatisfactory conditions.

Isn't that something?

HENRY FORD once again has Detroit guessing. Rumor has it that he is trying to evolve something in the nature of a surprise. Ford plants are not, you are daily told, going full blast, and Mr. Ford intends to do something about it in an effort to regain his old place in the automotive sun.

This year again he is running second.

B. & O. Loan Action Deferred by R. F. C.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has definitely concluded not to act at this time upon the request of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for a further loan of $31,625,000 incident to the refinancing at maturity on March 1, next, of $63,250,000 of its 20-year 4½ per cent convertible bonds.

It was learned authoritatively that this request, which has already been approved by the I. C. C., will be considered at a later date of possibly 60 to 90 days from the present.

FOX HOUND FOUND

The Second Day This "Lost" Ad Appeared in the Sun-Telegraph

HERE'S THE AD

DOG—Fox hound lost, with Virginia license; reward. Hiland 4386-W.

Mrs. Stephens Cierneick, 1605 Broadhead St., E. E., ordered the above ad in the Sun-Telegraph for three days. The second day the ad appeared, the dog was found. Thus the little Want-Ad pleased the owner, and also, we hope, the dog.

VALENTINE :-: Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love :-: By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Val spent two days unpacking, trying rather hopelessly to make the apartment look like the one in which she had once been so happy with Millie.

She didn't have the knack. She bought flower pots in which to root the lusty geranium slips she had brought from California, and then discovered that it was a house without a windowsill. So they had to be put in a row on the kitchen table.

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a man-hating maiden aunt, Julia. Millie roams the world, then returns to America. Valentine becomes engaged to a neighbor boy, Joe Carey, who takes an architect's position in Minneapolis. Aunt Julia sends Val to visit Millie in Santa Barbara. Val returns with a luxurious Hollywood trousseau. Joe's selfish mother learns of the engagement and creates such a disturbance that Joe rushes home and arranges for an immediate wedding. The wedding takes place in Aunt Julia's home. The newlyweds move into a Minneapolis apartment.

Now Go On

The pictures and cushions refused to make themselves at home, and the odd pieces of brass and pottery simply cluttered the tables. The place looked better before they moved in.

Cooking. That was another difficulty. Nobody had thought of it. If it had not been for Joe's agility with the can opener there wouldn't have been much to eat.

It looked easy. It sounded easy.

"Beat well. Bake in a moderate oven until done."

But how are you to know what's meant by a moderate oven, and how can you tell, without eating it, whether or not a thing is done?

Alas for Val, Aunt Julia had never taught her how to cook. It wasn't that she hadn't wished to learn. Somehow Aunt Julia always did everything, there was never anything left for Val to do. At the last moment she thought of it, and lectured about some of the important points Val was to remember. But Val was far too dreamy, too full of love and romance to do much more than nod and murmur "I see," and "Yes, Aunt Julia, I will," at appropriate intervals.

HAS VISITOR

"Your pie dough should be very dry, and your biscuits very wet," Val remembered . . . or was it the other way round? She tried both methods, with equally bad results.

"Let's eat out until we get everything unpacked and you're more used to the house," Joe suggested.

Mrs. Peacock, who lived just around the corner, and had been Joe's landlady for three years, was a lifesaver, too.

"You just stop in any night to dinner," she told Val after they met, the morning of the second day when she arrived unannounced and uninvited, while Joe was at work.

"Well, I must say you are a pretty thing," she said, frankly sizing Val up from head to foot. And she added, "We were all so surprised. I never thought he would marry. I saw your picture on his dresser but I always thought you were someone he never saw or heard from any more. Most everyone thought Pearl Neely would get him. But I never did. I could see he wasn't really interested. I have four boys of my own, and I know all about them. I don't know so much about girls, though . . ."

Val was surprised to see that Mrs. Peacock was really quite shy, in spite of her stout, solid appearance and her straightforward manner.

DINNER INVITATION

Two of her boys were in town, married to girls who were a little suspicious of her aggressive manner, Val imagined from what she said, and two were away. One was working in a law office in Cleveland, and one was taking post-graduate work at Boston Tech.

"So I always felt that Joe was one of mine," she went on earnestly, "and if you'll let me I'll look after you a bit, too. I say if you let me, because neither Edgar's nor Clark's wives want any help from me. Of course, they both have their mothers here, so I try not to interfere. But you, poor little thing, without your own folks . . . well! I thought maybe you wouldn't mind."

Val's chin quivered. She felt suddenly homesick. Mrs. Peacock's arms were around her instantly.

"There! Don't you care. I know how I felt when I was a young bride. I came here from Bangor, Me., and I felt like I couldn't ever get to feel at home. But I did. And so will you.

"You poor child, you! But never mind, Joe's a fine boy, and that's the main thing. You'll be all right.

"Now you and Joe come over to dinner tonight. With all my family away, and Herbie—that's Mr. Peacock—on the road half the time, why I haven't got any family at all, and I don't take boarders now. The boys don't think I ought to.

OBJECTS TO IMPOSITION

"Joe was my last boarder. I wouldn't have had him, only I liked him so much and he kind of took Horace's place—Horace was the last one to leave. My, but I'm glad you've come! I get so lonesome sometimes I could scream. Do you care for the movies?"

"Not—not very much," Val said. She wasn't going to start a second siege of movie going. She had had enough of that back home with Aunt Julia.

Joe was pleased to go to the Peacocks' for dinner the first time. But after the second and third time he said they oughtn't to impose on her.

"I don't. She just begs me!"

"But it's work for her. You know yourself how much work it is to get dinner. What we ought to do is to invite the Peacocks—or anyway, Mrs. Peacock—she's sort of lonely while he's away."

"All right, I will. And I'll have a good dinner, too! A really swell one!"

"Then let's ask a couple of others, too. You haven't met any of the gang at all," Joe coaxed.

But when he saw Val's distress he agreed that it might be best to start in with Mrs. Peacock and Pearl Neely.

Val was excited and happy all the next morning, planning her dinner. The house might not be very pretty, but nobody expects much of a furnished apartment, and the table would be perfect.

PREPARES DINNER

It did look charming when she finished setting it, though she felt guilty at the price she had paid for roses for her centerpiece. Three dollars, and they weren't so much, at that! Back home in California . . . homesickness dimmed her eyes for a moment . . . home . . . Aunt Julia's garden, with the neat rose trees, and rows of snapdragons and marigolds and zinnias . . . never a month but what you could find SOMETHING to bring into the house, if it were no more than a handful of Cecil Breuners from the side yard, or some of the hardy, deep red climbing roses that grew up the side wall. And if you WANTED to buy florists' roses, you could get better ones than these for 50 cents . . .

Oh, well! They were pretty, if they did cost $3 . . .

Happily she went about her preparations for dinner. Janice Fletcher had given her a lovely book, with menus, as well as recipes, for all occasions. She decided on the "Roast Chicken Dinner."

Chilled Casaba melon, green turtle soup, roast chicken with stuffing, baked potatoes, green peas with mint, currant jelly, angel food, cafe noir. Now, that sounded good enough to impress that Pearl Neely!

The melon was a stumbling block at first, because it seemed they didn't have them in Minneapolis in October. But she took the grocer's advice and bought canned fruit salad, and canned mock turtle soup, because no one seemed to have heard of green turtles, though Millie's China boy had produced green turtle soup at least once a week without anyone being in the least impressed.

FOLLOWS INSTRUCTIONS

Well, the recipe looked complicated anyway, and no doubt the canned would be just as good. She hesitated over the angel food . . . Such a fussy thing to make, but this Pearl Neely, being a domestic science expert, would turn up her nose at the bakery kind, so she ordered a pan with a hole in it, and a dozen eggs.

The chicken turned out to be a large, blue-looking bird. Val eyed it with apprehension, should something be done with it? Perhaps it would have been better to have had creamed tuna after all . . .

Bake in a moderate oven—it sounded easy.

She got out the cook book, gritted her teeth and followed instructions to the letter, except that she did leave out the onion in the dressing—onion is so unromantic! Perhaps it was the lack of onion . . . the chicken didn't look just right when she finished, and it was laid in the pan. Most chickens seemed to have their legs tied down some way. This one lay on its side, sad and blue, with its spindly legs straight out.

Well, it would probably turn out all right in the end. Val sat down to shell the peas, and remembered they had not come with the other things. She telephoned the market. They said fresh peas were not in season, and they had sent her a can.

The can was there, all right.

"I can't be responsible for the climate," she thought, with a little sigh for the fresh peas she could have had in California. The dinner was turning out mostly canned, after all.

But the chicken and fresh baked angel food would make up! She slid the blue, sad looking bird into the oven, and lit flame. It would look different when it was all brown and crackly, and juicy under the bubbly skin.

Now for the angel food.

It was a lot of work, but it did look good. She poured it carefully into its pan, slid it into the oven under the chicken. The chicken was as blue as when she put it in. It didn't seem to be cooking at all. She turned up the flame as far as it would go, and went downstairs to see if there was any mail. She was a little homesick. A letter from Aunt Julia would help.

There was nothing from Aunt Julia, but besides the two long envelopes that looked like bills for Joe, was a square, thick creamy one, postmarked Hollywood.

"From Marjorie!" The first word from Marjorie since she wrote announcing her marriage to Joe.

Sitting on the inside stairs of the apartment house, Val opened her letter and began to read.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Lillian Conspire to Defeat Avis' Plan

I did not dare to look at Lillian as Avis Arlen gurgled her apparently ingenuous complaint that she had been with Noel all the morning, but that he had said no word about the dinner-dance which I was planning in her mother's honor and hers. Was the girl lying?—I had no illusions concerning the elasticity of her conscience where the truth was concerned—or was Noel, kept away from Mary by the scheme to cure Marion, again giving Avis justification for the proprietary airs that she invariably used toward him?

My memory of the last time I had seen her was as vivid as it was unpleasant. Goaded beyond endurance, Mary had so flamed out at her that she had scuttled, like a frightened rabbit, away from Noel to the side of her mother and Philip Veritzen. Noel had stood quietly by, had said no word in her defense, and had shown plainly that his allegiance was wholly Mary's.

I knew that in Dicky's parlance the girl had a "rhinoceros hide," but it did not seem possible that any girl with an atom of self-respect could ever admit Noel to friendship again, or could ever be willing to attend any gathering at which Mary was also to be a guest.

"I'm sure you won't have to 'slay' him," I said lightly, and if I ever felt less playful in my life, I do not remember it. "He knows nothing of the party. Indeed, only my husband and Mrs. Underwood share my plans so far. We hardly could invite anyone else before our guests of honor."

LILLIAN SUSPICIOUS

"Then I'll forgive him," she said, with a possessive little air that made my fingers itch to slap the Cheshire cat smile from her face, "and the party will be wonderful! We'll just love to come, won't me, Mumsie?"

"Indeed, yes," her mother replied. "But we'll have to go to the city tomorrow. Neither of us has a thing fit to wear."

"Oh, Mumsie! How you talk!" her daughter said quickly, before I could offer a demur. "Mrs. Graham just said it was only semi-formal, and we both have summer evening dresses that will be all right, I am sure."

Did I imagine it, or had she given some private signal to her mother as she spoke? I was not sure, until the call ended and we were back in our car again, Lillian spoke with equal amusement and distaste.

"Little Avis isn't always so moronish as she appears," she began. "Did you pipe the way she shut Mamma up?"

"Yes, her mother agreed promptly to her dictum of no new gowns. Do you suppose she was——"

"Plain lying, my dear. No fancy name goes." Lillian's teeth clicked viciously. "She wishes us to believe that she will appear in something old, thus giving our girls no excuse for buying new things. But will she outrival the Queen of Sheba when she steps into the farmhouse? Ask me, and I'll say 'yes' a dozen times or more. Well! That means I'll have to take Mary and Marion and Carolyn into the city tomorrow. I'll telephone Helena tonight, although I really do not need to. She's always willing to spend money on Carolyn, and I'm sure Dicky will cough up for Mary."

ASKS ABOUT EDITH

"Of course," I said, when I could stop laughing at her vehemence and her quick resolution to match Avis Arlen at her own game. "You'll get a gown for yourself," I added slyly.

"What?" she demanded, then laughed.

"Stop spoofing me," she said. "You know we're not going to outshine the guest of honor. Let Mamma try the wiles of a new Paris model on Phil without any competition. But the girls! That's a different thing. That eel Avis puts anything over on them, only over my dead body."

"Bravo! brava! bravura!" I said. "I will see that Dicky 'coughs up,' and I'll speed you all on your way in the morning. But now, tell me something. You said there was 'one thing' that you didn't have time to tell me before our call. I've been consumed with curiosity ever since."

"It really is nothing," she hesitated, and I saw with surprise that she was reluctant to enlighten me.

"Don't tell me if you'd rather not," I said, quickly.

"I'd rather not, all right," she retorted grimly, "but I guess I'll have to spill it, for it is important, despite my disclaimers. You didn't mention Ede's name. Aren't you going to invite her?"

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The Girl Scouts taking part were Betty Seedenburg, Clarice Michaels, Eleanor Adams, Pauline Artz, Dotty Cameron, Alice Freidel, Lois Grimm and Virginia Boyd.

Before the ceremonial the members were entertained by the Schenley Junior Komic Club Orchestra, which played several request numbers and several of the specialty numbers which, of course, was new for the members of the Manor Chapter, but which the members of their home chapter know and like very much.

MINSTREL SHOW

The minstrel show which was offered at the Washington Theater, Washington, for the members of the club, brought out the fact that this club has several talented youngsters who, when they are older, will make their mark in professional entertainment. Those who were outstanding in this minstrel show are:

Mary Jane Wood, 11, literally tied herself into knots in her contortionist dance. Gloria Concelmi, 9, stopped the show with her impersonation of Helen Kane, and the youngsters would not let her leave the stage until she had given two encores. Betty Jane Haught, a beautiful little platinum blonde, who is only 8, sang "Keepin' Out of Mischief" and followed with a novelty dance. This little miss also had to repeat her number.

Harold Wolfe turned out to be a natural born tap dancer, and, while he is only a little fellow of 12, certainly acted and danced as a big-time vaudeville artist.

"Am I Blue," as sung by little 11-year-old Myrtle Sholton, brought rounds of applause from everyone in the theater.

Ruth Farrell caused the audience to burst out in gales of laughter and rounds of applause with her recitation and interpretation of "Min at the Movies."

All in all, it was a great day and a great show, and one that will be remembered for a long time by all who attended.

The Mt. Oliver-Harris held its monthly election of officers last week, with the following results: Ruth Reid, grand jester; Jack Wall, Ronald Bowers, Helen Miller, Edith McLaughlin and Robert Hood, members of the board.

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend to the secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed to you.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Junior Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Belmar — William Mercer, Thomas McEvoy, William Long, Antoinette Russo, William Waller, Billy Picketts, Mary Lohr, Rachel Calabrese, Margaret Solomon.

Enright — Leo Davis, Ruth Reck, Margaret Renenow.

Rowland — Bernard Curren, Eleanor Hanson, John Nagely.

To gurgle very sweetly: "What was that? I didn't hear."

I'd ask it once, I'd ask it twice,
I'd make the boob repeat it thrice,
I'd make him keep repeating it,
I'd benefit humanity,
I'd make him keep repeating it
Till he had lost his sanity.

I'd like to have a trumpet,
A trumpet for my ear,
A long and shiny trumpet:
But not to help me hear.

Lessons of the Strike

Experiences of Postoffice Walkout Should Be Heeded In the Construction of Other Buildings.

The people of Pittsburgh heaved a sigh of relief at the news that the strike which has held up construction of the new postoffice for nine weeks has been ended.

The strikers apparently have gained a victory in the agreement of the Pittsburgh Building Trades Employers' Association to see that in work under the association's control only union engineers are employed on sand and gravel boats.

The public has not been much interested in the cause of the strike nor in the merits of the opposing contentions. The chief feeling has been one of disgust that an important and much needed public improvement should have been held up and hundreds of men kept in idleness at a time when thousands were clamoring for employment, and it was extraordinarily desirable that there should be no avoidable interruption of industry.

This feeling of disgust was increased by the failure of the contending parties to profit by the lessons of other building strikes in Pittsburgh in recent years. Time and again construction of large edifices, particularly public schools, has been held up by wrangles over the employment of nonunion men in work connected, perhaps only indirectly and remotely, with the building operations.

It is surely not too much to expect that the contractors and the unions have by this time learned the lesson that, if strikes are to be avoided, all these questions that have led to trouble must be anticipated and settled in advance of the commencement of operations. Before a spadeful of earth is turned let agreements be drawn up which will stipulate definitely the requirements as to the employment of union labor, more used to the house," Joe suggested.

Mrs. Peacock, who lived just around the corner, and had been Joe's landlady for three years, was a lifesaver, too.

"You just stop in any night to dinner," she told Val after they met, the morning of the second day when she arrived unannounced and uninvited, while Joe was at work.

"Well, I must say you are a pretty thing," she said, frankly sizing Val up from head to foot.

And she added, "We were all so surprised. I never thought he would marry. I saw your picture on his dresser but I always thought you were someone he never saw or heard from any more. Most everyone thought Pearl Neely would get him. But I never did. I could see he wasn't really interested. I have four boys of my own, and I know all about them. I don't know so much about girls, though . . ."

Val was surprised to see that Mrs. Peacock was really quite shy, in spite of her stout, solid appearance and her straightforward manner.

DINNER INVITATION

Two of her boys were in town, married to girls who were a little suspicious of her aggressive manner, Val imagined from what she said, and two were away. One was working in a law office in Cleveland, and one was taking post-graduate work at Boston Tech.

"So I always felt that Joe was one of mine," she went on earnestly, "and if you'll let me I'll look after you a bit, too. I say if you let me, because neither Edgar's nor Clark's wives want any help from me. Of course, they both have their mothers here, so I try not to interfere. But you, poor little thing, without your own folks . . . well! I thought maybe you wouldn't mind."

Val's chin quivered. She felt suddenly homesick. Mrs. Peacock's arms were around her instantly.

"There! Don't you care. I know how I felt when I was a young bride. I came here from Bangor, Me., and I felt like I couldn't ever get to feel at home. But I did. And so will you.

"You poor child, you! But never mind, Joe's a fine boy, and that's the main thing. You'll be all right.

"Now you and Joe come over to dinner tonight. With all my family away, and Herbie—that's Mr. Peacock—on the road half the time, why I haven't got any family at all, and I don't take boarders now. The boys don't think I ought to.

OBJECTS TO IMPOSITION

"Joe was my last boarder. I wouldn't have had him, only I liked him so much and he kind of took Horace's place—Horace was the last one to leave. My, but I'm glad you've come! I get so lonesome sometimes I could scream. Do you care for the movies?"

"Not—not very much," Val

"All right, I will. And I'll have a good dinner, too! A really swell one!"

"Then let's ask a couple of others, too. You haven't met any of the gang at all," Joe coaxed.

But when he saw Val's distress he agreed that it might be best to start in with Mrs. Peacock and Pearl Neely.

Val was excited and happy all the next morning, planning her dinner. The house might not be very pretty, but nobody expects much of a furnished apartment, and the table would be perfect.

PREPARES DINNER

It did look charming when she finished setting it, though she felt guilty at the price she had paid for roses for her centerpiece. Three dollars, and they weren't so much, at that! Back home in California . . . homesickness dimmed her eyes for a moment . . . home . . . Aunt Julia's garden, with the neat rose trees, and rows of snapdragons and marigolds and zinnias . . . never a month but what you could find SOMETHING to bring into the house, if it were no more than a handful of Cecil Breuners from the side yard, or some of the hardy, deep red climbing roses that grew up the side wall. And if you WANTED to buy florists' roses, you could get better ones than these for 50 cents . . .

Oh, well! They were pretty, if they did cost $3 . . .

Happily she went about her preparations for dinner. Janice Fletcher had given her a lovely book, with menus, as well as recipes, for all occasions. She decided on the "Roast Chicken Dinner."

Chilled Casaba melon, green turtle soup, roast chicken with stuffing, baked potatoes, green peas with mint, currant jelly, angel food, cafe noir. Now, that sounded good enough to impress that Pearl Neely!

The melon was a stumbling block at first, because it seemed they didn't have them in Minneapolis in October. But she took the grocer's advice and bought canned fruit salad, and canned mock turtle soup, because no one seemed to have heard of green turtles, though Millie's China boy had produced green turtle soup at least once a week without anyone being in the least impressed.

FOLLOWS INSTRUCTIONS

Well, the recipe looked complicated anyway, and no doubt the canned would be just as good. She hesitated over the angel food . . . Such a fussy thing to make, but this Pearl Neely, being a domestic science expert, would turn up her nose at the bakery kind, so she ordered a pan with a hole in it, and a dozen eggs.

The chicken turned out to be a large, blue-looking bird. Val eyed it with apprehension, should something be done with it? Perhaps it would have been

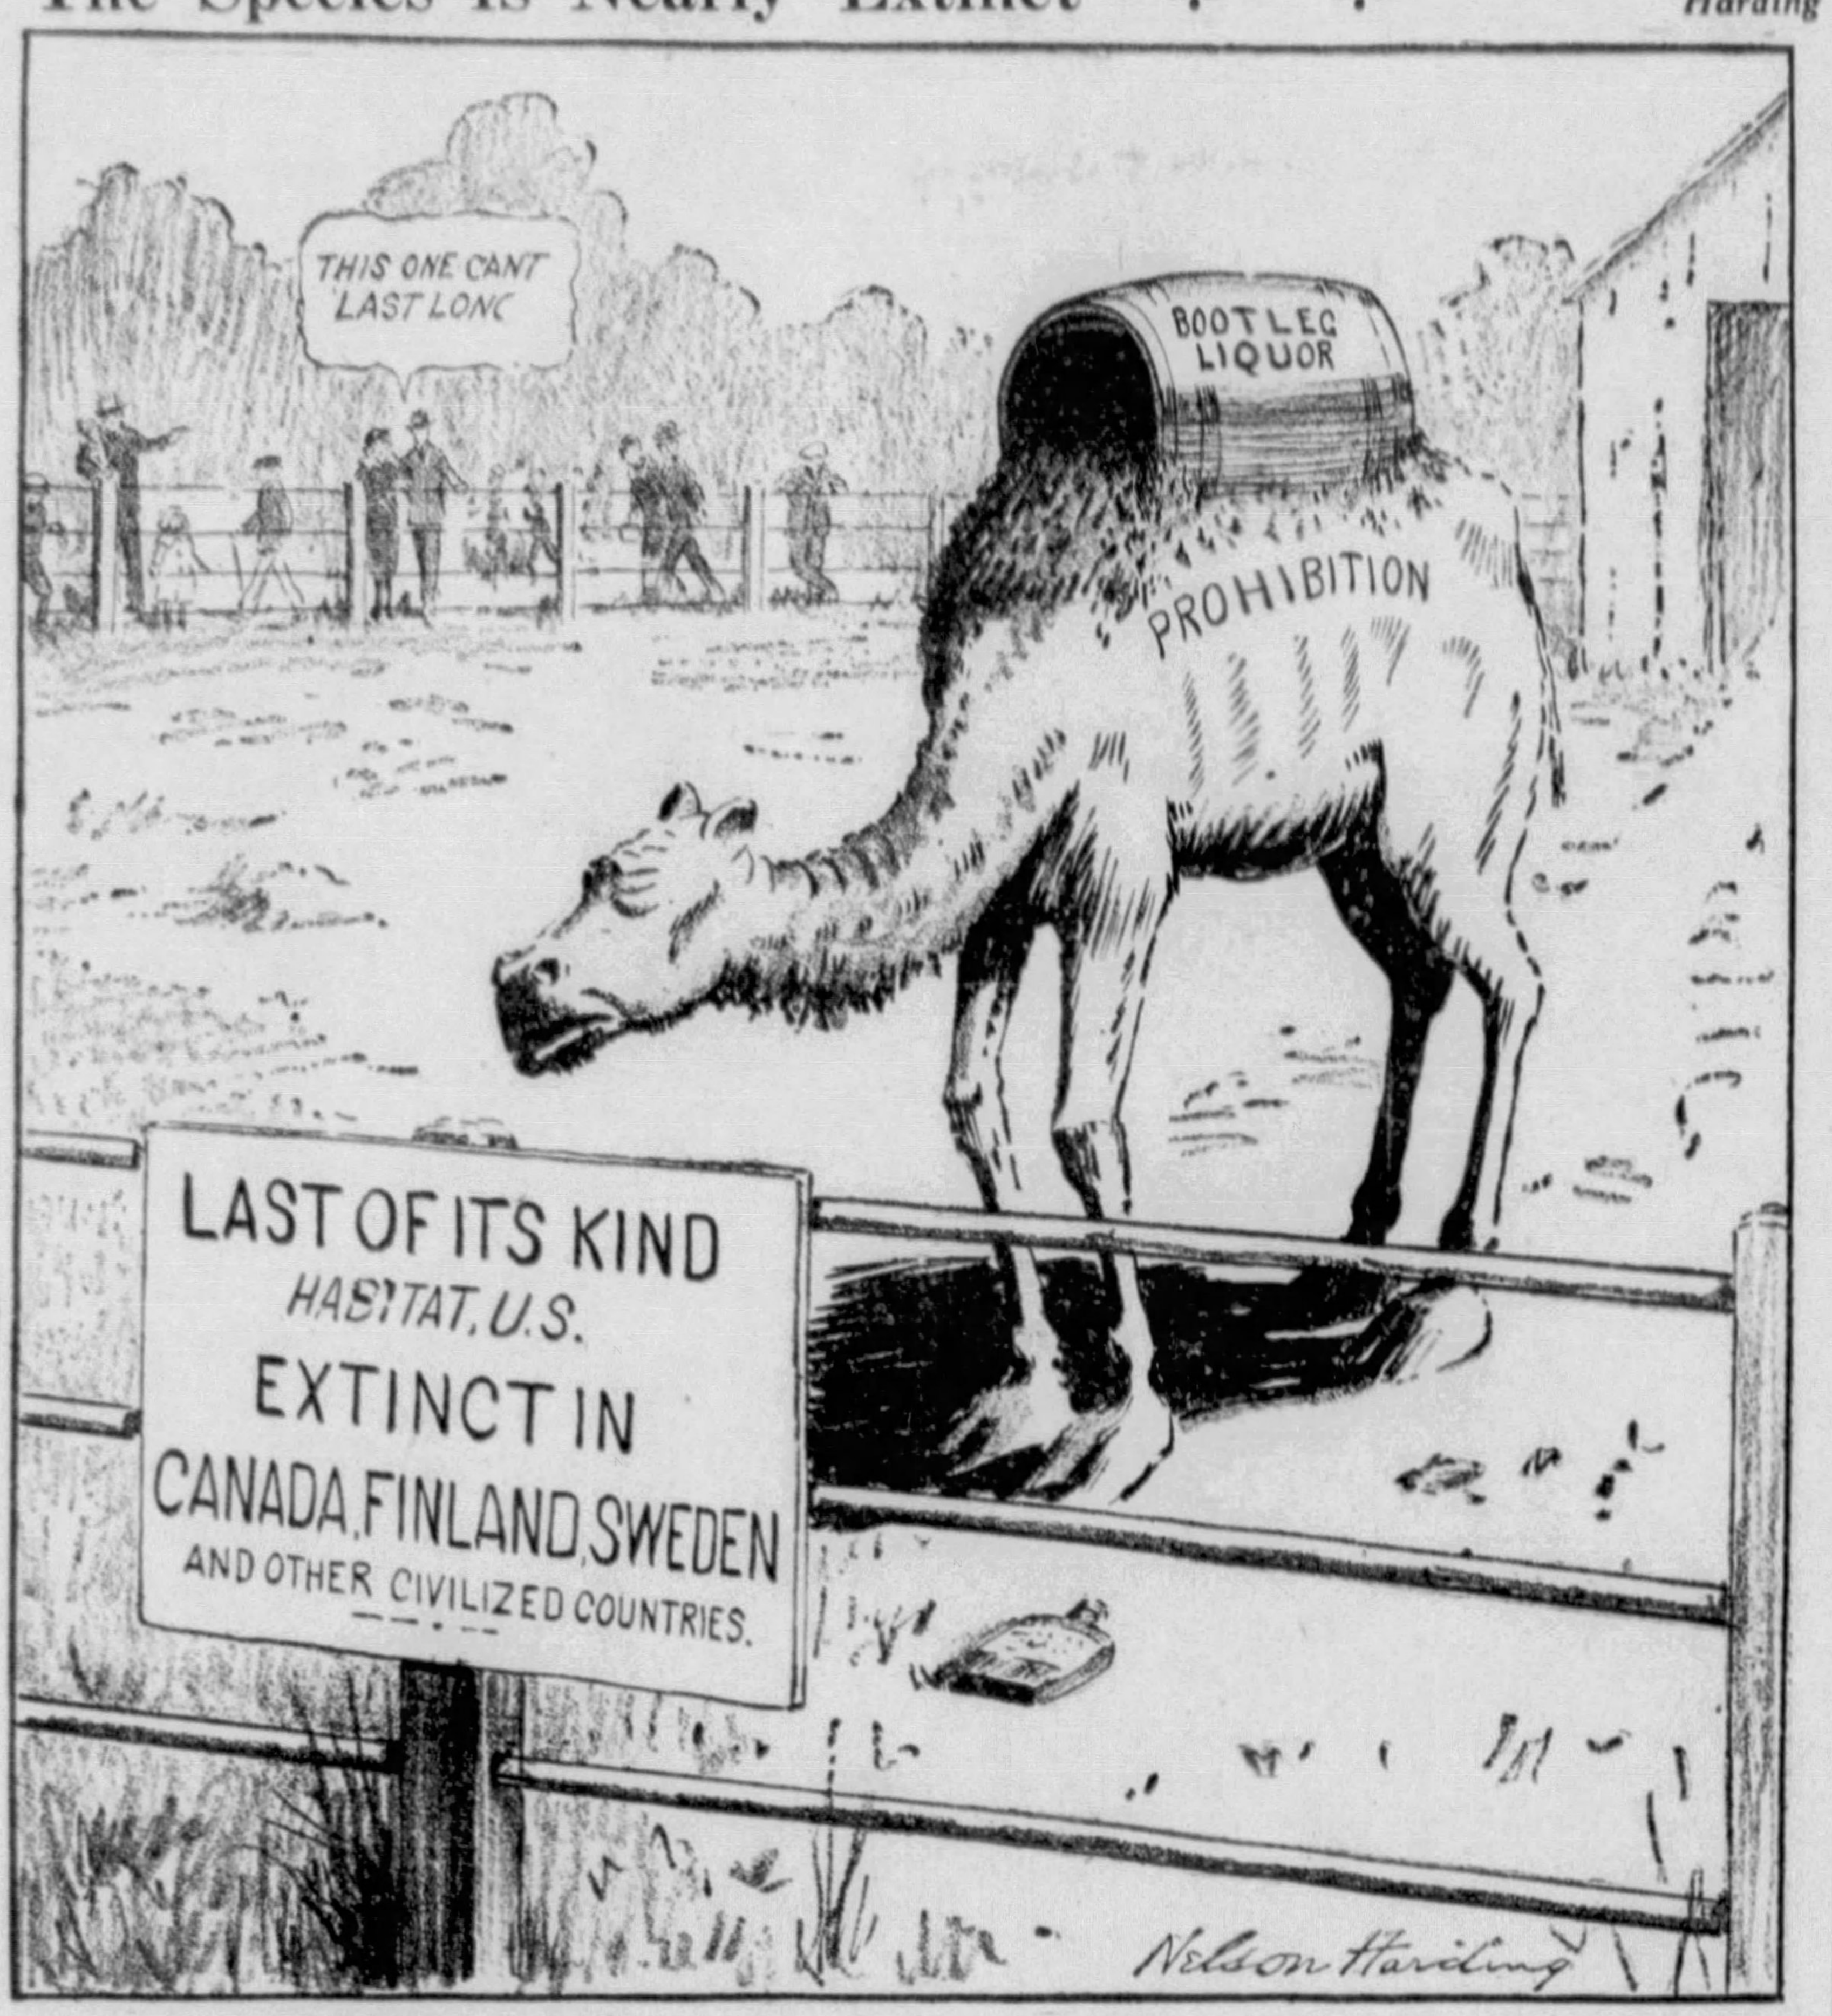
The Species Is Nearly Extinct

By Nelson Harding



This animal looks poor and thin,
The creature, in fact, is all in.
The expression is sad,
And the health just too bad,
For the poor thing has lost all its kin,

Once it was a wow for its size,
But never agreeable or wise,
It quit using its bean,
And its temper got mean.
So no one regrets its demise.

The "No-Girl"

The most intriguing line I have ead in a long while is that which leads the advertisement of a new ook by Alan Brener Schultz.

"She treated men as men treat omen," it runs. And apparently he got everything she wanted or ent after in life. But, HOW did he treat them? Did she bully hem one moment, pet them the ext, and forget them the next?

Funny, but the one thing on arth that a man can't seem to tand from a woman is uniform nd continuous good treatment. frightens him in the beginning, ets on his nerves in the end and ores him most of the time.

The girl who has learned to treat 'em rough" in a careless, indly good-natured way, can urn them away with a smile, very day in the week. She can ave them standing in line, waitng patiently for a casual pat on he head or a glint of friendly reponse in her eye.

They will run errands for her, et her order them about, and hink they are specially favored hen she permits them to do odd obs around the house.

While the girl who is always eady and waiting at the other nd of the telephone, always bubling over with cordiality and varm-hearted response, always rompt for a date, always ringing hem up and always sweeter than weet, has to COAX them to come round and play with her.

I MUST HURRY SHE MAY WANT ME TO RUN AN ERRAND

A man understands a girl who "treats men as a man treats women" — casually, gaily and lightly. His love will blossom like the rose under a woman's cool, sweet indifference; but it seems to shrivel right up under the warm actinic rays of her encouragement. He prefers a "nogirl" to a "yes-woman" any day!

All of which is very hard on a ormal woman, whose one delight n this life is to mother, coddle nd PLEASE some man, to be rank and honest and generous with him; to do everything she an to make him HAPPY. Because women are naturally tender, esponsive and unselfish in love; nd they can also be hard-boiled, when they are NOT in love.

* * *

It is a terrible cross to a woman o face the fact that the only an, of whose response and deotion she can be perfectly sure, the one to whom she is a little ndifferent—and whom she can, herefore, treat " as men treat omen."

AT SEA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

AT SEA, Sept. 22. — The ship slogs along in a vastness of blinking brilliance. Breakfasting betimes, I pilfered a red rose from the table, bedecked my lapel and began a circle of the deck, jauntily. But my buoyancy was short lived as a wave's break. A smartie, passing, cried: "Ah, Young Man of Manhattan."

Catastrophies are born of inconsequentials. Two ship acquaintances are berth-bound today. One was in high spirits until, on a clean sweep of scrubbed deck, he saw a dottle of tobacco from an emptied pipe. The other, at dinner, was served that atrocious delicacy, cock's combs in jelly.

Both, untrussed, lay in wan languor, eyes bright but curiously empty. I exhausted my sick-bed supply of jocoseria but it seemed only to annoy. So I left them to their grouches—and perhaps tastes —of dark brindle. Incidentally, a school teacher on board keeps her mind off mal de mer by conjugating "to live."

Harry Silvey seems to have abandoned vagrant amours of a six-day crossing and has consecrated his life to acquiring a Nubian coating on the sun deck. With his snow crown, he already suggests a white-turbaned Morrocan potentate. I shall introduce him in Paris as Agha Sil Vey.

I've fallen in love with a 14-months-old innocent, with questioning brown eyes and hair of sparkling golden. Her nurse in our corridor is teaching her to walk in leather harness. She wobbles into grinning squats. My wife said, it recalled someone's long ago Saturday night walk. But I didn't say whose!

Kenneth C. Collins, likely the most highly paid advertising man in the world, is a passenger. We have mutual friends but never met until a tea roundup in Jean Tillier's suite—and is it a palazzo! —today. Collins is youngish, alert and shining with sophistication. He is one of those astonishing successes America so frequently spawns. Broke, jobless and pretty much a failure, he was selected by the head of a department store for an executive post. Like many others, given The Big Chance, he proved a whirlwind. And his hat fits him still.

An ocean trip gives a man and wife a chance to talk things over in a way so often difficult in New York's violent jangle. It is surprising how many sentimentalities the hurly-burly crowds out. Astern tonight in the fuscous twilight, we watched the huge ship cutting its path of choppy phosphorescence. Gripped by so lovely a vision, after a long silence, I ventured: "We've been unusually lucky and rather happy, don't you think?" She touched my hand ever so lightly. It somehow conveyed enormous meaning. After all, is there anything in the wide world so startlingly eloquent as silence.

In the clutch of this softening mood, I wandered back into the ship's lounge but there was something jarring about its rather forced gaiety, and I found myself returning to the solace of the cool blue evening. And I sat there until the sun sank in its flame of crimson. One gets that way on an ocean voyage. You know, mushy.

Only one passenger is going in for free-hand Spencerian drinking. He is reputedly a rubber plantation owner—broad shouldered, suspicious eyed, glum. His tipple is brandy in wide flanged glasses and from early until late he sits at a remote table, rolling, inhaling and sipping, talking to no one. Last evening he was called by a courier on some mission. Returning, he stood swaying in the doorway until a quick lurch sent him bobbling to his corner. "Our big rubber man is bouncing," observed Mrs. Reginald Wright Kauffman, who up to that time had said very little.

For a trifling purchase in the ship shop I tendered a half dollar. The cashier, shaking his head, said: "I can't take that, sir." I suggested acridly he might then give it to the company. A man standing by said he was an American banker and would like to examine the coin. I snatched it quicker than that and ran like everything.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Is Mother a girls' best friend?

Wilma believes she is and, without a dissenting vote, All Mothers Incorporated, will agree with her.

But you might be surprised if you took a straw vote from the rest of the girls. However, let's give Wilma her say first.

Dear Miss Robinson:

Why do you so frequently criticize mothers? It is very hard to understand, particularly when you say that you are a mother yourself. Everybody knows that every mother's life is a sacrifice. Mother love is the most beautiful thing in any child's life, and a mother always knows what is best for her child. She lives so close to her children that she thinks of nothing but their welfare.

Why, when children are grown, do they forget that loving service? Why don't they turn to Mother for guidance as they did when they were little? Think how happy it would make her. Surely she still knows the world better than they do, for has she not had a much longer experience?

Let us make Mother happy while we can. She may leave us some day.

WILMA—A GROWN DAUGHTER

That's a nice letter. It will bring a lump into many a throat and a tear into many an eye, and I hope it makes some of our ungrateful sons and daughters sit down and write a note to the little old lady at home who gave them years of gentle, unselfish service.

But I still refuse to take back a word I've said.

IF MOTHERS WISH TO RANK AS AUTHORITIES, THEY MUST QUALIFY LIKE ANY OTHER CLASS OF CITIZENS.

The physical function of maternity does not endow a female with a knowledge of human psychology. It does not give her practical information concerning the world in which she lives, its opportunities, its changing attitudes, its political, social, industrial and economic problems. Nor does it enable her to guide her child in facing those problems.

A MOTHER MUST BE MORE THAN A MAMMA IF SHE IS TO BE HER CHILD'S BEST FRIEND.

SHE MUST BE A HAPPY, HEALTHY, HUSTLING, HUMAN BEING, AND HEP TO HER UNIVERSE.

AND SHE MUST, RIGHT AT THE START, CAN THE CLASSICAL IDEA THAT "EVERY MOTHER'S LIFE IS A SACRIFICE."

Any mother who considers maternity a sacrifice, shouldn't be a mamma. Motherhood is the most beautiful and joyous adventure on which any woman can embark. It's a woman's biggest and proudest opportunity. It requires work and risk and suffering and sacrifice—but so does any other big job. I have never been able to see why the hardships of motherhood should be considered more sacred than the hardships entailed in any other fine profession.

Any mother who tackles her job in the right spirit gets bigger rewards out of it than any other woman worker on earth. But she has to tackle it. She can't just loaf around and whine about how good she is, and expect her children to agree with her. Mothers must MAKE GOOD in 1932, like any other workers.

As for mother love being "the most beautiful thing on earth," it is exactly as big and as beautiful, as wise and reliable, as Mother is herself. The softness of a mother's heart is no guarantee for the shrewdness of a mother's brain. If a mother doesn't keep current; if she doesn't inform herself about her world and its conditions, she is as unreliable a guide for her child as the most stupid stranger. She can't even understand her own child without proper study.

"MOTHER INTUITION" LISTENS LOVELY? BUT DOESN'T MEAN A THING.

A MOTHER CAN'T KNOW HOW TO RUN HER JOB BY INTUITION, ANY MORE THAN A PLUMBER OR A CHEMIST OR AN ENGINEER.

And the twentieth century youngster knows it!

Why I Am a Better Republican Than President Hoover

By HON. GEORGE W. NORRIS,
U. S. Senator from Nebraska.
Copyright, 1932, Liberty Publishing Corporation.

(Reprinted in part from the September 24, 1932, issue of Liberty by permission of the editors.)

BEFORE this session of Congress convened President Hoover cried aloud that a moratorium (for Europe, not for the farmer) would save us all . . . But the moratorium saved neither us nor Europe. The hosannas that greeted Mr. Hoover ring false today.

Then Herbert Hoover came out with his Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Once more the cry went out: "This will bring relief and bring it at once." Once more the people were mesmerized by the false prophet in the White House. Once more they were led to believe that some mysterious power rested in Mr. Hoover and that he could get us over the fence by pulling on our bootstraps . . . But failure and disaster still followed the Hoover administration . . .

Two hundred and fifty million dollars which would have come from our debtors across the sea Mr. Hoover waved airily aside for the sake of his precious moratorium.

These governments had the money to pay this interest. One of them had actually paid. But Mr. Hoover, with a generous gesture, returned the money. Money that would have relieved the American taxpayer AIDED THE INTERNATIONAL BANKERS TO PAY PERSONAL INTERNATIONAL OBLIGATIONS.

THE law creating the Reconstruction Finance Corporation saddled $500,000,000 on the taxpayers' back. In addition to that amount it provided for the issuance of one and one-half billion in bonds guaranteed by the government.

Steadily our load increased. But the vision of relief faded farther and farther into the distance.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation may do a great deal of good. But it is expensive. It commences at the top instead of at the bottom. The theory of Mr. Hoover and those who backed these propositions was that the way to bring prosperity was to loan the money, wrung from our people by taxation, to big financial institutions, and that by making some people prosperous a few of the crumbs of prosperity would trickle down to the common man.

The railroads and the banks got the money. But it has not trickled down. The big financial institutions, aided by Mr. Hoover, were largely the same institutions which were instrumental in overthrowing the chariot of prosperity.

The radicals have been accused of wishing to soak the rich. There is little or no choice between this and the Hoover slogan of "soak the poor." I believe in "soaking" no one, but if I must make a choice I would not exempt the rich at the expense of the poor.

HERBERT HOOVER was sold to the country as a "superman." The country now realizes that NOT ONLY THE FEET BUT COLOSSUS ITSELF WAS MADE OF HUMAN CLAY LIKE THE REST OF US . . .

Mr. Roosevelt, too, is human. Mr. Roosevelt, too, will make errors. But he has the heart and the vision that Hoover lacks. He understands the plight of the farmer and the interrelation between agriculture and industry. The farmer buys in a protected market and sells in a world market, which we cannot control. Whenever we Progressives attempted to remedy the wrongs of the farmer we always met with the determined opposition of the combined wealth and the combined political machines of the country. And in every fight against us President Hoover has been the leader.

I expect a more intelligent attitude from Mr. Roosevelt.

How, then, can any patriotic man support Mr. Hoover merely because he is a Republican? . . .

I am the kind of Republican who believes in exposing wrong and evil wherever they fester. I prefer to wash my own dirty linen. If we desire the respect of the people, that is what we must do. Unless we proceed from this principle we forfeit the confidence and respect of honest men and women.

I HAVE often spoken out when I might have been silent. The worst sin that can be committed by a public official is to remain dumb when it is his conscientious duty to speak. If that makes me a bad Republican then I glory in being a bad Republican. I am a bad Republican solely because I believe that PRESIDENT HOOVER'S ATTITUDE TOWARD EVERY VITAL PROBLEM THAT FACES THE REPUBLIC IS WRONG, and that on most of these questions MR. ROOSEVELT IS RIGHT. Wall Street and the Power Trust will disagree with me . . .

I detest the spirit of partisanship which places party above country and barters the forgotten rights of the common man for public office . . . A political party is nothing but an instrumentality for government. There is nothing sacred about it . . .

When the rank and file of our people realize that, a new day will dawn for America. The eagle, emerging once more, will scatter the parrots of party regularity.
